Castro Subversion Plans in Western Hemisphere Disclosed by OAS Probe

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — Behind Fidel Castro's bombastic fulminating against those sanctions voted by the Organization of American States is the infuriating realization that he was caught with the goods and could not get away with it.

This was one time the burly Communist Cuban dictator couldn't lie, intrigue or bully his way out. The irrefutable evidence was overwhelming against him.

In the long and tense closed-door deliberations that culminated with 15 of the 20 OAS nations approving the tough crackdown, the decisive factor was an unpublished report documenting in detail Red Cuba's vicious and ruthless record of inciting violence, chaos and subversion throughout Latin America.

Submitted by a five - member OAS committee appointed especially to investigate many charges and complaints, the report's unchallengeable disclosures and findings are a devastating indictment of the Castro regime and its malevolent machinations.

The report's over-all conclusion sums up graphically the scathing tenor and forcefulness of its condemnation, as follows:

"Virtually from the time the present government of Cuba came into power, that country has been converted into a true base for the promotion of subversion in other republics of the hemisphere. The purpose of extending the Communist revolution to the remainder of the hemisphere has been publicly stated by members of the present government of Cuba and brought out also in connection with invasions or attempted invasions.

"There exists a constant and systematic activity of radio propaganda, through government transmitters of Cuba, aimed at defaming the governments of other countries of the hemisphere, discrediting representative democratic institutions, insulting the executives of other republics of the hemisphere, fomenting disorders and inciting violent subversion of legally constituted regimes. The government press and the single party of the Cuban government constantly carry on work along

Law Authorities Apprehensive in Rochester, N.Y.

By GENE SCHROEDER

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Law enforcement authorities — looking ahead apprehensively to the approaching weekend in riot-scarred Rochester — have clamped down on pistol permit applications.

The temporary ban on the issuance of such applications came as the city spent another relatively quiet night without a renewal of the bloody racial violence that rocked two Negro sections last weekend. A four-day suspension of liquor sales was lifted Wednesday.

City and state police continued patroling the trouble areas, and some 1,500 National Guard troops stood by ready to move in and help quell any new outbreaks.

Fred Moriarty, deputy county clerk, said he had been asked by the city's detective division to issue no more pistol permit applications to Rochester residents.

The request came after it was noted that Monday and Tuesday brought nearly three times the normal number of applications, Moriarty said.

Lifting of the liquor ban followed by less than 24 hours the apparently successful suspension of the dusk-to-dawn curfew. Both restrictions were imposed on the city after the rioting broke out last weekend.

The violence resulted in the death of four persons, injuries to 350 and property damage estimated in the millions of dollars.

Deputy Police Chief Clarence DePrez said investigators had established that a teen-age group called the "upsetters" was the prime force in triggering the weekend riots.

DePrez said the violence was touched off when unidentified members of the group attempted to prevent the arrest for disorderly conduct of a youth at a street dance.

He contended that their actions amounted to an open invitation for others to follow, and the incident then flared out of control.

A Negro woman, who may have saved the life of Police Chief William Lombard during the rioting, was released without bail Wednesday, informally

Million Dollar School Bought For $35 Tax

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Somebody goofed in this northern Ohio city, and Adam Gadanac Sr. wound up buying a $1-million elementary school for $35.

"I don't know all the legal aspects of the deal," the school board president, Richard P. Culbertson, said Wednesday, "but right now it looks like Gadanac owns the school."

Culbertson said the board thought it had acquired the Woodford Elementary School site in 1955, but apparently the purchase never was completed. Finally, after unpaid tax bills piled up, the county placed the four-acre lot on the auction block and Gadanac bought the property.

'Rights' Leaders Cautious About Call for Truce

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leaders in some cities express reservations about a call by Negro leaders for an end to most, if not all, mass demonstrations in the nation until after Election Day.

The national leaders were critical of what they called the "states rights platform" adopted by the Republican convention that nominated Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

Their statement, issued Wednesday night after a "summit meeting," said: "We believe that racism has been in-

Book Store Must Move; 50,000 Books Given Free

BOSTON (AP)—The Brattle Book Shop, patronized through its 139 years by literary greats, youths who became presidents, and just plain booklovers, is faced with moving day, so the owner is giving away 50,000 books.

Owner George Gloss announced the free books after several days of bargains for bibliophiles—50 cents for any book, then a quarter, then a dime. Today they're free.

"I am going to give away, free of charge, 50,000 books," Gloss said "as a gesture of good will to booklovers."

He must vacate his location in the Sears Crescent Building by Friday. The building is being renovated as part of the government center under construction and Gloss says he cannot afford the new rent which he says will be 10 times higher.

All other buildings in the old Scolla Square area have been demolished to make way for the center. Only the Crescent Building has been spared.

The dusty, poorly lighted second-hand book store has long been a mecca for searchers for rare books, or an ordinarily expensive medical text book at greatly reduced price.

Browsers through the years have included John Quincy Adams, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the latter two as Harvard students.

Literary greats John Greenleaf Whittier, James Russell Lowell and Ralph Waldo Emerson were among the intellectuals who used to gather behind the high shelves.

The Brattle Book Shop, one of several which crowded the area at one time, was originally known as Burnham's, then Coleworthy's.

It has been in the Crescent building since 1825. A fire in the shop last fall forced a move from 58-60 Cornhill to 50-52 Cornhill in the same building.

Gloss is moving to nearby Washington Street, a short walk, into a store with lower rent.

During the 10 cents-a-book sale Wednesday, stylishly dressed matrons, girl students in shorts, boys in jeans took home first editions, mathematics tomes, private memoirs of long-forgotten Bostonians, books on history, and good, fair and inferior fiction.

WHERE RANGER WILL HIT MOON—H. M. Schurmeier, project manager for Ranger 7, shows on an enlarged photo of the moon where the speeding spacecraft is expected to land Friday. Schurmeier told a press conference at Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., that the Ranger will smash into the Sea of Clouds, a wide plain on the moon's lighted side, but before crashing, will take closeup photos of the moon's surface which will be transmitted to the earth. The photos will help to determine terrain where future astronauts may land. (AP Wirephoto)

Excessive Crime Featured on TV, Prober Declares

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd said today prime television time is permeated with programs "featuring excessive crime, violence and debased moral standards."

In a statement prepared for the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee on the reopening of its hearings on television programming, the Connecticut Democrat said developments since its original inquiry in 1961-62 failed to demonstrate "the increased concern and cooperation we were led to expect."

Dodd, the subcommittee chairman, said that early this year he had ordered a study of current programs to assess whether the reduction of violence predicted by network officials in 1961 and 1962 had actually occurred.

"I find that with the exception of one network, CBS, very little improvement is evident," he said. "Not only did we fail to see an appreciable reduction of violence in new shows, but we also found that the most violent shows of the 1961-62 season have been syndicated and are now being reshown on independent networks and stations.

"We discovered that unjustifiable violence and brutality permeate new shows which center around college campuses, hospitals, psychiatrists' offices and other unlikely locations, in addition to the presence of violence in its earlier habitats—adventure, Western and detective programs."

In calling officials of the three networks to testify, Dodd said that there now is available much more evidence than there was two years ago of "a significant relationship" between violence shown on films and the behavior of viewers, particularly juveniles.

Dodd said that because of predictions during the earlier hearings that violence would be reduced, he had refrained so far from introducing remedial legislation, "one of the alternatives we have considered to assure the operation of the television industry in the best interests of the public."

Engle underwent a second brain operation last April 24. He had suffered partial paralysis and speech difficulty since a brain operation here last Aug. 24.

White House Doesn't Want Union 'Help'

According to the New York Times, when a high-ranking White House staff member learned about an effort to unionize the grounds staff of the White House, he called a friend at the "pink marble headquarters of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations across Lafayette Square from the White House."

The White House man was tactful, the New York Times report said, but the gist of his message was clear: "Call it off."

The report said it took only a call from this AFL-CIO man to the laborers' union with the suggestion that better organization fields lay elsewhere, to squelch the effort at unionization.

Working cowgirl and cowboy classes are open only to those boys and girls who wish to don the work clothing of the westerner.

Handsome trophies of a horse on a pedastal and fancy western belt buckles will be awarded to one boy and one girl winnig first place in each of the three classes. By RALPH DIGHTON

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists watched with growing elation today as Ranger 7 sailed peacefully through space with a cargo of cameras now given an 80 per cent chance of snapping history's first closeups of the moon.

Radioed information indicated all instruments aboard the 806-pound vehicle were in normal condition, including the television system designed to go into action just before impact at 8:25 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Friday.

There was no threat so far of the technical troubles that foiled six previous Ranger shots.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory which made and is guiding Ranger 7 on its 228,000-mile voyage, says the insect-shaped spacecraft has passed the worst of its hurdles and has a four-out-of-five chance of success.

He upped the odds from 50-50 Wednesday after a minor trajectory adjustment 100,000 miles out in space aimed Ranger 7 at a 50-300- mile area in the Sea of Clouds, just southwest of the center of the moon.

Ranger 7 now is cruising while scientists determine whether one final correction must be made before the spacecraft plunges into the moon at 5,800 miles an hour.

Its six cameras, peering out a hole in the side of its cone-shaped body, must be pointed straight down when they begin snapping 4,000 pictures in the final 13 minutes of flight.

If the craft is in proper position no correction will be made. Otherwise, tiny jets will be sent a signal one hour before impact to roll the craft around in space until the right photographic angle is achieved.

Pickering said the Sea of Clouds was chosen as a target because it is in the half of the moon that will be lighted by the sun at time of impact.

Shadows in the area at the time will approximate those of late afternoon on earth, highlighting the craters and other prominences on the moon.

Another American Officer Killed in Viet Nam War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Army officer was reported killed in a major Viet Cong ambush of a government battalion north of Saigon before dawn today. Government casualties were reported "extremely heavy," reliable sources said.

An American spokesman declined immediate comment but acknowledged that a major action had taken place.

If the American death is confirmed, it will be the fifth in South Viet Nam in the past three days and the 164th in action since December 1961.

The Viet Cong ambushed a government unit moving from the regimental headquarters of Ben Suc to Ben Cat, 30 miles north of Saigon, to begin an early morning operation.

Scattered action has been continuing in the Ben Cat region for three days, and the operation today was apparently planned to rout guerrillas still in the area.

However, the guerrillas moved first, ambushing the long line of convoy vehicles and inflicting heavy casualties before melting back into the jungle. Government pursuit forces were sent in but no contact was made.

Prophetess Leads African Rebels On Bloodbath

By JOHN MCCAUSLAND

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Terrified refugees say warriors of the fanatic Lumpa religious sect speared 50 African men to death in two North Rhodesian villages, drove the surviving women and children into grass huts and burned them alive.

The refugees from neighboring villages said 200 men, women and children died in the slaughter at Chipwata and Etmabundo, near the sect's headquarters in the northeast sector of this central African British territory.

Some 1,600 Africans fled Wednesday to the mission station at Mulanga, 20 miles away, seeking protection from the disciples of Lumpa "prophetess" Alice Lenshima who have been on a rampage of murder, arson and looting for more than a week.

Previously the government had reported 41 dead, including 30 Lumpas.

Troops stood guard over the refugees while the rest of a 1,200-man force of troops and police prepared a full-scale attack on the marauders. Prime Minister Kenneth Kaunda, head of Northern Rhodesia's first all-African government, promised: "There will be no appeasement of the sect."

British Gov. Sir Evelyn Hone flew with Kaunda Wednesday to Chinsali, the center of the violence 500 miles northwest of Lusaka.

Alice Lenshima, a matronly woman in her 40s, was reported holed up in Kasomo village, six miles from Chinsali. Government officials were reported unwilling to capture her for fear of setting off more violence.

Space Craft Paraglider Test Success

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A kite-like paraglider recovery vehicle has eased a Gemini spacecraft to earth in operations at this desert test center.

Test pilot E. P. Hetzel controlled the inflated glider from inside the test spacecraft as it descended Wednesday from 2,600 feet.

The glider and capsule were towed aloft by a helicopter, which then followed the descent at the end of a loose emergency line.

Hetzel is scheduled to make a free flight from 12,000 feet soon.

The paraglider is being developed by North American Aviation as a possible means of lowering a Gemini spacecraft to earth after an orbital flight.

Captain's Rank Most Dangerous In Viet Nam War

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Enemy bullets are hitting more American officers than enlisted men in the war in South Viet Nam.

The most dangerous rank is captain.

Roughly 60 per cent of the 163 U.S. servicemen killed in combat here since December 1961 have been officers. A comparable percentage applies to more than 1,000 wounded in action.

Of the 16,300 American servicemen here now, one out of four is an officer. There are a dozen generals. Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell was wounded during helicopter missions before he returned home recently. Of the 3,000 U.S. servicemen in the field as advisers, the percentage of officers is even high-

Math Whiz Miss U.S.A. Competes at Miami Beach

By KELLY SMITH

She probably is one of the calmest beauty winners on record. Eight thousand people watched her step smoothly from the line of 15 semifinalists and receive the Miss U.S.A. crown without a tear.

Bobbi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duane B. Johnson, kissed her backstage, told her she had had some "tough competition," then set about congratulating the runnersup:

Tall Diane Balloun, Houston, Texas, first runnerup; Patricia Marlin, Fairbanks, Alaska, second; Janet Joy Erickson, Salt Lake City, third, and Johnna Ruth Reid, Paducah, Ky.

The winner's eye-catching dimensions, 35-22-35, are more than skin deep. Bobbi is a National Science Foundation scholar and attended the University of Kansas last year as an honors program mathematics major. She wants to program electronic computers.

"I love school. But taking this year out doesn't really bother me. I would much rather be doing this." She will spend a year traveling to promote the Miss Universe pageant.

"I didn't used to be superstitious about numbers, but I'm getting that way fast. My birthday is March 24th, my number in the Washington D.C., pageant was 24, and my number in this pageant is 24."

One of Bobbi's most talked about experiences is her serenade from Ricky Nelson, singing son of Ozzie and Harriet.

"He crowned me Kansas City Auto Show Queen of 1963. He kissed me and he serenaded me," she said hesitantly. "He was very nice."

Like many 120-pounders, she has "to watch my weight some. I like food too much."

Bobbi had speaking experience as valedictorian of her Raytown, Mo., High School class, but Wednesday night's state speech was her biggest stumbling block.

3,000 Travel Pikes Peak on Busiest Day

More than 3,000 persons passed through the toll gates of the Pikes Peak Highway Monday to mark the busiest day of the season this year.

Jack Sullivan, road superintendent, said that 3,268 persons went up the Peak Monday to bring the season's total to 130,000, which is about even with last year's pace.

He said that the number of passengers using the road dropped to 2,800 Tuesday. Peak year for the Peak highway was 1956 when 280,192 persons used the road.

Ruby Mentally Treated as Boy, Evidence Shows

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Henry Wade denied Wednesday that his staff withheld evidence about Jack Ruby's mental condition when the striptease club manager faced a jury on a charge of murdering Lee Harvey Oswald.

Defense lawyers said Tuesday Wade should have revealed that Ruby, 53, was treated in an Illinois mental hospital while a boy. They argued that the information was in an FBI report furnished to prosecutors and that it would have bolstered the defense plea of temporary insanity.

"We didn't withhold anything," Wade said. "We didn't have this information at the time of Ruby's trial. Actually, I can't see that it makes any difference anyway what happened to him when he was a 10-year-old boy. I can't see how it would have any bearing on the murder charge against him."

Defense lawyers attacked Dean's testimony as they listed 15 reasons why they think the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals should grant Ruby a new trial.

"We regard all 15 reasons as extremely important," said Clayton Fowler, Ruby's chief defense lawyer. "The Court of Criminal Appeals could properly grant a new trial on any of them. But Dean's testimony may well be the most important. It was highly damaging to the defense since it showed premeditation."

Defense lawyers say Judge Joe B. Brown should not have permitted Dean to relate statements which he said Ruby made while under arrest. The officer quoted Ruby as saying he planned to murder Oswald after the 24-year-old Marxist was accused of assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

"We'll reply to this argument in our brief," Wade said.

Assistant Dist. Atty. William F. Alexander termed the claim that Dean testified falsely "the unsworn statement of some disgruntled lawyers."

Seattle Seafair Observes Its 15th Birthday

By ELDON BARRETT

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Seafair, Seattle's annual salty celebration, is 15 years old this summer.

And a lot of skeptics who doubted the watery Mardi Gras would ever get down the ways, let alone stay afloat, have been forced o eat a lot of crow . . . er . . . seagull, since Seafair was born.

But it's a hale and hearty celebration and it attracts visitors from all over the world during its 10 days and a sort of a midsummer madness seems to set in from Chinatown to Skid Road to Alki Point to the University District.

Ordinarily staid businessmen dress up and play pirate under raucous command of Davey Jones and Capt. Kidd, who in everyday life may be a bank president and restauranteur. Clowns romp about the streets. No one thinks it strange when he sees a Chinese laddie swirling a bagpipe down Pike Street in a Scotch kilt.

Every day and night there is a parade. The fleet comes in and Uncle Sam's sailors dance in the streets. And as for les girls—why, man, they've got 'em by the floatful.

But just to get the folks in the mood, Greater Seattle, Inc., a booster organization that sponsors the extravaganza, jumps the gun and stages several events before the Seafair period.

This summer, for example, Bob Hope brought a troupe into Seattle's new Coliseum and packed the house for four days.

Hope's was the first shop staged in this center, which served as one of the main buildings during the Seattle World's Fair.

During Seafair, the Aqua Follies splash about in Seattle's Aqua Theater hard by lovely Green Lake in the north end residential district. Pat Suzuki, this city's own star who made good in Broadway's "Flower Drum Song," is one of he features of the Aqua Theater show.

No less than nine parades will be marched, the most spectacular of which is a torchlight procession when an estimated 200,000 persons will line downstreets to see the colorful event.

And do you know who will be there among he crowd? Why sure. Those fellows who 15 years ago said it wouldn't go.

Statistics as Smog In Smoking Riddle

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a study of 5,381 white women members of the Kaiser Foundation Health Plan., Dr. Jaocb Yerushalmy, of the University of California, found that almost twice as many smokers as non-smokers failed to carry their babies to term..

The ratio, as reported in "Medical Tribune," a publication for doctors: 6.4 per cent prematures among smoker, 3.5 among non-smokers.

However, the mortality rate for the premature infants of non-smokers was strikingly higher—232.1 per 1,000 against 137.7 per 1,000 for those of smokers.

What is the significance? Are premature babies of mothers who smoke hardier than those of abstainers?

Most unlikely, said Dr. Yerushalmy. He said he cited the figures merely to show how, in connection with smoking, statistics can mislead.

Rocket Plane Tested For Better Results

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An X15 rocket plane has streaked 3,511 miles an hour to help find a short cut to sturdier and less expensive supersonic aircraft.

Air Force Capt. Joe Engle leveled off at 78,000 feet in Wednesday's flight to simulate conditions supersonic transports and bombers face.

Glued on the X15's tail was a sheet of brown silicon rubber designed to halve the metal-melting heat fast planes build up by friction with the atmosphere.

At Wednesday's speed, leading edges of the plane would normally have heated up to 900 degrees. Complete results of the test were not revealed.

WIDENING SCOPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Peace Corps Office of the National Council of Churches will expand its services in 1965 to "seek to help Christians become involved at the points of greatest need in the world where their skills and talents can best be used." For the past two and a half years, the office has served as liaison between the Corps and the churches.

Air India Has Sense of Humor Booklet Says

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"True to the traditions of Eastern hospitality, the hostess will embrace thee at destination . . . But whilst you're thanking Providence for the heaven in your arms, she's recovering our cutlery from your pockets."

That intriguing paragraph is taken verbatim from a little pamphlet distributed aboard Air India's airliners. The gist of the booklet is that passengers should have a sense of humor to fly Air India, because the booklet makes it only too clear that the airline has one.

Written mainly for passengers (1) flying Air India for the first time, (2) flying to India for the first time or (3) flying for the first time, it contains such advice as: "If you think we're the worst airline in the world, tell us and with tears in our eyes we shall promise to improve."

It describes Air India's captains as "a cross between Gaugin and Lady Chatterly's lover." It explains that airlines no longer weigh passengers because "It's a waste of time with the number of empty seats on board."

It urges the "tough ones who never get airsick" not to stare at the less fortunate who do.

"Pretend you haven't noticed a thing," the pamphlet continues, "and when the going is particularly heavy, comment casually on the birth rate or the Berlin situation. He'll realize you're a gentleman and if he's a lady it may be a long-term investment."

Real Yuk Book

Like all airlines, Air India recommends that you look around before deplaning to make sure you haven't forgotten something.

"Our directors all wear watches which our passengers originally purchased," the booklet adds.

Other items:

Indian hotels — "When provoked, do not hesitate to use such descriptions as 'clip joint' and 'when in the hell is the customer right?' "

Wearing pith helmets—"Livingstone and Theodore Roosevelt are no particular heroes of the Indian public and so the pith helme arouses little enthusiasm in this land. Its presence on your head will only mean that you'll be taken for a ride when you go shopping."

Indian movies — "To those who seek darkness and are indifferent to the fare, remember that halfway through the show every light will be switched on. Having been caught ourselves, we'd have to have it happen to a pal."

Passengers—"There are two kinds of passengers, the kind we'd die for and the kind we'd like to outlive."

Tipping—"Please don't tip our staff, from our directors on down. The management is fussy on this ruling and if anyone is caught it means the sack. As a result, our staff turnover is terrific, particularly among our executives."

Customs—"It took seconds for the benigh Jekyll to become an interesting fiend and the Indian customs inspector operates on the same schedule when he locates items not intended for his eyes."

Hostess: if she's by your side in split seconds, in fact within the next 30 minutes, no one will be more surprised than we."

Getting off before destination — "If the beautiful creature three rows ahead reminds you of the Alphonso Mago in the season of Alphonsos and she's getting off at Cairo, by all means quit the ship and good hunting to you, sir. But there being no pleasure without pain, you'll come up against the book which says that termination of flight without notice may entail cancellation charges."

Final paragraph—"We'd like to say you're the most gorgeous 130 we've ever had but then our other passengers might feel bad And so, bowing low, we salaam thee farewell."

Symbolic Pin Is Prized by Wearer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but sometimes a simple, inexpensive piece of jewelry can be worth more than its weight in gold.

Such is the case with a small, clover-leaf-shaped pin worn by 2.5 million young girls and adults in this country. The pin is the Girl Scout trefoil, official emblem of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Employes Also Enter Baby Feeding Contest

NEW YORK (UPI)—Have you ever wondered if employes of large companies feel cheated when they read about contests that are being conducted by their employer but are not open to participation by company employees?

Recently, the Edward Dalton Company, division of Mead, Johnson & Company, celebrating the 30th anniversary of Pablum infant cereal, announced a photo contest offering $1,000 in prizes for the best photographs of children being fed or feeding themselves. Contest rules carried the standard notation that company employes were not eligible to participate.

When about to publish information about the contest in the company's house organ, it occurred to staff members to devise a similar but separate contest that only employees could enter, thus eliminating the reasonable possibility they might feel "left out."

Computer Used for 'Perfect Formula'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Miss Formula is the apple of Calcomp plotter's eye — after all, she was partly its idea.

The plotter, which displays computer information, took time out from drawing weather maps, oil field findings, brain waves and molecular structures to sketch its idea of the perfect female form.

From toe to tip, bikini-clad Miss Formula rolled out of the machine. Calcomp's solution: height, 5 ft. 6 in.; weight 115-118 lbs.; and, predictably, 36-24-36.

It took 1.2 seconds to complete the drawing, and a week of analysis by engineers of California Computer Products, Inc. to feed the computer.

'More of Same' Promised for Video Viewers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A wise Frenchman once noted that the more a thing changes, "the more it is the same thing." It is doubly true of television programs.

Five years ago this reporter made his first trip to the film capital for a pre-season inspection of the fall programs.

There were many, many more Westerns on the schedules. Gene Barry, now one of television's top cops, was the fancy-vested, cane-carrying Bat Masterson; Richard Boone, the heroic Paladin; Hugh O'Brian, Wyatt Earp—shows that gave every promise of going on forever.

There were so many other lesser entries that a viewer could watch for hours without ever leaving the mythical old West.

"Maverick," a sprightly spoof of the Western was a big hit and "Gunsmoke" had struck audience gold. "Bonanza" however, then was fighting a losing Nielsen-rating battle with "Perry Mason" on Saturday nights.

It was the last year in which there were any important shows starring women—Loretta Young, June Allyson and Barbara Stanwyck were stars of their own anthology series. They ultimately fell before low ratings and a scornful tag of "night-time soap operas."

There's a bit of irony in the fact that this fall one network will produce a night-time soap opera and call it a "programming innovation."

The private eyes and the gentlemen adventurers were all over the networks: "Peter Gunn," with Craig Stevens playing television's first truly custom-tailored, sophisticated sleuth.

Craig Stevens will be back in a couple of months, playing an adventure-prone, custom-tailored, sophisticated press agent in CBS' "Mr. Broadway," a change without real change.

The Western, five years ago, was undisputed king of television, but the situation comedy was the vigorous crown prince. There was "Angel," a short-lived reverse switch on "I Love Lucy," "The Ann Southern Show," "The Tab Hunter Show," "The Tom Ewell Show," "Pete and Gladys," and "Dennis the Menace."

Some, like "Bachelor Father," "The Real McCoys" and "Dobie Gillis," stayed around for several years before expiring of general debility. Others, like "The Donna Reed Show" and "Ozzie and Harriett," are still very much with us. Lucy's show, minus the two husbands and under a new title, is around and people love Lucy as much as ever.

Two-thirds of the programs of five years ago have gone into television's Valhalla-the re-run circuit. Surivors are the strong ones—Red Skelton, Lawrence Welk, Ed Sullivan, Bob Hope, the best of the panel shows.

Looking backward it now appears that the 1960 television season was hardly one of the industry's memorable vintage years. But except for a switch of emphasis and titles, it really doesn't seem to be much different from the menu offered now for September's feast of new programs.

Senate Rejects Disclosure of Solon Finances

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has turned down proposed new rules for disclosure of the outside financial interests of its members and top employes.

Instead, it has thrown its support to setting up a 17-member commission to conduct a two-year study of measures to insure high ethical standards among all federal officials.

Establishment of the study commission may come up for a final vote today, although a bill to limit meat imports may be given priority.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, expressing surprise over the turn of events in the Senate Monday night, indicated he wanted to explore the situation before making a decision.

The financial disclosure resolutions that went down to defeat were the outgrowth of the Senate Rules Committee's investigation of the fortune Bobby Baker accumulated while secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority.

Baker resigned under fire last Oct. 7. In a report to the Senate earlier this month the committee said he had been "guilty of many gross improprieties."

The committee recommended a new Senate rule requiring sentors and all Senate employes arning over $10,000 a year to disclose annually their major outside financial interests—but not the value of their holdings nor the income derived from them.

But Monday night the senate voted 48 to 39 to send this proposal back to the committee with instructions that it report out forthwith a substitute measure providing for establishment of a 17-member commission on ethics in the federal government.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois made the motion after he protested against singling out the Senate alone for action to safeguard against any conflicts of interest or other improprieties.

"We've demeaned ourselves long enough—and all over one fallen angel," he said in reference to Baker. "It's about time to stop."

Several senators promptly said the adoption of Dirksen's motion probably killed any chance for congressional action on conflict- of-interest legislation at this year's session of Congress.

The Senate also defeated 62 to 25 a far more sweeping disclosure rule than the Rules Committee proposal. It was offered by Sen. Joseph S. Clark- D-Pa.

It voted 59 to 27 against a proposal by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to require senators and other top Senate employes to submit copies of their federal income tax return and a list of their financial assets to a new watchdog committee.

Two 17-year old Ent airmen were in police custody this morning for investigation of the theft of golf clubs and clothing worth a total of $110 from the garage of Alice M. Shumaker, 419 E. Jefferson St.

The theft was reported to have occurred between Monday and Wednesday and was one of four such cases reported by police this morning.

A toy bank containing $31 was stolen from the home of Caroline M. Livingston, 1513 N. Alamo Ave. The money was taken from a dresser drawer sometime between Monday and Wednesday. Thieves are believed to have entered through the back door.

Clara Mather, 715 E. Platte Ave., reported the theft of her purse containing $8 from a table in her home Wednesday afternoon. The table was near an open door. She discovered the purse had been taken when she woke from a nap.

A 15-year-old boy was caught by police after he broke into the Union Hobbies store, 829 N. Union Blvd., Wednesday morning. Police were dispatched to the scene on a report that the boy had been seen in the store. The case is being handled by juvenile authorities.

Election Posters Illegal Within Rights of Way

Joe Doaks may tell you through a poster that he's the best candidate for office in the upcoming elections, but he can't do it within the rights of way of public streets, roads or alleys or parks.

That's the word from City Manager John M. Biery and Keith McBurney, chairman of the El Paso County Board of Commissioners.

No election posters may be installed in those areas in both the city and county. Illegally posted signs will be taken down from poles, trees and other places in the designated areas and the offenders may be prosecuted.

The officials suggested that candidates advise their workers of the regulations regarding posters and signs.

Two Injured In Accident

A man and woman were injured Wednesday morning in a two-car accident at the intersection of Institute Street and Pikes Peak Avenue.

George J. Troutman, 27, of Tulsa, Okla., suffered a bump on the head and declined medical aid at the scene. Ivera Weaver, 47, also of Tulsa, suffered a head abrasion and possible concussion and was taken to a local hospital.

Police said Troutman was making a left turn from Pikes Peak into Institute when his car collided with the automobile of Marcell Goodrum, 29, of Ent AFB, which was going east on Pikes Peak. Goodrum was ticketed for careless driving. Police estimated damage in the accident at $700 worth.

Gerald Beall, 20, of 3212 W. Colorado Ave., was taken to Memorial Hospital by E & E Ambulance. His condition was described as "good" by hospital officials.

Beall was hit by a car driven by Jerry W. Kraettli, 18, of 912 Panorama Dr., the State Patrol reported. They said that Beall was hit by the left front of Kraettli's car, which then skidded to a stop. Patolman Kenneth Shiflet was the investigating officer.

Perjury Charged In Sinatra Jr. Kidnaping Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys Gladys Towles Root and George A. Forde say they are shocked and surprised at a federal grand jury indictment charging them with conspiracy and subornation of perjury.

"It's unbelievable," Forde said Wednesday. "It's regrettable," added Mrs. Root.

Neither Forde nor Mrs. Roote, who is noted for extravagant dress in the courtroom, had been immediately available for comment after being indicted on charges arising from their defense roles in the Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnaping case.

Forde and Mrs. Root were charged with two counts of seeking to induce their respective clients, Joseph Clyde Amsler, 23, and John Irwin, 42, to commit perjury in defense testimony.

They were also charged with one court of conspiracy to commit offenses against the U.S. government by obstructing justice, influencing witnesses and committing perjury.

A few hours later, both attorneys said they would surrender to federal authorities today.

Morris Lavine, defense counsel for Barry Worthington Keenan in the sensational trial, said he had been retained by Mrs. Root.

Commented Lavine: "Mrs. Root is completely innocent of the charges. We expect complete vindication when the case comes to trial."

Amsler and Keenan, also 23, were convicted on six counts of kidnaping young Sinatra from a Lake Tahoe, Nev., motel last Dec. 8. They were sentenced July 18 to 25 years, less seven months they already had served.

Irwin was acquitted of actual participation in the kidnaping, but was convicted as an accomplice and sentenced to 16 years and eight months.

Although Amsler, Keenan and Irwin were named in the true bill as co-conspirators, they were not indicted.

Two Children Die in Fires; Mothers Held

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Mike Davenport, 2½ years old, was found burned to death in his bed early Wednesday. Last Thursday Marsha Casady, 4, was found fatally burned in her bed.

The mothers of the children have been charged with starting the fires. Both are being held in the psychiatric ward at St. John's Hospital.

Barbara Davenport, 26, was charged with first-degree murder Wednesday after she told police she started the fire which claimed the life of young Mike. Police said an empty can in the bedroom of the home apparently had contained an inflammable liquid.

Another child, Debra Davenport, 4, suffered minor burns. Mrs. Davenport had first-and second-degree burns on her face.

Police said Mrs. Davenport gave no explanation for her actions. She had undergone psychiatric treatment recently.

Patricia Casady, 32, was charged with first-degree murder last week in the death of Marsha. Officers quoted the victim's sister, Susan, 7, as saying she saw her mother set the fire. An empty can was also found in the charred bedroom of the Casady home.

Suspect Believed Suffering From Brain Infection

Charlie Ray Wortham who has been charged with simple robbery and conspiracy is suffering from a possible brain infection which could impair his ability to distinguish right from wrong, Dr. Richard Conde said in a letter received this morning by District Court.

Dr. Conde recommends that Wortham be transferred to the State Hospital for a further period of observation and adds that the defendant's present physical condition should preclude him from standing trial.

Wortham, 47, Denver, has been charged with stealing cash and groceries from the McCall Mercantile, Palmer Lake, March 7, and conspiring with Michael Clevon Moorehead, 18, Denver, now in the State Reformatory and Ernest Stedson Ross, 21, Denver, currently serving three to four years in the State Penitentiary.

Captain's Rank Most Dangerous In Viet Nam War

er — one officer for every enlisted man.

The ranks of American war dead here have ranged from private first class to lieutenant colonel. Captains are most often casualties because Air Force captains fly combat planes on missions, Army captains fly helicopters, and infantry captains serve as battalion advisers and in other field positions. All of these are dangerous jobs.

Enlisted casualties are relatively low, primarily because the United States has no infantry units in Viet Nam.

The enlisted men here serve mostly as maintenance men, technicians, clerks, and in other supporting functions.

She said: "The chief's car already was busted up and burning. He was hurt himself, and I knew he could be killed, so I just kept tugging along at him and pretty soon we were in the clear."

Of her arrest several hours later, she said: "They (the police) kept trying to break it up and make arrests. I got caught in the middle."

supporters over whether he would be able to campaign and carry out his Senate duties. Finally, eleven candidates filed for the Democratic nomination, including State Controller Alan Cranston and former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger.

Later, Engle decided to withdraw from the race, and Salinger was the victor in a hot primary fight.

Engle died in his sleep in the early hours of the morning.

Doctors said the April 24 operation was "craniotomy performed to relieve pressure."

Despite his illness, Engle came to the Senate in a wheel chair to vote on the civil rights bill last month.

Engle was a staunch supporter of the measure.

The first operation last August came after tests to diagnose the cause of painful cramps in Engle's right arm and leg. Dr. Roy L. Sexton, Engle's personal physician, said that a small amount of brain tissue was removed and that it was not malignant.

Engle's voice failed him and he was unable to speak April 13 when he arose from his seat in the Senate to introduce a resolution.

A member of Congress for 20 years, Engle served eight successive terms in the House of Representatives before his election to the Senate in 1958.

Throughout his congressional career, Engle was identified primarily with water resource development in California and the West.

He was a sponsor of legislation authorizing every major expansion of the giant California Central Valley reclamation project since its start in 1937. The additions, involving hundreds of millions of dollars of federal investment, include the Trinity River Project, Folsom Dam on the American River, the Sacramento Valley canals and the San Luis unit.

As chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee from 1955 through 1958, and previously as chairman of its subcommittee on irrigation and reclamation, Engle sponsored two supplements to the Reclamation Act authorizing interest-free loans up to $5 million for small reclamation projects and for the construction of irrigation water distribution facilities.

He was author of the saline water conversion research program authorization enacted in 1952, and a variety of legislation to assist the domestic mining industry.

After a study of military use of public domain land, Engle authored in 1957 the law requiring congressional approval of military land withdrawals exceeding 5,000 acres.

In the Senate, Engle was a member of Armed Services and Commerce committees and the special committees on small business and the problems of the aging.

Taking a major interest in foreign trade policies, Engle traveled to the Far East in 1959 to study the causes for the decline of U.S. exports in that part of the world and sponsored trade expansion legislation.

Born in Bakersfield, Calif., Sept. 21, 1911, Engle was graduated from Chico State College and obtained a law degree from the Hastings College of Law, University of California, in 1933.

Engle's political career began in 1934 with his election as district attorney of Tehama County. In 1942 he was elected to the California State Senate and in August 1943 was elected to fill the seat in the U.S. House left vacant by the death of Rep. Harry Englebright.

Engle's home is in Red Bluff, Calif. He was married to the former Lucretia Caldwell of San Jose, Calif. and had one daughter by a previous marriage, Yvonne Engle Childs.

'Rights' Leaders Cautious About Call for Truce

jected into the campaign by the Goldwater forces."

Urging a shift in tactics, they called for "a broad curtailment, if not total moratorium, of all mass marches, mass picketing and mass demonstrations until after Election Day" and more emphasis on getting more Negroes registered to vote.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, took pains to make it clear that the "summit" statement should not be interpreted as an endorsement of President Johnson's candidacy.

He also said in answer to a question that the action had not been taken in order to reduce the so-called "white backlash," described as the resentment of whites reacting to mass demonstrations by Negroes.

A spot check by The Associated Press indicated that several civil rights leaders on the local level intend to go ahead with demonstrations when they feel they are required to get results.

Jesse Gray, leader of the Harlem rent strikes, said: "We'll continue to have demonstrations in Harlem in spite of what Wilkins says."

Stanley Branche, head of the Committee for Freedom Now in Chester, Pa., near Philadelphia, said: "The only way we got this far is because of our demonstrations. Everyone's running scared of the white backlash. To me it's nothing but the same old dirty bigotry and dirty prejudice."

At a rally of 150 persons Wednesday night Branche called for pickets to march at a paper company today to urge more jobs for Negroes. He has scheduled a street march Friday to protest alleged police brutality.

Branche has led several demonstrations in Chester, some of which resulted in violence.

James McCoy, executive board member of the Pittsburgh branch of the NAACP, said demonstrations would not be staged "unless a situation arises which would require direct action in the form of a demonstration."

J. A. Bagsby, president of the Pine Bluff movement in Little Rock, Ark., an affiliate of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and Congress of Racial Equality officials in Tulsa, Okla., said there might be demonstrations if negotiations in those cities break down.

Bagsby said: "We will be guided on the local situation rather than by decisions reached on the national level."

A spokesman for the NAACP said a previously announced march and rally at the Democratic National Convention next month in Atlantic City, N.J., will be held, but will not be "any kind of alienating demonstration."

Pheasant and Chicken Cross Being Claimed

He calls the result the "Mongolian chick-sant."

"I've never heard of such a thing," said Edio Delfino, El Dorado County agricultural commissioner.

Leon Bush, 38, linoleum-layer who lives on a 132-acre fowl ranch near here, said he tried for a year before he got a Mongolian ringneck pheasant to mate with a red hen. He says three chicks have hatched and he has 48 more eggs.

The chicks have chicken bodies with pheasant markings, he said. He plans now to switch sexes and try for a red rooster-pheasant hen mating.

Castro Subversion Plans Disclosed in OAS Report

the same line.

"In some countries, the intervention and direction participation of Cuban diplomatic and other agents in their internal affairs has been revealed. . . Various governments have reported to this committee that the repeated and numerous trips to Cuba of citizens belonging to the Communist or extreme leftist political groups have been for the purpose of instructing the said citizens in typical methods of subversive activity."

THE SINISTER DETAILS

The committee's voluminous evidence on Castro's "acts of intervention and aggression against Venezuela," which led to the demand for the drastic economic and diplomatic sanctions, is starkly conclusive and damning.

Sensational disclosures highlighting these findings are:

Former President Romulo Betancourt's testimony that, shortly before he took office, Castro personally attempted to shake him down for a $300 million loan to finance what he characterized as "the master plan against the gringos."

When Betancourt flatly balked at this, Castro retaliated with a prolonged campaign of violence, subversion, insurrections and an attempt to assassinate Betancourt.

In preparation for one invasion attempt by Communist guerrillas, some 300 tons of Cuban weapons and munitions were cached in Venezuela. The OAS investigators obtained documentary evidence that these arms were made in Belgium for Cuba, and transported to Venezuela by an aluminum boat powered by a motor purchased by the Castro regime from a Canadian company.

Betancourt told the OAS committee that shortly after his election and before he took office, he was "surprised to learn that a mass demonstration was to take place in Caracas at which one of the candidates whom I had defeated was to speak with Castro."

During Castro's visit, he conferred with Betancourt at his home and proposed the $300 million loan to finance "what he called the 'master plan against the gringos'."

"I replied that this was impossible," related Betancourt, "that at the beginning of this period of constitutional government, our treasury was in a bad state, our reserves depleted and the public debt, though undetermined, was estimated to exceed 4 billion bolivars.

"Castro then told me there was a formula, which the Cubans had figured out. The formula was that with our petroleum royalties, which we could take in kind, we should open up a $300 million credit for his government in gasoline and refinable crude petroleum. My answer to that was not difficult. I told him no."

From then on, Castro-inspired terrorism and attacks on Venezuela intensified.

It was announced that Defense Minister Raul Castro and economic czar Ernesto Guevara would visit Venezuela at the invitation of the Venezuelan Communist party. That was blocked by Betancourt personally phoning Castro's foreign minister and warning that if the two came they would be met at the airport and promptly deported.

"In spite of this warning," Betancourt testified, "a veritable airline bridge was established between Maiquetia (Venezuelan airport) and Havana. Numerous individuals came and went continually, especially members of Congress representing the Communist party and the revolutionary leftist movement of Venezuela."

READYING AN INVASION

The 300 tons of Belgian-made Cuban weapons were found buried on the Paraguana Peninsula "packed and conditioned for immediate use."

"Despite efforts to prevent the identification of these arms," the OAS report states, "the committee was able to verify that they were manufactured in Belgium for the present government of Cuba and delivered to it in 1959. The committee has documentary evidence that confirms these facts."

At the same time the arms were uncovered, the Caracas police captured Luis Eduardo Sanchez Madero, a Venezuelan, who had in his possession numerous documents revealing detailed plans for a Communist uprising.

"These documents," states the report, "consisted of detailed plans for the conduct of subversive operations and sabotage in Caracas, sketches and reproductions of maps of the main sectors of the city; studies of certain places that are key objectives; and instructions for the use of various weapons and explosives.

"The committee also has documents that prove that Sanchez Madero traveled to Cuba and returned surreptitiously to Caracas, where he lived under another name, using a falsified identification card. Venezuelan authorities have documents that prove Sanchez Madero is a member of the Communist party of Venezuela."

The arms uncovered on the Paraguana Peninsula included:

Eighty-one automatic rifles; 996 clips for automatic rifles; 20,000 cartridges for these rifles; 28 bayonets for automatic rifles; 31 submachineguns "UZI"; 89 clips for "UZI" submachineguns; 5.6mm M-2 mortars; 297 .60 mm mortar shells with propulsive and incremental charges and fuses packed in individual cases; 20 3.5-inch rocket launchers; 375 rockets and launchers; 9.57mm recoilless rifles; 277 shells for recoilless rifles; 2,700 .50 caliber cartridges; 58 demolition blocks M-3s; 59 demolition charges M-3s.

The OAS report concludes, as follows:

"From President Betancourt's analysis, it is evident that the refusal of the Venezuelan government to cooperate in the plans of the Castro regime for hemispheric subversion and revolutionary overthrow gave rise to a progressive deterioration in the relations between Cuba and Venezuela, which culminated with Cuba's support of elements in Venezuela seeking to overthrow the constitutional government there by force and violence.

"President Betancourt pointed out that the vast resources of petroleum and iron ore in his country, which represent a principal source of supply for the free world, constitute one of the reasons why Venezuela is a prime target of international Communism."

Youth Receives Suspended Sentence Here

John Terry Mattas also known as John Burns received a suspended sentence of three months in County Jail and $7 costs from Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Wednesday for accessory during the fact.

Mattas, 18, 2415 Wheeler Ave. was accused of accompanying Raymond LeRoy Lewis, July 17 and failing to give help to prevent Lewis from attacking Helen Francis Lewis.

On Tuesday Lewis, 19, 2322 W. Platte Ave. was charged in District Court with assault to murder and according to the information he kicked and stabbed Mrs. Lewis, his wife.

A second charge of assault with a deadly weapon has also been filed against him. The second case accuses him of attacking Paul Michael Wooton with a knife. Both incidents are said to have happened at 617 Manitou Ave. July 17.

Lewis is scheduled to be arraigned in the near future.

Rescuers Get Closer to Nine Trapped Miners

300 feet below the surface of Mt. Revel.

Food and wine were lowered to the entombed miners Wednesday along with first aid supplies for those who were slightly injured by the cave-in Monday. Playing cards went down to help them pass the time.

"We are all fine, but we are going to sleep now," fireman Andre Martinet told his daughter Janine shortly after midnight through a microphone lowered through the supply tube.

Above ground it was the third night without sleep for many of the workers who hope to have the men out by the end of the week.

This morning a three-inch oil drill broke through into the mine 300 feet below and the rescuers made preparations to enlarge it into an escape hatch.

Champagnole Mayor Andre Socie said the guide drill had gone through hard, solid rock. He said this would slow up the work but meant the evacuation could be carried out with greater safety.

He said there had been no trace of rock slides or further earth movements during the drilling.

"Of course," said Socie, "the work will be very long and from a psychological point of view this is very hard to endure. It may take two or three or four days to get them out but it must be stressed that they are being well supplied with food and other necessities, that their morale is high and that in fact they are no longer in grave danger."

Other teams made much slower progress working into the mountain horizontally in search of five miners who have not been located. They are believed to have been caught in the cave-in, and little hope is held for them.

Russel Speaks Of Handicapped Children's Need

"Physically and mentally handicapped children need emotional rehabilitation," Robert L. Russel told Colorado Springs Kiwanians Wednesday.

Russel, director of a fund raising campaign for Handicamp, said the children also need "specialized training for their handicaps in order that they may feel like they are a part of our society."

He showed members a film on Handicamp, located near Idaho Springs, portraying such children taking part in swimming, fishing, baseball, and other games and activities.

"This program, sponsored by Easter Seal and the Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center, is designed to give these handicapped children the opportunity to be like the boy next door," Russel said.

The cost of sending a child to the camp for two weeks is $90, Russel said, but pointed out no one is denied admission for lack of funds.

Britain Faces Racial Danger, Legislators Say

LONDON (AP) — Two Conservative legislators said today Britain faces grave racial dangers unless immigration from the Commonwealth is more severely restricted.

Norman Pannell estimated that at present rates of entry and birth the colored population of Britain would reach three million by 1980.

"A figure of this kind gives rise to grave danger even in a country as free from racial prejudice as Britain," he told the House of Commons.

He suggested that if labor demands made immigration necessary, they should be met by short-term immigrants from Europe "rather than unassimilable immigrants on a permanent basis."

John Wells supported him, asking: "Do you want to import into Great Britain the problems we see in Rochester, New York"

New Broadway Star Credits 'Luck, No Luck'

By JORIE LUELOFF

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's luck and it's not luck," said the pert blonde sitting Indian-style on the swivel chair.

Pretty Penny Fuller was referring to her first appearance on Broadway where she's starring in "Barefoot in the Park," a major hit.

Her break came last month when Elizabeth Ashley left for Hollywood to film "Ship of Fools." Penny, the star's understudy, stepped in to play the impulsive Corie Bratter.

It was lucky that she happened to be in the right place at the right time. The rest was work and study to build a solid background of acting experience.

"The timing's been just right," said Penny, with only a trace of her native North Carolina accent.

For three years after she got her degree from Northwestern, where she majored in drama, Penny worked in theater working in variety for stock, national companies and summer tour groups, playing a wide variety of roles.

Where will she go from here?

There are no definite plans, she said, but "I'd like to have my own play — maybe do something entirely different from this. I want to do all those Shakespeare ladies someday.

"What I really want to be is an actress — a real actress — and not just a stage personality."

When she's not working — a rare occasion since, in addition to eight performances a week on Broadway, she's doing a television soap opera, "The Edge of Night" — Penny relaxes by cooking in her third floor walk-up, and going to the zoo, movies and art galleries.

"If you don't find joy in what you're doing, it's the greatest tragedy in the world. Many people in the theater don't enjoy it — or at least they claim they don't. I find a lot of joy in it and if I ever don't, I wan't to get out."

Pioneer Family Loves Living on Remote Island

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — How does a family from the sagebrush prairies of Montana adjust to life on a remote island in the North Pacific Ocean

A reporter asked Mrs. Rufus Choate the question Wednesday and she said: "We like it."

Choate, a former Miles City, Mont., rancher, and his wife and their three children left Seattle May 22 for Unalaska in the Aleutians aboard a 96-foot freighter they bought for the trip. They took along 500 sheep, five horses and five pigs for the livestock ranch they hope to establish on the island.

The Choates arrived back in town Monday aboard their vessel, the Robert Eugene, to pick up more livestock and some building materials.

"I thought because there are no real trees that it would be a terrible place," said Mrs. Choate. "But its beautiful. The kids have had a ball."

The Choate children are Sue, 21; Jim, 19, and Ted, 10. They brought a friend, Jeff Craig, 14, of Unalaska, along on their trip to what Alaskans call "the outside."

Choate has leased a 265,000-acre spread from the Bureau of Land Management and plans to take his first wool clip to Portland, Ore., next spring aboard the Robert Eugene.

"We hunted up a house, but repairs are needed," said Choate.

The family will make the return trip in about a week. They expect to make a second trip before winter.

Ted will attend school in the village of Unalaska — population 278, mostly native.

Choate had said earlier that Montana was getting too crowded for him.

Now he says: "If the neighbors come too close I can still move about 500 miles to another chain of islands. Then no more. That's the end of United States territory."

Princess Turns Down New York Invitation

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret has turned down an invitation to go to New York in October for the premiere of the film "The Finest Hours," based on books by Sir Winston Churchill.

A spokesman for the princess said she declined the invitation "because she can't go." The spokesman said he did not know who extended the invitation.

There have been reports that it came from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower as chairman of the board of the English-Speaking Union of the United States. Sir Winston is deputy president of the English Speaking Union.

Arkansas Votes On Whether to Retain Faubus

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas Democrats vote today on whether to send Gov. Orval E. Faubus or a new face against Republican Winthrop Rockefeller in the gubernatorial election next November.

Faubus was expected to easily win nomination to a sixth straight term over three opponents in the state's quietest Democratic primary campaign in years.

Less than half of the state's 633,000 voters were expected to cast ballots. The polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

Faubus appeared on television just once and closed his formal campaign last Friday, five days after he opened it.

His opponents, Joe Hubbard of Russellville, R. D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge, and Odell Dorsey of North Little Rock all were making their first statewide political campaigns. Only Dorsey ran any semblance of a traditional race. He closed his campaign Monday night with a statewide telecast, his first.

The race for governor was the only statewide contest on the primary ballot, but there were contests in three of the four congressional districts, all now represented by Democrats.

Rep. Oren Harris was opposed by Dean Murphy, a businessman from Hope, in the 4th District. Florence Clay, a Forrest City Negro, challenged Rep. E. C. Gathings in the 1st District.

Hal Cochran of Fort smith and Jerry Hinshaw of Springdale sought the Republican nomination to oppose Rep. J. W. Trimble in the 3rd District.

Trimble had no opposition in the primary. Neither did Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of the 2nd District, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Interest in the governor's race was at an all-time low in a state which traditionally has elected its chief executive in the Democratic primary. Only once since Reconstruction have the Republicans produced more than token opposition for the Democratic nominee—in 1954 when Faubus, seeking his first term, defeated Mayor Pratt Remmel of Little Rock.

Political observers believed the prospects of an expensive primary campaign against Faubus for the right to make an expensive campaign against Rockfeller scared off Democrats who might have seriously challenged Faubus.

COINED TERM

A U.S. scholar of Polish origin, Raphael Lemkin, coined the term "genocide." Lemkin said that European life in the years between 1933 and 1945 called for the formulation of a legal concept of the destruction of human beings which would outlaw it.

Georgia Demos Voice Loyalty To National Party

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia's delegation to the Democratic National Convention — including Negroes for the first time in modern history — "is made up of loyal Democrats who represent our party," says Gov. Carl Sanders.

The names of the 64 delegates and 52 of 53 alternates were announced Tuesday by Sanders and Travis Stewart, executive director of the Georgia Democratic party. Four Negroes — two delegates and two alternates — were included on the list of those who will go to the convention opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

There was only one Negro — an alternate — among the Georgia delegation to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

Sanders, asked the significance of including Negroes among the Democratic delegation, replied:

"This is not a social club. This is a political organization and it is right and proper that we have a cross section of the voters of the state represented. This delegation is made up of loyal Democrats who represent our party."

Missing from the list — at their request — are U.S. Sens. Richard B. Russell and Herman Talmade. Both said they had previous commitments, but Talmade stated flatly that he is still a Democrat.

Several other high state officials who normally would be expected to attend also begged off. Most pleaded previous commitments, too. They are Lt. Gov. Peter Zack Geer, Agriculture Commissioner Phil Campbell, Treasurer Jack B. Ray and Comptroller General James L. Bentley Jr.

Former Gov. Ernest Vandiver specifically requested that he be included although he will be unable to attend the convention due to a previous commitment. He is listed as an alternate.

The Negro delegates are State Sen. Leroy Johnson and attorney A. T. Walden, both of Atlanta. Johnson is the first Negro to win election to the legislature in half a century. Walden is a political power in Atlanta who worked for the Democratic party in the 1960 presidential election.

The alternates are T. B. Hooper of Macon and Mrs. P. Q. Yancy of Atlanta.

Democrats from Fulton and DeKalb counties compose more than one third of the delegation. The two counties make up much of Greater Atlanta's population of more than a million.

The Georgia delegation will vote under the unit rule and its 53 convention ballots will be cast for President Johnson.

Governor Will Confer About Jobless Pay

DENVER (UPI)— Gov. John Love said he had agreed to meet with State Employment Director Bernard Teets next Monday to discuss ways to tighten unemployment compensation payments.

The state chief executive said he and Teets would discuss recommendations made by State Auditor John Proctor to cut down fraud. Proctor claimed Thursday that 20 per cent of unemployment compensation claims involved fraud or overpayment.

He disputed a study by Love which estimated fraud and overpayment at only 8.8 per cent.

The governor said much of Proctor's report was merely a matter of interpretation, but that the auditor's recommendations would be given consideration.

The New York Stock Exchange, always a big tourist attraction, is expected to draw nearly 800,000 visitors this year.

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — Whether the new military pay bill becomes effective Aug. 1 or Sept. 1 will depend on the speed with which Congress completes its action and gets the bill to the White House. The Senate gave its approval with only 1 hour and 25 minutes of consideration and this time was consumed in taking the vote. The House is expected to act July 28.

Presidential approval of the dual compensation act which is applicable only to retired Regular officer, with the retired Re-August. The bill is far from attaining its goal, equal consideration of the retired Regular officer with the reitred Reserve officer, so word here is that a new move may be expected in 1950 to eliminate any restriction applicable to the retired Regular officer working for the federal government. This would give the retired Regular officer the same status as is now enjoyed by the reited Reserve officer.

Maj. Gen. Henry Cabot Lodge of the Army Reserve is retiring under Title 111 of PL 810. Col. Robert F. Cocklin, the popular press representative of the Association of the U.S. Army is to be promoted to brigadier general in the Army Reserve.

The House has approved and sent on to the Senate a bill to compensate military dependents for expenses connected with their departure from Panama and Cyprus in disturbances last winter. The measure would pay expenses up to $16 a day for adults and $8 a day for children for a maximum of 60 days.

A second suit by a tax-payer questioning the legality of a member of Congress holding a Reserve commission has been filed in the District Court here. This suit has been filed by a Robert Gray Taylor and named Senator Barry Goldwater as in violation of the Constitution of the United States. There may be more of these suits cropping up in different parts of the country.

Study made by the Air Force indicates that college graduate engineers who become second lieutenants will average $2300 less a year than those who go with industry and $900 to $2000 less than those who enter Civil Service. The average starting salary in industry is listed at $6925 and graduates with Master's Degree from $7725 to $8500 a year. Under the 1964 military pay bill a newly commissioned second lieutenant will receive $2894.40 in pay or, if eligible, $4788 total pay and subsistence and quarters allowances.

Removal of top federal government career jobs from Civil Service coverage and the establishment of an Office of Executive Personnel in the White House to handle these positions has been recommended to the President by the Commitee for Economic Development. All federal classified jobs in grades 16 and above would be removed from Civil Service Commission authority and Civil Service coverage. Two additional grades, 19 and 20, would be added. The proposal calls for a minimum salary of $50,000 annually for cabinet officers and $35,000 for members of Congress.
In the interim the military pay increase, ranging from $3 a month to $49 a month is expected to clear Congress within a week or two.

Full active duty strength of the Armed Froces as of June 30, 1964 was 2,685,050 in contrast to that of 2,699,677 as of June 30, 1963, according to latest estimates of the Department of Defense. The Army continues with the largest strength of 973,230.

Under the pending pay raise second lieutenants with less than 2 years of service would receive an annual increase of $228 in pay and allowances. First lieutenants with 4 years service would have an increase of $144 and captains with 8 years of service an annual increase of $168.

To correct an apparent misunderstanding among retired personnel, it is pointed out that the 1964 military pay bill will not give any increase to retired pay. This will require a specific increase in the cost of living index. Informal Washington sources intimate that it does not look like the retired pay will be increased within the foreseeable future.

Retirees eligible for and in receipt of social security annuities may expect an increase of 5 per cent within the next month or so, according to congressional sources.

A check with congressional sources indicates that the pending bill to reopen National Life Insurance to veterans of World War 11 and Korea is not expected to be approved by this session of Congress.

Top level Pentagon officials are working on plan to improve public affairs program of the Armed Forces. The Joint Chiefs of Staff are not fully "sold" as yet but look to see either a brigadier general or rear admiral grade designated to handle the program at DOD level.

Mysterious War Time Penny Is Collectors Item

By TRAVIS HUGHS

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—One of the first targets for newcomers to the coin collecting craze invariably is the mysterious wartime penny.

It's an easy coin to spot, and is a valuable addition to any collection.

A strategic wartime demand for copper caused the mints to stamp 1943 pennies in steel—at least most of them. The zinc-coated steel cents virtually have been taken out of circulation in the past 20 years by collectors.

But the really valuable pieces are the variations of the 1943 issue. There were a very small number of copper pennies minted that year, and a few steel pennies stamped in 1944.

The "Major Variety and Oddity Guide" lists the value of a 1943 cent as $2,500 in fine condition and $40,000 in uncirculated condition.

An East Orange, N.J., coin dealer has acquired what is believed to be the only complete set of 1943 coppers in existence. The three pennies—one from each of the three mints—were insured for $50,000.

Collectors who think they have found a 1943 copper penny often are disappointed to learn the coin is a steel cent with a copper coating. A magnet will hold such a coated penny, but will not attract a genuine copper cent.

Numismatists (coin collectors) believe the 1943 copper mints wound up their 1942 run, some copper blanks stuck in the processing machinery. They were punched through when the 1943 run began.

Apparently the same thing happened in 1944, producing a few steel pennies along with the regular 1944 copper run.

The regular 1943 steel penny is becoming a rarity itself and seldom shows up in a cash register.

There have been reports, not confirmed by the government, that the mints have quietly disposed of many wartime pennies. Millions of the coins, however, remain in the hands of collectors.

A 1943 steel cent is worth from 75 cents to 2 dollars, depending on where it was minted and its condition.

The steel penny has its roots in Africa, strangely enough. To get wartime supplies to the Allied jumping off place at Casablanca, General Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered a "portable" pipeline built to the seaport from Western Africa.

The Tulsa pipeline construction firm of Williams Brothers took to Africa thousands of sections of 12-inch diameter, 16-toot long copper pipe. It was light enough for two men to carry a section on their shoulders, and could be screwed together quickly and with a minmum of equipment.

To supply the tons of already scarce copper, the government decided to substitute steel for the traditional copper in the 1943 penny issue.

New Elizabethan Eatery Provides 'Gorging' Food

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—Roast swan isn't everyone's idea of a tasty snack. Nor are boar's head and peacock pie the most appetizing dishes in the world.

But in this year of Shakespeare celebrations, American tourists, it seems, just can't get enough of Elizabethan cooking. Nightly the Elizabethan Room of London's Gore Hotel, which specializes in 400-year-old recipes, is packed with American visitors.

Businessmen from Dallas and Detroit toast each other in mead, pinch the buxon serving wenches. Their wives, apparently, pinch the two-pronged forks which the Gore uses in place of regular cutlery. They make dandy souvenirs.

"The pilferage here in the Elizabethan Room is something colossal," explained Mrs. Pamela Price, of the restaurant. "The guests swipe goblets, knives, candies, anything they can lay their hands on.

"But mostly they steal the forks, which are silver-plated and cost $3 apiece. Two-pronged forks were just coming into fashion in Elizabeth's day, and the Elizabethans called them bifurcated daggers, and considered them rather sissy."

Pilferage is not the Gore Hotel's only headache. There is the high price of peacocks, for example. One of these strutting birds, which is made into pate for American gourmets, costs as much as $36 on the market.

Those who insist upon living it up, Elizabethan style, are also apt to run afoul of Britain's ancient laws. Although roast swan figure from time to time on the Gore Hotel menu, all swans on rivers technically belong to the queen. Only those bred on private lakes or in swanneries can be killed.

"Swan isn't exactly yummy, anyway," reported Mrs. Price. "It tastes like fishy goose."

Sturgeon was also a popular dish in Shakespeare's day. But according to an ancient law, any sturgeon caught in British waters must first be offered to the queen. Only if Her Majesty rejects it may the fish be sold to the public.

Lampreys, a kind of eel with a poisonous vein in the neck, were considered a great delicacy in early times. King Henry I is said to have died from gorging himself on them. But today these slippery creatures have disappeared from Britain and must be imported from France.

Even the rushes with which the floors of the Elizabethan Room are strewn must be freshly cut each week and hauled all the way from the Norfolk Broads.

The weeds were used in Elizabethan times to deaden noise, to keep down dust and fleas. (Elizabethans had plenty of those.) Today, they must be especially fireproofed in case guests drop their cigarettes on the floor.

Pleasures may have been simpler in Shakespeare's time, but evidently keeping up with the Raleighs and the Drakes was a costly and frustrating business.

Family Dishes Are Breakable, Reporters Find

NILES, Ill. (UPI) — Crackle! Smash!

Listen and you'll hear the sounds of breaking dishes and glasses — mad mood sounds — around your house or that of a neighbor.

Americans chip or break dishes and glasses to the tune of $720 million a year. That's 960 milli dishes and glasses.

A study to support these figures comes from reseachers of the Republic Molding Corp. her makers of sink accessories and other housewares.

"The typical family of four," it reported, "washes around 20,000 dishes in a year and breaks or chips at least two dishes or glasses a month, costing about $16 a year."

The shattering statistics are based on reports of department store china and glassware departments units dealing continually with homemakers buying new sets or open stock replacements.

Cup handles are the item most frequently broken, the researchers reported. The sink is where most damage occurs. Sudsy water makes dishes slippery. What is more, it's easy to knock the cups against the sides of the sink or against the faucet.

Chipped or damaged items range in value from a nickel juice glass to a $25 or higher serving platter. The average value comes out to 75 cents per glass or dish.

How to reduce breakage? Republic home economists suggest the following:

—Use protective cushioning on the bottom of the sink, preferably a resilient polyethylene sink mat that will stay put and withstand the punishment of hot water and detergents.

—Wash dishes in a plastic dishpan that fits properly in the sink. Don't pile too many dishes in the pan at a time.

Texas Land Was Sold At 50 Cents an Acre

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Records in the state land office show that more than three million acres in 52 West Texas counties were sold for 50 cents an acre from 1879 to early 1883.

The so-called "50 cent act" of the legislature provided that half of the revenue be used to pay the public debt and the other half go to the public school fund. It was repealed because of fraudulent land speculations.

Unusual British Tie as Good As Passport

By TOM A. CULLEN

OXFORD, England (NEA) — Around Vincent's the Oxford University sporting club, they boast about a member who flew to Moscow without his British passport.

Instead of being thrown out of Russia, as he fully expected, the Vincent's member was waived through immigration formalities by a Soviet official who recognized the necktie he was wearing.

That necktie — dark blue silk dotted with silver crowns — is one of the most coveted pieces of apparel in the world. It usually signifies that the wearer is an athlete of international standing, for Vincent's Club skims the cream from Oxford's sporting world.

The King of Norway is a member. So is the Duke of Windsor, who was elected when he was the Prince of Wales and a freshman at Magdalene College, Oxford. (The club rules barring freshmen from becoming members were waived in his case).

The accent at Vincent's however is on sports, particularly rugby football. Most members are "Oxford Blues," which means that they have won their school colors playing on varsity teams.

Most recently elected member is Stanley Sanders, one of two American Negroes who are currently Rhodes Scholars at Oxford, the first of their race to be so honored. Sanders is setting records here in the discus throw and shot-put.

Another American Rhodes Scholar to be elected to Vincent's was Pete Dawkins, of West Point, who won his Oxford Blues in rugby and in basketball.

With its undergraduate membership limited to 150, Vincent's is so exclusive, in fact, that one could walk past its clubrooms in King Edward Street a hundred times without noticing the modest nameplate beside the door.

Upstairs, the clubrooms are definitely on the seedy side. They are full of worn leather armchairs stuffed with horsehair. Faded photos of past presidents line the walls. A copy of Plato's "Republic" stands out among the bound volumes of The Badminton Magazine. A television set is the only contemporary touch.

Members, however, would not exchange a single horsehair for modern amenities. Vincent's, which celebrated its centenary last year, likes to preserve the old traditions. Most notable change in the past hundred years has been the rule which decreed free beer for members. They now pay.

Vincent's got its name from an Oxford printer, who rented out rooms to the club back in 1863. (There was a Vincent's Print Shop underneath the club as late as 1963).

Today, its rules are as strict as they were a century ago. No women are allowed on the premises. The same is true of dogs. Gentlemen must wear a jacket and a collar and tie at all times. Smoking is forbidden in the dining room. Members who bring their own wine to table are charged a corkage fee.

And the famous necktie, whether it be spotted in a Singapore bar, or on the golf links at Miami, usually commands respect. For Vincent's works hard to live up to its motto—"A healthy mind in a healthy body."

MY ANSWER

QUESTION: Since my conversion I have been studing the Bible and have been telling my friends of my experience. However, they say I am overdoing it. Have I misunderstood the Christian life? — L.T.

ANSWER: I do not believe you have. But you must remember that no person who has not discovered Christ and the meaning of eternal life will ever agree with you. They cannot differentiate between religion and salvation. Religion is something that people observe and practice with some restraint. Salvation is deliverance from the old way of life to a new one. One who has believed in Christ for salvation has become completely new. The Bible says that "If any man is in Christ he is a new creation", and so you would be entirely different from what you were before you were converted. The Bible also clearly teaches that people will misunderstand you: "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, therefore the world knoweth us not because it knew Him not." (1 John 3:1) Don't be disturbed by what people say when once you have made sure that you are doing the will of God.

Hong Kong Tries To Solve School Crisis Far Up

HONG KONG (NEA) — The population explosion in this British crown colong is mushrooming straight into the air. Hong Kong's children now climb to the rooftops to absorb education the way that New Yorkers go to theirs to absorb the sunlight.

Hong Kong, attached to Red China like a forlorn peg on a carnival wheel of chance, is benighted with one of the world's greatest space problems. It is a tribute to the colony's confidence in the future that an ambitious housing program is now coming to grips with that problem.

Hong Kong has seen its population soar from about 500,000 persons to nearly 4 million in just 18 years. It is as if Cincinnati, Ohio, in less than two decades acquired a population somewhat larger than Chicago—with no more land on the edges to put everybody.

Hong Kong's resettlement program got under way 10 years ago, following a disatrous fire which wiped out the colony's squatters' village of paper and tin shacks. Some 53,000 persons, mostly Chinese refugees, were left homeless.

New concrete and brick apartment buildings which Hong Kong's population is now filling could not be termed luxury dwellings. But amenities such as sliding glass doors to the terrace (which the apartments do have) are minor selling points to a family originally without a roof overhead.

As low as the wage scale of Hong Kong is, the residents can afford the apartments. Rentals run less than $2.30 monthly for a standard 120-square-foot room.

A resettlement building for 3,000 persons reaches completion about every week. More than a half-million squatters have found homes in the buildings, with another 75,000 housed in simple but sturdy cotages.

Growing out of the population explosion is Hong Kong's acute education problem — A shortage of classrooms which would send the PTA of any U.S. city into convulsions.

More than 40 per cent of the colony's population is under the age of 15. About 850,000 children are of school age. The most crucial classroom shortage is in the middle and upper grades.

Early in the resettlement program officials decided to reserve rooftop space for schools. Light into the classrooms would be ample, and chain link enclosures would provide satisfactory if not spacious play areas.

Althought some school districts in the U.S. have agonized over split sessions, Hong Kong authorities had no time to worry over such fine points of scheduling. Children here attend schools in three shifts. When the morning school ends, another invasion of pupils takes over the seats for the afternoon. These, in turn, give way to the evening pupils.

About 10,000 children study in schools abroad. But for thousands more, there is no money to travel elsewhere, and there are no classroom available.

Yet, as Hong Kong presses its building and school program with dedication and fervor, many youngsters now facing a bleak future may some day discover that there is room at the top.

Walking Fever Stalks Finland; May Spread

By REIJO MATTILA
United Press International

President Urho Kekkonentold his 4.5 million fellow citizens in a speech last New Year's Day they should get out and walk.

Hiking got a big boost in a mass "Walk-For-Health" campaign carried out in Finland during May.

An estimated 4 million six-mile walks were registered in the campaign, according to gymnastics instructor Mauri Oksanen of "Kuntourheilulitto," a physical fitness association.

Thus, the total distance walked by the Finns during May was about equal to walking 1,000 times around the earth along the equator.

The purpose of the "Walk-For-Health" campaign is to fight the sedentary life that many now lead, with more and more people buying cars and jamming streets and roads of this supposedly poor country.

"The idea to get people out into the open is not new," said Oksanen. "For six years a similar program called "Paavo's Run" (in honor of Paavo Nurmi, famous Finnish Olympic long distance runner), has been carried out in Finland. It has required a lot of propaganda and tenacious work but now it looks like we've made it."

"Paavo's Run" is a combination of running and walking.

Cities, towns, and smaller communities co-operated with sports clubs in arranging the "Walk - For-Health" campaign. Each man, woman and child who could was urged to walk 10 kilometers (6.1 miles). Towns challenged each other and several communities challenged Helsinki, the capital of 450,000 inhabitants.

Throughout May, town, village and city streets were literally filled with walkers on weekends. Newspapers published pictures of steady flows of people. Signs along the routes directed marchers.

Akse Rantala, 65, of Turku, walked more than 50 kilometers (31 miles) a day for five weeks. Avi Sten, a soccer referee, walked nearly 1,600 miles in the same period. Heikki Leimu, a schoolboy of 13, walked 1,200.

An 80-year-old man in Helsinki walked 30 miles from his home city to Porvoo in one day.

Now the Finns may try to export their walking enthusiasm. Turku is reported planning to challenge Leningrad, in the Soviet Union, and Gothenburg in Sweden. The city of Tampere may challenge its Swedish sister city, Norrkoping.

Americans may also get a touch of Finn-style walking. Pekka Oja, former head of the Association for Physical Condition, has been invited to be an assistant physical instructor at the Institute of Physical Research in Charleston, W. Va. He is reported to be planning campaigns to make more Americans hike for exercise.

Pennsylvania Machine Ballot Ruling Issued

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—"I'm anxious to get on with the campaign," says Genevieve Blatt, as a Pennsylvania Supreme Court decision virtually assures her the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, after three months of primary ballot counting.

The high court, sustaining a lower court decision, ruled Monday that machine ballots cast in blank spaces under the name of one of her opponents may not be counted.

The decision gave Miss Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, a 500-vote margin of victory over Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the State Supreme Court. The third candidate in the race was never in the running.

"Most people in the party are ready to concede I won the nomination," Miss Blatt said after learning of the court decision. "We've been talking plans, but we haven't actually laid any. I'm anxious to get on with it."

Noting reports that Musmanno was considering appealing the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, Miss Blatt said: "I personally don't see any grounds that this is appealable to the Supreme Court of the United States. Certainly if he wants to take it there, we'll answer it and I'm sure we'll win just as we did here."

Miss Blatt, 50, is serving her third four-year term as internal affairs secretary. Originally elected to the post in 1954, she became the first woman to hold a statewide office in Pennsylvania.

In the November election, she will seek to unseat U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, nominated by the Republicans for a second term. A likely campaign issue is the conservatism of Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, whom Scott has not yet said he will support.

Ice Crystals In Space Are Being Hunted

NORWALK, CONN. (UPI) — Are there ice crystals in space?

Research on this and similar questions is being aided by a balloon-borne telescope system that has gone aloft under Project Stratoscope II, a major research project sponsored by NASA, the Office of Naval Research and the National Science Foundation. The $2.8 - million telescope system is designed to study and take pictures of celestial goings-on at an altitude of about 80,000 feet, well above the dust and water - vapor interferences of the atmosphere.

The system's photographic capability is equivalent to the ability to distinguish two objects 30 inches apart at a distance of 1,000 miles, according to the Perkin - Elmer Corporation of Norwalk, its designers and builders. When aloft, the unmanned system is directed by ground - based scientists able to control more than 80 actions via radio commands, with help from airborne television equipment.

In earlier flights, the Stratoscope II system has transmitted data both direct to ground monitors and on to magnetic tape carried in flight. Its first actual Photo-taking trip is expected late in 1964.

In a late-1963 flight, its findings indicated that ice crystals do exist in space, but that the amount may have been overestimated based on previous studies with other equipment.

Lana Gives Her Daughter 21st Birthday Party

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was a social event that almost went without notice, despite its significance in the history of Hollywood's cafe society. The occasion: a 21st birthday party for Cheryl Crane, given by her mother, Lana Turner.

Cheryl and her friends were rocking to the watusi until early Monday morning on the Sunset Strip, where Lana once ruled as queen of filmland's night life. The blonde star joined in the gyrating dance with professional style. But most of the time she watched as the youngsters vibrated to the beat of strumming guitars. This was Cheryl's night.

"For weeks I've been working on every tiny detail," Lana remarked over the party noise. "The flowers, the buffet, the entertainment—I took care of everything. I even invited every guest by telephone."

The party reflected careful planning. One hundred and fifty guests, all screened by private detectives at the door, poured into the Galaxy, one of the strip's night spots that has sprung up to satisfy the watusi craze. Each table was decorated with sprays of red and pink daisies and carnations, and balloons festooned the walls. Pink carnations spelled out "Happy Birthday, Cheryl" over the bar.

Lana, trim in a clinging white lace dress, greeted each guest. Her daughter, in a low-backed red formal, also visited every table. Cheryl, who has been sheltered since the 1958 slaying of Johnny Stompanato, is now a statuesque brunette beauty, five inches taller than her mother.

Cheryl's stabbing of Stompanato, underworld figure who had been dating her mother, was ruled justifiable homicide after she testified he had threatened Miss Turner. Thereafter she was involved in a series of minor scrapes that kept her name in the news. Friends and family say that she now has settled down and become a model citizen.

Most of the guests were Cheryl's contemporaries, plus some of the younger acting crop, such as Elizabeth Ashley and television stars Gardner McKay, Clint Eastwood and Doug McClure. An old friend of the family also dropped in—Frank Sinatra.

Cheryl's father, Steve Crane, was in attendance, as was Lana's No. 5 Fred May, who is often her date despite their divorce.

Also present was her grandmother, Mildred Turner, in whose custody Cheryl was placed after the 1958 tragedy.

The dancing stopped for the singing of "Happy Birthday" and the rolling out of a four-tiered cake. Cheryl raced around the cake to blow out all 21 candles with one breath. Then the stomping to the wild watusi resumed, and it continued into the morning.

OUTDOOR ART SHOW OPENS—The annual outdoor art show of the Colorado Springs Art Guild opened Wednesday night in the skating rink at Colorado College. Plagued by rain in past years, the skating rink not only provided sufficient shelter but afforded large, well-lighted staging from the numerous exhibits which ranged from paintings and sculpture to jewelry and one "live" exhibit. The show continues through Sunday night. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Biggest, Best Outdoor Art Exhibit Is Launched

BY JOHN FETLER
ARTS CRITIC

With Colorado College cooperation a dream has come true for Pikes Peak Region artists. Wednesday night, the Art Guild-sponsored annual Outdoor Art Show opened under the soaring domed ceiling of the skating rink (no ice, though, in the summer) providing coolness from the day's heat, and safety from showers, and still remaining an outdoor show because the skating rink is open on both sides.

And, with the new exhibit space, finally the Art Guild Outdoor Art Show has gone "bigtime," with more than 60 artists participating in the event, not only from Colorado Springs, but also from surrounding Colorado areas, offering the widest range of styles, from mountain and western scenes, to the abstracts, and even a bathtub as part of a dadaist exhibition.

The excellent lights of the skating rink provide even, bright, illumination in the evenings, the best illumination ever for the paintings, ceramics, sculpture, and other objects.

To get to the CC skating rink, drive to the corner of Cache la Poudre and North Cascade, and the skating rink is just behind the college's Rastall Center. Entry to the show, of course, is free, but the viewers get rich rewards from the tremendous variety of art that has been placed on view, and will remain on view through Sunday night. They can examine the versatility and styles of the various artists, to whom this annual outdoor show is the highlight of the year, where they can show their latest productions.

To the public, too, it is the one time in the year where they can see, sometimes to their own amazement, the busy life which artists lead, as their products show, and where the public can pick up bargains in art for the decoration of their homes.

In addition, they can see some of the artists in action, not only those who draw portrait sketches, but also — and this always draws the biggest crowd —seeing potters demonstrate he "oldest art in the world," throwing on the potter's wheel.

Represented in this outdoor art show are drawings, water colors and paintings; ceramics, sculpture, mobiles in glass and plastic, rock paintings and weaving.

The hours for the biggest, and best, outdoor art show in its 20-year history are from 5:30 to 10 p.m. on weekdays this week, and from 3:30 to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

Gradually, through the years, the Art Guild has evolved a set of standards for the outdoor art show, and the standard for this exhibit is higher than ever. In addition, there are not only the artistic productions to see, but the artists themselves on hand, happy to talk with the public and explain about their art productions.

Visiting the outdoor art show at the skating rink of Colorado College is not only an interesting, informative affair, but provides a full evening's entertainment. It may be possible that holding an outdoor art show under the domed protection of the soaring concrete ceiling of the skating rink is the first of its kind in the United States, and as such it provices a new milestone in the development of the work of the Art Guild in Colorado Springs.

Two Charged With Criminal Acts Wednesday

Criminal charges were filed in District Court Wednesday against two defendants.

The first, Robert A. Griffin, 21, Tekamah, Neb. was charged with aggravated robbery and Judge William M. Calvert set bond at $2,500.

The defendant is accused of assaulting Edith H. Palmer July 3 while armed with a deadly weapon and stealing her 1960 model automobile.

According to a police report at the time, Mrs. Palmer gave Griffin a lift from Columbus, Neb. and drove him to Colorado Springs where he threatened her with a gun and insisted she drive him to Utah.

When the car stopped at a red light, Mrs. Palmer succeeded in jumping out and Griffin is said to have then driven off.

The second defendant, Rex Edward Morgan was charged with no account check.

Morgan, 51, 632 N. Foote Ave. is alleged to have issued a $10 check Jan. 28 with intent to defraud Stanley G. Thompson and the Fountain Valley Barber Shop to whom he gave the check.

Bond was set at $1,000 by Judge Calvert.

Blakely Pleads Guilty to Lesser Charge

Ernest Guy Blakely pleaded guilty in District Court Wednesday to accessory during the fact of burglary after Deputy District Attorney Jack Roeser amended the information from burglary and larceny.

The lesser charge constitutes what the district attorney's office calls a "high misdemeanor" with a miximum sentence of two years in County Jail.

Pre-sentence investigation was set for August 7 by Judge Hunter D. Hardeman.

According to the new information filed against the defendant he was accessory during the fact of burglary while two men broke into the Black Forest Elementary School Jan. 7. The names of the pair are being withheld as they are not in custody.

Blakely, 23, Ft. Carson, was originally accused of entering the school and stealing cash and checks worth a total of $400. He is currently on Federal probation for an incident arising out of a post office burglary.

A co-defendant, Walter Eugene Pitts, 28, Ft. Carson, who was also charged with the burglary and larceny of the school had the charges against him dismissed last week due to lack of sufficient evidence.

JP Fines Four Here Wednesday

Four traffic violators were fined in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court Wednesday.

State Patrolman Dan Morrissey ticketed Richard E. Howe, 34, 1018 Iowa Ave. for careless driving. The violation happened on West Vermijo Street and the defendant paid a $5 fine and costs.

Making an improper turn on Hancock Avenue July 1 cost Richard Allen Williams, 17, 1428 Tweed St. $5 and costs. The officer was Pete Thiel of the state patrol.

Kenneth Dean Walker, 29, 2012 N. Chestnut St. was fined $5 and costs for improper backing on Colorado Highway 11 Tuesday. He got the ticket from State Patrolman Arnold Ferrero.

City-Wide Water Ban On Friday

City Water Superintendent Jack A. McCullough reminded all users of Colorado Springs water today that no watering of lawns is permitted on the 31st day of the month. This applies to Friday.

He also reminded that customers living in even numbered houses may irrigate on even numbered days of the month and those living in odd-numbered houses may irrigate on odd-numbered days of the month, but no one is allowed to water on the 31st day of any month.

Persons with new lawns are permitted to water them daily on an honor system and this will continue as long as storage conditions permit.

Those who planted new lawns in the spring or early summer of this year should now be watering them on an odd and even numbered day basis only and not on a daily basis.

Those who have just planted new lawns or contemplate such action may water the new grass daily but as sparingly as possible. McCullough suggested that water be conserved whenever and wherever possible.

McCullough said the city's water storage reservoirs were about 54 per cent of capacity last Monday which represents about 5.6 billion gallons of water. This is below what the storage was the previous week.

He said that on July 23, customers 55.2 million gallons of water but for the most part, of late, daily usage has been between 47 and 50 million gallons.

McCullough expressed appreciation to all customers for their contined cooperation in observing watering restrictions and conservation of water in every way possible.

College German School to Present Program

The Colorado College German summer school will present an evening of German folksongs and classical "Lieder" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Perkins Hall on the campus. It will be open to the public without charge.

Also included in the program will be short readings of German poetry and prose and some skits in German. Music will range from wandering songs to "Lieder", sung by individuals and in choir.

Refreshments will be served at a reception in the German House, 1001 N. Nevada Ave., following the folksong fest, and all interested people are invited to attend both the presentation and the reception. Students living in German House have taken an oath to speak only that language during the eight-week summer session, and have been working out over a period of five weeks preparing for the presentation.

Participants in the German House program live, attend classes and take their meals together throughout the summer. The small German community is equipped with a language laboratory and a well-stocked German language library.

Thompson also appeared in Justice of the Peace James F. Quine's court where he was fined a further $10 and costs for the traffic violation, having expired license plates. State Patrolman Dan Morrissey ticketed him July 22 on Colorado Highway 115.

Harold Herman Balke, 32, 843 Bryce Dr. was charged with misuse of plates, and having no lights on when visibility was less than 500 feet. State Patrolman Paul H. Cornell gave him the ticket Tuesday on South Circle Drive. The defendant paid a $15 fine and costs with $10 suspended.

DISCUSS FREEDOM — These Freedom School workshop panelists discussed the topic "Why You Won't Be Free in Your Lifetime" at Wednesday's workship session and divided in opinion on the subject. Panel Sees Diminishing Freedom in Our Lifetime

A panel of Freedom School graduates Wednesday divided in opinion over the question of whether or not they could be free in their lifetimes.

The panel discussion was part of the fourth annual school workshop being held this week on the subject "Education in a Free Society."

Panelist Ned Kimball said freedom in our time is impossible because, among other reasons, few people understand freedom, most are afraid of it, news is managed by socialists and the "something for nothing" attitude prevails.

Panelists Evis Hays and Herman Kolb agreed with Kimball that freedom would not be universal in their lifetimes. Mrs. Hays said universal freedom would eventually prevail, but pointed to a rising generation of socialists as a reason why the free society would not come to pass in our time.

Kolb said the "gospel of collectivism" is being spread just as quickly as libertarian ideas and freedom is diminishing rather than increasing.

Two dissenting panelists were Karen Colson and John Kidd. Miss Colson said the trend of managed news would pass away and the impulse toward individual initiative would replace the something for nothing attitude. She said libertarian principles are consistent and based on objective truth and would therefore win converts to the cause of freedom faster than most people think.

Kidd said that the government and economy would collapse "sooner than we think" and that when they fall, free enterprise will supplant them. He said the civil rights bill could hasten the collapse. If there is no breakdown in the existing system, freedom could nevertheless supplant socialism by "gradual revolution," Kidd said.

When discussion was thrown open to the other workshop members, one said that if the panelists were thinking of freedom as a state in which no one uses force, he would agree with those who do not expect to see freedom in their lifetime. On the other hand, he said, if freedom were defined as self-control, he would join the optimists. He doubted whether we would ever see the day when no one uses force on anyone else.

In the same vein, a woman said she was interested in her own freedom and only secondarily in the freedom of society. She said she was free to the extent that she understands and practices freedom.

Others agreed that individuals must learn self-control before a free society could be possible.

Panel moderator John Russell said pessimists on the panel could point out the obstacles in the way of freedom and the optimists could learn from them.

Right Turn Only Lanes Set for Nevada Avenue

Motorists who were confused with the right-turn only lanes on Tejon Street will find themselves faced with the same situation on Nevada Avenue.

But it will be all for the better, said City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith. He said the move would provide for a better flow of traffic and a better downtown traffic pattern.

City crews Friday will begin changing the diagonal parking areas on the west side of Nevada to parallel parking spaces. This work should be completed by Tuesday, Smith said, and make enough room to add a fourth lane of traffic on the busy downtown street.

He said the work would be done between Kiowa Street and Colorado Avenue.

The change from diagonal to parallel parking on the east side of Nevada Avenue was made several months ago. This made for a more efficient use of the street and provided a fourth lane for right turns only for northbound motorists. Southbound vehicles in this area now have only three lanes.

Once the change has been accomplished, Smith said there would be two "through only" lanes, one "right only" lane and one "left only" lane. The right turn lanes will be designated as "right turn only" by pavement markings and curb-side signs.

The change from angle to parallel parking will result in the loss of 12 parking meters, but the traffic engineer feels the need for improved movement of traffic justifies the action. He believes the loss of the meters will not adversely affect the general area.

The decision to change the parking arrangement and provide the additional right turn lane was made after the traffic engineering department studied and observed traffic movement and flow on Nevada Avenue between Kiowa Street and Colorado Avenue for several months. It is hoped the change will alleviate delay and congestion for southbound vehicles at Pikes Peak and Colorado Avenues.

OUT OF UNIFORM, MA'AM! — But a woman's smile and a worthy cause win out. Mrs. Nick Scandaliato of the Centennial La Sertoma Club snaps a Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo tie on Navy Capt. Vergil A. Erwin Jr., commander Naval Forces of NORAD. Centennial La Sertoma Club has a goal of 1,200 ties to be sold prior to the rodeo, Aug. 5-8. Proceeds are used primarily to send handicapped children to Handi-Camp at Idaho Springs, Colo. This club has sponsored the drive for the past four years.

Lawyer Cites Education to Lessen Law

If there were no laws, where would all the lawyers go? This was one of the questions under consideration Wednesday by the Freedom School workshop.

The question came up after Ned Kimball, himself a lawyer, and one of 22 Freedom School graduates attending the four-day workshop, read a formal paper in which he said education could make unnecessary a large portion of the estimated 35 million local, state and national laws now in effect.

As for the lawyers, a student said there would still be a market for them as out-of-court arbiters in a free society.

Kimball said it is impossible even for a lawyer to know the law under the present system. He said the individual has no protection under the often conflicting statutes now on the books.

A workshop participant suggested that the words "do not steal" could be substituted for all the present laws. In a free society, he said, if one party to a dispute does not want a solution, there will be none. Neither is there a solution under the present system, he said, but only an arbitrary decision which often satisfies neither party.

John Kidd read an editorial from the Santa Ana Register, a Freedom Newspaper, which was entitled "The Education Process," and said that educational devices such as books are not enough to educate a man if he does not want to learn. Man must have "scholarly motivation," the editorial continued, and government-run schools destroy rather than build this motivation.

BOSTON — It is a piece of rare good luck to come upon George Nickerson and the discovery he made 150 years ago. For some reason we do not fully understand, evidence from last year or the year before never helps your argument as much as an event whose anniversary is divisible by 50.

But it explains why school children are made to read the works of Julius Caesar instead of Warren G. Harding even though he was an American.

Anyway, in 1814, George Nickerson, a Boston shopkeeper, had a heated discussion with his wife and afterward took tracings of his feet to his cobbler.

Nickerson's diary does not record the argument he had with his wife. But for the first time in this country there was a left shoe and a right shoe. Until that time, as far as we can discover, both shoes were made on the same last so it did not matter if the shoe was on the other foot.

Now, we are not nominating this invention or its inventor for a national monument. I the first place, we feel it is unreasonable to suppose that Nickerson was the first man in American history whose left foot was shaped differently from his right. But even if it were true (these things have to start someplace) the type of monument required would not add much to a public park.

And in the second place, his idea did not catch on for another 35 years, long enough for many other people to have made the same discovery independently.

But we do think Nickerson is worthy of considerable honor for having noticed that there was a difference between his left foot and his right foot, thus making it much more comfortable for a man to put his foot down and a whole lot easier to follow in great men's footsteps.

This, we think, is a really basic discovery and not to be compared with the law of gravity, say, as Newton did not notice until it hit him on the head. But what makes Nickerson's discovery truly great is the fact that he noticed the difference, whereas his cobbler did not.

Well, it is quite easy to find examples of this sort in history, although not always with anniversaries divisible by 50.

We can, however, cite the case of William Banting, an obese London undertaker whose wife drove him from doctor to doctor in an effort to find a way to reduce.

Exactly 100 years ago this summer, his latest doctor went to Scotland on vacation, freeing Banting to discover the reducing diet named after him in the dictionary—no starches, no sugars and lots of meat, fish and vegetables.

We do not find it important that both of these great discoverers had trouble with their wives. Everybody knows that mother is the necessity of invention.

The deeper truth, we feel, is that you cannot expect anything different from a shoemaker who sticks to his last.

Linda Darnell Given Award From Estate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Linda Darnell was awarded $510 a month from the estate of her former husband for the support of their adopted daughter.

Miss Darnell, 41, testified in Superior Court Wednesday that the child, Charlotte Marley, needed the money for expenses at an Ojai, Calif., boarding school.

J. Peverell Marley, 62, a veteran film cameraman, died last Feb. 2, leaving most of his $50,000 estate in trust for the 16-year-old girl.

"FIRST" LADY

DE WITT, N.Y. (AP)—When Miss Flora Johnson, former local resident, became the first and only woman engineer employed by Fairfax County, Va., it was only one more step in the pioneer trail she has been blazing for years.

In Dade County, Fla., Miss Johnson was the first woman to be employed as a map clerk. Later, she was the first woman employed by the U.S. Navy as an engineering topgraphic draftsman on the Island of Guam. While working for New York State as a highway planning engineer, she was the first woman assigned to work in the field on highway construction.

CAPITOL STUFF

By PAUL HEALY

Washington — The gingerly way in which the Senate is rigging machinery to investigate itself may mean that it has a guilt complex about its recent disposal of the Bobby Baker case. And it nails down the fact that the Baker affair will be an issue in the coming election campaign.

Until the events of last Friday and today on the Senate floor, many Democratic leaders — and even some Republicans — doubted that much politcal capital could be made out of the onetime page boy who suddenly became a millionaire. Not one in 500 persons on the street could tell you who Robert G. (Bobby) Baker was. How could anyone remember he was "secretary for the majority" — whatever that is? and if a smart Senate aide set up some bewildering financial deals — who cares? So ran this theory.

As of Friday evening this theory is in question. The Senate did something it almost never does — it surprised itself. Leaders of both parties were still groggy today over their own miscalculation of the prevailing mood.

Pending was a resolution arming the Senate Rules Committee with specific investigative powers. It was the handiwork of the Senate Rules Committee, the same group of men who had rapped Baker for his shenanigans but stopped short of investigating Senators. The committee if weighted 6-3 in favor of Democrats, and the legislative skids were greased to answer the cries of critcs who have been insisting that the Senate cast a cold eye on its own behavior.

Then up popped Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper clutching a resolution of his own. Kentuckian Cooper looks like an absentminded Daniel Boone, but it turns out he was the right man at the right time around 5 p.m. Friday.

His resolution sets up a six-man select committee, evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats with nothing to do but hunt wrongdoing among Senators. It would have subpoena power and could recommend "disciplinary action" against the discovered wrongdoers.

The chariman of the Rules Committee suttered that the Senate did not need a "police force," repeating this line three times in two minutes. Senate GOP Leader, Everett Dirkson, Illinois, pleaded with his colleagues to let their constituents find their "mischief and wrongdoing" if there is any to be found.

But the Senate voted 50-33 to substitute Cooper's plan for Jordan's. Twenty - six Democrats and 24 Republicans supported it. Thirty-one Democrats and two Republicans were opposed.

No one was more surprised than Cooper himself. He is a respected but lonely GOP liberal whose proposals seldom set the Senate on fire. In this case Cooper had had one of his own staff aids draw the resolution instead of taking it to the Senate legislative counsel. Consequently, it is sloppily worded.

It Appeared to Be an Escape Hatch

But the main point was that this looked like a good vehicle for taking Senators off the hook. Ever since the Baker report was issued July 1 newspaper editorials across the land have been agreeing with the GOP minority that the report was "inadequate and incomplete."

Some of the same criticism has been voiced to the Senators in letters — not in bundles, but enough to worry them. A Senator running for reelection would just as soon not have his rival suggesting he has fallen into a tolerant view of corruption on the Potomac. The average citizen may not know exactly who Bobby Baker really is, but he knows the Baker case smells bad. He also knows that Baker was an agent of the Democrats — and used to be an agent of Lyndon B. Johnson when Johnson ran the Senate.

So now the Senate, long a terror at hounding sinners in government agencies, is forced to set a watchdog on itself. The mood was evident again today. Sen. John Williams (R-Del.), the Senate's blue-ribbon bird dog who flushed out the Baker case, held the floor for hours, offering an amendment to put some real teeth in the watchdog.

Wants to Bare Senators' Tax Returns

Williams argued that the bipartisan committee could never accomplish its purpose unless it has the power to examine fellow Senators, income tax returns — and to publicize the returns of errant Senators!

That the Senate was seriously debating Williams' flagrantly unprecedented idea was a signal of how far things have gone. Cracks were showing in the so-called Senate Establishment.

Williams was seeking to amend another Rules Committee resolution that he considered a phony. This one called for members, employes, and officers of the Senate to disclose any stocks or financial holdings exceeding 50 per cent of their annual Congressional salaries. The requirement, however, says nothing about the income involved and is therefore not considered a revealing "disclosure" plan by some Senators.

Actually, despite Williams' criticism of the watchdog committee, it could do a job if it is kept out of the hands of members of the Establishment. Just suppose the job were given to six hell-raisers. On the Democratic side that would be such established anti-Establishment men as Sen. Paul Douglas (Ill.), William Proxmire (Wis.) and Joseph Clark (Pa.), on the Republican side the naturals would be Williams, Cooper and Sen. Clifford Case (N.J.).

No Senator would be safe — and that's why these six will not be picked.

Geography Plays Definite Role In Lung Disease

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Mortality from the chronic respiratory diseases shows marked geographic variations. Nationally, asthma, bronchitis, emphysema and occupational lung disorders, as a group account for almost 14 deaths per 100,000 population, according to statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The national average for this group of diseases is exceeded in every one of the country's eight mountain states — Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Nevada. The highest age - adjusted rate in the country — 45.5 — was reported in Arizona.

It is notable that in Arizona, and in some adjoining areas, each of the chronic respiratory diseases recorded higher than average death rates.

In Pennsylvania, mortality pneumoconiosis (primarily silicosis) of occupational origin, a disease largely concentrated among the miners. A few other states where mining or quarrying is an important industry also show above - average rates from this cause.

The statisticians caution, however, that it is not generally possible to relate geographic variations in respiratory disease mortality to specific factors such as air pollution, climate, urbanization or to the presence of various types of allergens.

The high rate in Arizona, for example, reflects in large measure the influx of people with such diseases, people who hope the climate will alleviate their conditions, the statisticians said.

Other areas which show higher than average death rates from the chronic respiratory diseases are Vermont, New Hampshire, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. On the other hand, mortality was less than 10 per 100,000 in North Dakota, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Generally, the rates tended to be relatively low in the broad area between the Appalachian and the Rocky Mountains as well as in southern New England, New York, and New Jersey.

The large majority of deaths from chronic respiratory diseases occur among men, particularly those at the older ages. Inasmuch as these diseases are often associated with cardiovascular disorders common in later life, they will tend to become greater health problems as the number of older people in the population increases, the statisticians concluded.

INDIANS CITE COUNCIL

Awarded at the American Indian Capital Conference on Poverty, held in Washington, the citation, penned under a group of handpainted figures representing member tribes and nations, reads:

"In appreciation of outstanding and significant services rendered toward a better understanding between the general public and the American Indian people of the United States."

The Eastonville Extension Homemakers Club held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Weatherly with 10 members, two visitors and 14 children present. Sheets were torn and rolled for bandages to be sent to the missionary field. Rags were torn and braids were made for the rag rug. Lois Gaddie and Randy Kelly gave a 4-H demonstration on leathercraft and also displayed some of their work. Mrs. George McCune gave a report on soil erosion and control of flood water. Mrs. Bud Ishmael had a group discussion on "What would you do if there was an alert?" She gave out folders to be filled out and discussed by the family. August 13 will be our next meeting, at Community Building. Activity chairmen (page 8 of your year book) will give reports. Roll call, "Canning and Freezing Hints." Bring a sack lunch.

Guild members are asked to send birthday cards to Mrs. Allje Petefish, at 1118 E. Moreno, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80910, as she would enjoy them very much.

A delicious covered dish dinner was enjoyed by a large group of Peyton Ladies Guild members, former members, visitors and children in honor of the Guilds' 15 Anniversary, which was held at the Peyton School Wednesday. After the dinner, followed the program. Roll call was read with the reading of all the names of the living former members, with many communications also being read from a great many. A "thank you" was read from the Danielsons for the many quilts etc. which the Guild has made and given for missionary use. The names of all former presidents were read, with a few words from those who were present. Guests were also introduced. Mrs. John Hale read the club history, which was very interesting. Mrs. John Person and Mrs. John Hale were in charge of the program. Mrs. Clara Hamlin was presented with a corsage for being the only charter member present. Mrs. C. F. Anderson, who will be 90 "years young" in December, was the oldest member present. The hostesses, Mrs. Emil Pohlson, Mrs. Gertrude Payne and Mrs. Phil Tanner, had the tables beautifully decorated in gold and white, with a variety of centerpieces and a napkin fixed in a small folded paper plate in the shape of a fan, with 50th written in gold on them and a decoration in a small book form, with the years 1914-1964. The next Peyton Ladies Guild meeting will be held Aug. 9 as a picnic, with Mrs. John Person and Mrs. John Hale hostesses. I will have more details on this later.

Leftist Rebels Oppose Congo's Plan for Unity

BACKGROUND: Since he took over as premier of the divided Congo three weeks ago, Moise Tshombe has been trying to unite opposing forces through a policy of reconciliation. A main stumbling block is leftist Gaston Soumialot, a former grocer whose rebel tribesmen have overrun 70,000 square miles of the eastern Congo. AP writer Dennis Neeld has spent nearly three weeks in Soumialot's so-called stronghold.

By DENNIS NEELD

ALBERTVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Gaston Soumialot, leftist leader whose rebels hold two provincial capitals and territory the size of Iowa, has vowed to seize control of the eastern Congo. But he has little authority over his rampaging warriors.

Soumialot's ragged tribesmen took over Albertville, the North Katanga capital, last month and have captured Kindu, capital of Maneima Province. Now they are pushing slowly northwest toward Stanleyville, former capital of Antoine Gizenga's secessionist regime.

Soumialot, who sometimes wears the camouflage uniform of a paratrooper, says his spear-wielding braves will capture Kamina and Elisabethville also. It is doubtfu he will have much to say about it.

He has set up a provisional government to rule the territories the guerrillas have seized, but he exercises little control outside Albertville.

Even in his "capital" on Lake Tanganyika, he seems powerless to control his troops, who range through the streets demanding protection money from Asian, European and African shopkeepers.

Food stocks are almost exhausted in Albertville. To survive, many depend on the fish they can catch in the lake.

A single doctor aided by Catholic nuns runs Albertville's two hospitals, filled with wounded brought back from the front. Drugs are running short. Rebels threaten the staff with reprisals if any of the wounded die.

The rebels seized all trucks and automobiles when they took over Albertville June 18. The primitive tribesmen quickly ran them into a useless state.

About 120 Europeans, most of them Belgian, are still in Albertville. They maintain the water and power services and operate a textile plant.

It is almost impossible for them to get permits to leave, but Soumialot denies the whites are hostages. However, he has threatened harsh measures against Europeans whose governments aid Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe's forces.

Bands of rebels leave by train and cattle truck each day for the front, singing songs praising the late Patrice Lumumba, former Congo premier and patron saint of all the Congo's rebels.

They go off to war with spears, knives and clubs, confident that witchcraft medicine protects them from the bullets of the Congolese army.

Former Beauty Titlists Now Chaperones

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss Oregon arrived for the Miss Universe contest last year with two ducks in tow. Her chaperone's reaction?

"I put them in the bathtub, of course, for safekeeping," says Mrs. Val Hanley. "Things are always happening. We take care of them."

This soft-spoken native of Minneapolis said in an interview that her three years as a pageant chaperone have been "like mothering little chicks. You feel they're our own."

There was, for instance, the young man who pestered Shirley Pong, Miss Hong Kong of 1962. "He called six or seven times, frantically. He said he would kill himself if he couldn't see her and talk to her.

"I told him: Young man don't be so foolish. You have a long time to live."

Mrs. Ingrid Fine, a native of Oslo, Norway, and wife of a Miami doctor, says one of the chaperone's tougher duties is to "watch so no man can put his hands on your girl."

Mrs. Fine talked Mrs. Hanley, wife of a retired Miami stockbroker, into devoting two weeks as an unpaid mother. Both women were beauty titlists "of a minor sort" in younger years.

"I know what they're going through, the anticipations and the heartbreak," Mrs. Hanley says.

Her charges this year, Meher Mistry of India and Johneane Teeter of Michigan, say Mrs. Hanley is a perfect mother. They've given her an engraved gold charm to show their appreciation for such things as carrying a banana, "so Meher won't get hungry before dinner," loaning cuticle clippers and helping lug costumes and dresses.

Mrs. Fine is one of the executive hostesses who have charge of the 60 chaperones and 100 girls gathered in five hotels. "It's like standing on your head. We help write speeches, help with makeup, encourage and listen — in the end we lose weight," she says.

Most of the chaperones and girls get along well. Occasionally there are little problems.

"Girls are under terrific pressure. You see it in rehearsal. In their rooms it's more so," Mrs. Fine said. "Sometimes the fact they've lost is too much."

To console her girls, Mrs. Hanley said she would tell them: "You're the most important things in Michigan and India, win or lose."

Fidel Castro Plays Home Ground Game

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP)—The hometown boy made good Friday as right-hander Fidel Castro took to the mound and shut out Americans 26-0, at their own game, baseball.

The Cuban prime minister was treated to a 12-run first inning cushion by his Santiago University team in blanking a squad of American students and two newsmen.

The newsmen have State Department approval for visiting Cuba. The students do not.

Two Astronauts Are Named for Second Gemini

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Capt. James A. McDivitt, 35, of Chicago will become the first of the second generation astronauts to man the command seat in a Gemini spacecraft.

Capt. Edward H. White II, 32, of San Antonio, Tex., will be his copilot.

The surprise announcement of their selection as the crew of the second Gemini spacecraft was made Monday by Paul Haney Manned Spacecraft Center public affairs officer.

An experienced Project Mercury astronaut had been expected to draw the pilot's assignment but broken bones knocked the older spacemen off the crew.

Maj. L. Gordon Cooper Jr., one of the seven Mercury astronauts, was the only member of the original seven-man Mercury team available for the assignment. The manned spacecraft center gave no explanation of why Cooper was passed over.

The backup crew for this flight will be Maj. Frank Borman and Lt. Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., with Borman designated as spacecraft commander.

The second Gemini Titan flight, bearing the code name GT4, is scheduled for "the first quarter of next year," Haney said.

The first manned Gemini flight is scheduled for December. If this one goes on schedule, the second should be in March 1965.

Gemini plans call for a flight about every three months. This timing is based on the assumption no technical problems would delay any of the flights.

The first Gemini crew, Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Stafford, was selected in April.

The first manned Gemini flight will be for three orbits. The second will be for four days.

By MARGERY McELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Woodgrain hardboard panels have advantages that soft wall covering lack. In addition to luxurious appearance, they last long and are easy to maintain.

Unlike many wall surfaces, hardboard panels now have built - in qualities that make housecleaning in the old sense of hard scrubbing a thing of the past.

Today, the homemaker can dust paneled walls with a vacuum cleaner or periodically damp wipe them with a sponge, says John Concord, home improvement counsellor for Masonite Corporation.

Common household stains yield readily, too. To clean stains made by wax crayon, lipstick, oil or grease, wipe off the excess first with a soft cloth and then follow up with a clean rag dipped in carbon tetrachloride, a household cleaning agent.

Other spillage caused by carelessness or accident won't mar the surface of the finished hard-board panels, Concord said. The homemaker can readily remove alcohol stains, household bleach, vinegar and most inks by swabbing the panels with a damp sponge or cloth dipped in water containing a mild detergent.

When there are children in the home, pencil marks are likely to appear on the walls, despite warnings. Eliminate them from the wood-grained panels with a non-abrasive eraser of the type found on the end of a lead pencil.

"Stains and marks on the surface can be eliminated readily because of hardboard's grainless, extremely smooth surface and, of course, the factory finish over the imprinted wood-grain," Concord said. "Pencil marks across the grain of an ordinary wood panel can ruin it by indenting the grain."

Wood panels lend warmth and accent features to a room. They can be used to accent one wall or as wall decoration for an entire room. They also come in a variety of woods, ranging from oak to pecan.

The various shades and patterns enable the homemaker and decorator to choose paneling that will be the correct background for existing or new furnishings.

Pecan, for example, is a good setting for currently popular Mediterranean style furniture. It is ideally suited to red hues and bright, lovely greens.

Walnut-grained panels come in a tawny hue. Installed on just the wall of a dull or drab room, they bring vitality and new accent to the decorations. There also are cherry-grained panels, rich-looking teak, and elm.

For heavy-usage rooms such as the living or family room, den hallways and childrens rooms, the woodgrained hardboard panels have the advantages of dent and abrasion-resistance and easy maintenance. Should there be a major blow, like pushing a piano corner into a panel, the replacement would be low in cost, one that the home handyman could do.

Quarter-inch thick panels in 4 inch x 7 inch or 4 inch x 8 inch sizes may be installed directly over old walls, if the walls are in good condition, or to furring strips. In new construction, they are nailed to wall studs.

Color-matched nails may be obtained for the panels selected. For a professional look, color-mated metal or wood moldings are available for corners and the joints between the paneling and the ceiling and floor.

Hair Sprays Traced To Skin Eruptions

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Hair sprays can cause a type of acne which does not respond to conventional treatment, says Dr. Kenneth G. Baker, of Tucson.

During 1962, at the peak of popularity of the beehive coiffure (maintenance of which calls for repeated spraying) Dr. Baker treated an unusually large number of teen-age girls for eruptions on forehead, face and neck. Questioning revealed that these patients used hair spray intensively, some as often as 25 times. If you use a hair spray, wear a cosmetic mask, Baker suggested.

IN THE SWIM

EDISON, N.J. (UPI) — Until 1948, only 2,500 residential swimming pools were built in the United States, reports one manufacturer (Cascade Pools). Last year some 60,000 pools were constructed and an estimated 75,000 pools are expected to be built in 1964.

Valuable Chimps Play Games for The Air Force

By ROBERT F. HUBER

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Chimpanzees play tic-tac-toe at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico.

These chimps are special. Their value has been set at $25,000 each. They are part of an Air Force program to test responses to dangerous situations and correlating them to human reactions.

The Air Force's chimp colony—the largest in the world—includes 85 animals. The Air Force says 30 more are on order from the Congo. When they arrive at Holloman, each animal will be given a physical and mental examination to gauge his testing abilities.

"Not all of them are smart," one doctor at the center said. "They vary like people. Some are intelligent. Others should feel lucky we got them out of the jungle."

Over a long period of time, each animal is trained to do a specific job. In one room at the animal center, two chimps play tic-tac-toe with each other on a board that lights up squares when touched. The winner gets a tiny banana pellet and a drink.

In another cage, a long-haired chimp named Zsa Zsa operates machine which she controls by observing flashing pictures of circles, boxes and triangles.

A third chimp reads flashing numbers on a screen and hits a lever the correct number of times. A fourth chimp keeps a tiny cross inside a circle as the circle moves across a radar screen.

All the chimps must learn their jobs to the point where they can be tested under various conditions. Testing the chimps for space activities takes up much of the center's time, but not all.

One chimp operating a complicated control panel may have his oxygen removed. The outcome determines about how long a man could continue to function without air before blackout.

Another chimp may be supplied with various gases as substitutes for oxygen to test the reaction. All the tests are controlled. With the $25,000 invested in each animal, the experiments seldom reach the dangerous point unless specifically planned.

At present, tests are being conducted by the Army using drugs, by the Navy using high pressures, and by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration using low pressures. Used in the tests are chimps ranging from babies to full grown, 150-pound animals. The adult chimp, looking very much like a gorilla, is the most sought after. They reach adulthood at about 10 years.

Not all the chimps are used in military experiments. Presently, a dozen are on loan to the University of Wisconsin. Three others are at Missouri University. Four at Baylor in Texas are undergoing tests in psycho-physiology.

Sick Kids Sing in Boston Hospital

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — To most persons visiting a hospital and hearing the voices of children singing "Ring-around-the-Rosie" might sound strange.

Not so to visitors at the Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children. Singing and playing are a regular part of the hospital's program of care for the whole child. Two adjoining rooms on the fifth floor of the hospital are set aside as playrooms where the patients play games and participate in a wide range of nursery-school-like activities.

STITCHING IN TIME

As you sew for your school children, do everything possible to save yourself from making early mends on the garments. Pay special attention to pockets. Stitch a piece of narrow tape on the underside of the garment in line with the pocket tops to keep them from tearing off easily.

Use a heavy material of matching color for the lining of jacket and coat pockets. You might also try lining a boy's pockets with leather for two inches along the bottom. Discarded leather gloves can be used for this purpose.

Keep a piece of candle in your sewing box. Before threading a needle, draw the end of the thread against the wax. It will help to ease the thread through the eye of the needle.

To clean electric fryers and cookers, drain fat or liquids, add detergent and water to fill and heat to boiling. Then drain and rinse.

Female Private Eye Says Paris Business Good

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — This woman is dangerous although at first glance she looks like a no-nonsense, athletic type of girl. Her fully hyphenated name is Anne-Marie Albert-Lebro, just 25. She is the only licensed woman detective operating in Paris.

A little over a year ago she put up her shingle in an office building on the Champs Elysees. Since then business has been very good for this female private eye.

Her office furniture is feminine — a couch covered in sky blue leather against a scarlet wall in the waiting room. In her office proper she sits behind a glass-topped desk, swept clear of clutter but with two telephones. No bottles of liquor in the wastebasket. No stuffed and mysterious filing cabinets. Two modern chairs and a thick, black carpet.

Anne-Marie has 10 associates, most of them ex-policemen.

Madame Detective said she prefers criminal investigations to the messy business of getting evidence in unsavory divorce cases or to delving into the background of a prospective bride or groom. "Very French, this premarital inquiry," she pointed out.

She herself handles most of the important investigations — like tracking down industrial spies, loss of confidential documents, jewel thefts, blackmail and inheritance tangles.

In the past year Anne-Marie assignments have taken her all over Europe and to New York (only for a 48-hour stay). She understands English, speaks it haltingly.

The qualifications for her job? "A woman must be energetic, strong well-disciplined and devoid of home ties if she is to do a serious job." Her husband died two years ago.

Anne-Marie thinks she can accomplish more than a man detective. "Women can change their entire appearance so easily. I can make myself look like a streetwalker, a shop girl or don a nun's garb and nobody will know the difference.

"Also, people are less suspicious of a woman. I have often gathered information sitting on a bar stool without anyone guessing what I am really doing there."

Sometimes her youth and sex put people off, but usually prospective clients are ready to give her a chance. Women come to her because she is a woman. "And men too, for that matter," she added with a twinkle in her eye.

Neither Anne-Marie nor her associates can expect help or protection from the police when on a job. They all have to rely on their fists and knowledge of judo. They are forbidden to carry guns.

When in her teens, she became interested in juvenile delinquency. This, she believes, is what led her to private detective work. She then studied at the International Center of Police Studies.

Her fees range from a couple of thousand to as little as $100. It all depends on the nature of the investigation and the time it takes before Madame Detective can pick up her telephone and announce, "Mision terminee."

THREE JOHN F. KENNEDYS

NEW YORK (UPI) — There will be three John F. Kennedys at 1040 Fifth Avenue after Mrs. John F. Kennedy moves in with her children next fall.

The three with the same name will be John F. Kennedy Sr., son of the late President; doorman John F. Kennedy Jr., and his father John F. Kennedy, the elevator operator. The middle name of the doorman and elevator operator is Francis.

When removing a pullover sweater, take care so as to not stretch the neckline. First remove your arms from the sleeves, then ease the sweater over your head with your hands. Also watch how you fold the sweater to avoid stretching. Place the front down on a flat surface and fold the sleeves back at the shoulder line to lay parallel at the rear. Smooth creases out carefully. Fold sweater neatly in half and slip into its own bag or case.

Average Briton Well Informed About Barry

LONDON (NEA) — "Goldwater, he's a Republican, ain't he?" This is the dimmest response an American is likely to encounter in questioning Britons concerning their attitude toward the Republican presidential candidate.

Usually the reply is much more informative. The average Briton knows at least one fact concerning the Arizona Senator, even though that fact may be garbled in the telling. The trouble is that one isolated fact does not give a coherent picture of the Republican contender.

"Goldwater's against civil rihts, I read somewhere." The man who volunteered this information over a pint of beer is a union shop steward. "They say it will cost him the Negro vote," he added, recalling an editorial which had appeared in the pro-Labor Daily Herald.

"He wants to tear down the Berlin wall, and a good thing, too." This opinion came from the other side of the bar, and was voiced by a used car dealer who was sipping a gin and tonic.

"The say that if Goldwater's elected he'll pull America out of the United Nations," the shop steward chimed in. "If that happens it's goodby U.N. and goodby peace."

"Nonesense," the gin drinker cut in, and then went on to cite a "Life" article to the opposite effect.

If the man in the street is a bit hary concerning Goldwater, the British press is not. Almost uniformly, British newspapers are against him, and this includes the Conservative press.

"Goldwater Platform Shocks Americans," is a typical headline in The Times of London, which goes on to describe the Rpeublican platform as containing all of Goldwater's "dangerously farcical ideas." Another headline in the same publication reads: "Goldwater Annihilates Reason."

Political cartoons are no less hostile. They range from a Daily Mail cartoon showing Goldwater shooting from the hip as he rides a rampaging elephant to Goldwater depicted as the Statue of Liberty holding an H-bomb in one hand, which appeared in the News Stateman. Observers recall that the press here was almost solidly behind Adlai Stevenson in his race against Eisenhower in 1956. When the latter was elected, the British press lords jumped onto Ike's band wagon with remarkable speed, and Ike finished office as one of the best-liked American presidents from the British viewpoint.

What complicates the British attitude toward Barry Goldwater is that the British are holding their elections at the same time as the Americans this year, and the latter elections are bound to influence the polls here.

Goldwater's nomination is likely to work up to the advantage of Sir Alec Douglas-Home, who will be defending his Conservative government against a strong take-over bid from the Labor party's Harold Wilson.

Britain's defense policy is likely to be the No. 1 election issue here, and one of Sir Alec's chief arguments for Britain's retention of its own nuclear deterrent is that the United States is not to be trusted in all circumstances.

With the British press planting the image of Goldwater as a trigger-happy politician, the arguments for an independent British deterrent are likely to appear more cogent to the average voter.

Until now Labor's Harold Wilson has argued that Britain should give up its own H-bomb and rely solely on the United States for its ultimate defense. But, in view of Senator Goldwater's candidacy, Wilson is likely to back-pedal furiously in the next few weeks and to come out with a defense program similar to that of the Conservatives.

If there is one lesson that British politicians have learned from the successful Goldwater campaign for the Repulbican nomination it is that unrelenting foot-slogging pays off.

Leaders of both political parties here have read with amazement how Senator Goldwater has made over 800 speeches in the past three years, and raised $6.4 million for the Republican party. Moreover, the Arizona senator barnstormed every state where a GOP politican was in trouble, or where party coffers were low.

From this point of view, if from no other, Goldwater deserved the Republican nomination, in the opinion of British politicians.

Chrysler 'Lives With Nature' in Provincetown

PROVINCETOWN, Mass—We have always had great admiration for any man who can throw job security to the winds, sell off his few possessions, and go back to live with nature.

So we packed a lunch and came down to Provincetown to see how Walter P. Chrysler was making out since he quit his job in an automobile company, sold a building he owned in New York, and went to live in this tiny fishing village with nature.

We had never actually met a man who did this, although we have read stories about it, such as the works of Edgar Rice Burroughs. But while we can see the virtues of returning to basic nature, we could never do it because we do not like apes and have a hard time learning new languages.

We also doubt that we could survive if left to fight nature alone because we do not know the first thing about making such elementary items as heavy cream or aspirin.

We also doubt that we could survive if left to fight nature alone because we do not know the first thing about making such elementary items as heavy cream or aspirin.

We did not suppose that you had to worry about things that basic in Provincetown. But as it is only two streets wide and lies out in the Atlantic Ocean 3,716 miles West of Paris, it seemed to us to be about as close to nature as you could get without actually being dead. There had to be a good reason, we figured, why the Pilgrims had hurried on to Plymouth after first setting foot on this continent at Provincetown.

We were therefore quite surprised that both streets were crowded with people. They were dressed in the old and foreign clothes you wear when you go back to nature, and they stared at us in our suit and tie as though they had long - forgotten what civilization looked like.

They were, however, very friendly, a number of them stopping us to ask if we were a fisherman and what year contemporary art began.

But nobody knew where Mr. Chrysler was to be found, all of them offering the plausible excuse that they had just arrived in Provincetown yesterday or the day before.

At length we stopped at what seemed to be a combination general store and art gallery, offering a wide selection of fresh eggs and objects of art. It was, we thought, very nicely designed and looked like the War on Poverty pavilion at the World's Fair. We especially admired a knitted radiator cover from Aleppo and a large painting done in green and bullet holes entitled "Preying Mothers."

The shopkeeper was a pretty girl in bare feet who carried a large shopping bag in which a small baby slept peacefully. The girl told us that Mr. Chrysler's place was in the center of town and we could not miss it.

After a short walk, during which we told a number of people that contemporary art began in 1913, we came to the place.

It was a large, white church and had the name Chrysler on it. It displayed a number of what seemed to be statues on the lawn. And we could tell without going in that it was an art museum of some sort.

Mr. Chrysler was at the door and we can report that he is well and happy and does not regret at all having got out of the rat race to live in Provincetown with nature.

FARE FOR FAIR

CHASSELL, Mich. (AP)—It took a lot of planning and a lot of "pasties" to get the Chassell High School Class of 1964 to the World's Fair, but they finally made it.

The memers of the class worked toward their trip to New York ever since the Fair was scheduled and held candy and bake sales, pancake suppers and smorgasbords. But their biggest money-making endeavor was making "pasties," a type of stew baked in a closed pie and a lunch-bucket favorite of the local men who work in neighboring copper mines.

Sometimes a dress with accordion pleats across the front sags a bit. This can be corrected. Take a piece of one-inch wide elastic or tape the exact size of the waistline of the dress. Sew the accordion pleats across the front of the dress to the lower part of elastic or tape. This will support the extra weight and keep the dress from sagging.

Rotisserie Roast

There's no baloney about it — a large size bologna sausage makes a good roast for the rotisserie. It's boneless and evenly balanced so it will turn nicely on the spit.

Ready-to-eat, a bologna roast, weighing about nine pounds for the whole sausage, needs about 40 to 45 minutes cooking time or until heated through.

Dress it up by scoring and basting with barbecue sauce, if you want it for a teen-age party. Slice it thick and serve on buns or rolls with potato chips, pickles, relishes and soft drinks . . .

Peach Sauce Glorifies Ice Cream

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With fresh peaches and cherries in the markets, now is the time to add brightness and and wonderful flavor to ice cream dishes. Or to custards or other desserts.

* * *

Fresh Peach Sauce
(1 cup)

2 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 tablespoon fresh lemon
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

* * *

Mix peaches with lemon juice and put through a sieve. Measure puree (there should be 1 cup). Add sugar and salt and mix well. Chill. (This sauce thickens after standing.) Serve over ice cream, cake or pudding.

Fresh Cherry Sauce
(2 cups)

½ cup sugar
1-16 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 cup pitted fresh sweet cherries
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Combine sugar, salt, water and lemon juice in a saucepan. Mix well. Bring to boiling point. Add cherries and cook until they are tender, about 5 minutes. Mix cornstarch with the 1 tablespoon water and stir into the mixture. Cook 1 to 2 minutes or until the juice is clear. Remove from heat. Add butter or margarine and pure vanilla extract. Serve over ice cream.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE
From Heloise's Kitchen

Ladies, you know those frozen fish sticks we buy once in a while?

It tells you to put them on a piece of foil or in a pan and cook them.

Don't!

Save a piece of foil you have used for something else, and washed and set aside. I always put these extra pieces of foil back in my oven (I have the gas-type with a pilot light) so that it will dry them.

Another thing about "keeping" these extra pieces of foil in your oven is that you remember to use them . . .

Now, back to the fish sticks . . . lay your fish sticks on this piece of crumpled foil (that means it's wadded, crooked, all squashed up and then smoothed out).

Do you know that your fish sticks will get brown on the bottom the "same" time they do on the top? They can be turned over with the flip of a fork, "never stick, never are gooey" on one side and brown on the other, and it's absolutely fantabulous.

Try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For a number of years I have taken three special pills each day.

It seemed difficult at first to remember whether or not I had taken one after each meal.

So I got the idea of taking out three daily pills, swallow "one" and laying the "other two" by the bottle and the count was easy.

Now, I must also use eyedrops three times a day. I use a small slip of paper (one inch by three inches) and write 1-2-3 on it. After using the drops, I move the little bottle up onto the next number and, again, I can keep track.

It helps! —E. C. G.

Your idea is good but be "sure" to keep your medicine out of the reach of children. And when it comes to moving medicine on a slip of paper, why not tear off the "one" when you get the first procedure done and throw it away? Much safer . . .

Just trying to save a life . . . please understand. —Heloise

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Please tell me how to get my Heloise away from the dogs when I need it. Either the Dachshud is sitting on it or the terrier is trying to kill it . . . —Mrs. H. D. Poole

P. S. Now let's all laugh . . . Poor Heloise— —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For those who enjoy showing movies or slides in their homes . . . We have found a place to store the screen between showings:

At the end of the room we hung a large framed picture and attached the screen to the back. By reversing the picture we are ready to start showing off our movies and slides —J. T.

Dear Heloise:

When you lose a screw from your glasses and the temple piece comes off, don't panic.

Just insert a round toothpick in the screw hole and break off the toothpick.

Serves in an emergency until you can find the lost screw or have it replaced. —John C. Graves O. D.

Dear Heloise:

Who said husbands are not helpful around the house?

For months I had struggled trying to iron my daughter's tiny clothes with an average size iron. As every mother knows, when ironing one part of a child's clothes, some part of the iron is always pressing awful wrinkles into another part!

My husband watched me struggling with these tiny clothes and remembered that we had a travel iron in storage. The little iron is perfect as it goes right into those hard-to-get-at places.
—Mrs. Bennie Jarman

Dear Heloise:

Here is a suggestion for those who have to carry many bags of groceries up a flight of "stairs" each week. Especially if they live in apartments, etc.

Have the person who bags the groceries use several bags, dividing the weight equally, with no bag heavier than you can lift easily. (Why do they usually put all the heavy items in one bag and all the light items in another?) I have found that they are interested in distributing the weight more evenly when I explained "my" reason for requesting "them" to do so.

When you get home, assemble all the bags at the foot of the stairs. Then, standing on the floor, lift each bag to the highest step you can reach easily.

Then climb to the step below the bags and lift them higher again. Continue in this way until all your bags are on the top landing.

When you reach the top you will realize you have climbed the steps only "once" and have not carried a "single" bag up and you are not so tired and breathless. —Reader

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for busy women who do their own nails:

Take a spring-type clothespin and clamp it on the under side of your finger (with your fingernail on top as if you had the end of your finger in a vise!)

This vise pulls your finger down and away from the nail so that the polish may be applied all the way down the side of the nail without getting the polish all over the cuticle.

If you "should" get polish on your cuticle you can remove it without smearing the polish on your nail as long as the clothes pin is attached. —Mom Doctorman

Dear Heloise:

Here is a hint for people who use sponges for various jobs in their homes:

Choose a particular color of sponge for each particular cleaning job . . . such as a green sponge for kitchen counter tops, a yellow sponge for the bathroom cleaning, blue sponge for the nursery, etc.

FAT BRIDES FEARED

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (UPI)—A Church of England court is considering an appeal by a village vicar to remove four pews from his church because "There is difficulty in maneuvering coffins around, and I think there may be difficulty about brides if they are fat enough."

Old-fashioned cooks sometimes used to use a slightly beaten egg instead of liquid in making pastry for a pie. A little water was added to the egg to make the required amount of liquid.

Household Hints

United Press International

A washable mattress pad protects the mattress.

A staple gun will do the job of lining the closet with cedar paper on the walls and shelves.

Sausage Kabobs

There's no need for running out of ideas for kabobs when there are so many varieties of meat available. Try hard salami cut in cubes, smoked sausage links, cut into halves or thirds, or ring bologna chubs, with fruit or vegetables of your choice.

The important thing to remember in kobob cookery is to have meat and vegetables or fruit in about the same sizes as the meat, or everthing in sizes to be compatible with cooking time.

Tumble in a Basket

Have a basket for the rotisserie? Not only can hot dogs, sausages and ribs be tumbled in it but also cubes of beef or lamb. In beef, use sirloin steak or high quality sirloin tip steak or roast, cut in your own kitchen or by the meat retailer.

Pink Applesauce Tops Slice of Shoulder Butt

Something pretty, something savory — that's a prescription most homemakers would like to fill when it comes to preparing the main dish.

One of the meat cuts with which she may be a little less familiar is smoked shoulder butt. This is cut from the foresection of pork, says meat authority, Reba Staggs. It's shaped in a roll, cured and smoked. The flavor is very similar to ham.

It may be prepared whole by roasting, but since it is boneless, you may also have it sliced and topped with this spicy tinted applesauce. Slices take a shorter cooking time than roasting the whole piece.

Smoked Shoulder Butt—Spiced Applesauce

8 slices smoked shoulder butt, cut ¼-inch thick
1 cup unseasoned applesauce
1 teaspoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon cloves
1 or 2 drops red food coloring

Mix applesauce, sugar, cloves and red food coloring. Place shoulder butt slices in baking dish. Top each slice with approximately 2 tablespoons applesauce mixture. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Seal two or three pieces of wax paper together with a hot iron to make an extra - large width of wax paper.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Maybe It's Occupational

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I went to a hospital and stayed there for six weeks. Last week I had to go back to the same hospital for a little corrective surgery, and what do you think the head nurse greeted me with? "Oh, no, not YOU again, Mrs. So-and-So! When the nurses hear you're back they'll shoot themselves!" Then she laughed. I failed to see anything funny in her remark. When I saw my doctor I reported the incident to him, and he laughed, too. Then he patted me on the shoulder and said, "Oh don't pay any attention to her. She's a little screwy." Why would a hospital hire a "screwy" head nurse? —OFFENDED

DEAR OFFENDED: She probably wasn't "screwy" when they hired her.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and baby-sit to earn money for clothes. About once a week I sit for a lady who is getting a divorce. She has two small children. She has all her bureau drawers and her desk drawers "sealed" with big wide strips of adhesive tape. Every closet in her house is locked, and she even keeps a padlock on her refrigerator. She told me that she trusted me, but in case I got bored or curious she didn't want me going through her things. Abby, I would never think of doing such a thing. Last time I was there she said if I tried to remove the adhesive tape and seal it back, my fingerprints would be on the tape and I'd never get away with it. This hurt me. Do you think there is something wrong with her? I'm afraid if I tell my parents they won't let me sit for her any more, and I need the money. What should I do? —NERVOUS GIRL

DEAR NERVOUS: Yes, I think there is definitely something wrong with her. Tell your parents and abide by their decision.

DEAR ABBY: I have been employed in this office only a short time, but it is an ideal place to work and I would like to remain here. I am not the kind of person who indulges in gossip, but: The telephone operator here told me that the boss, a family man, is carrying on an affair with a woman who calls him at the office and uses a phony name. The telephone operator listens in on all his calls, so she is not guessing. The boss is a fine man and seems so proud of his family that it is hard to believe that he is leading a double life. I am afraid his wife will find out about it and their home will be broken up. Should I tell the boss what I know so he can be more careful? —NEW GIRL

DEAR NEW: Mind your own business, and tell the telephone operator that if she knows what is good for her, she should mind hers. If the boss chooses to skate on thin ice, let him take his chances.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "'Can't Sleep' In Troy": Tell your husband what's on your mind and give him a fair chance to defend himself. You could be wrong.

Gals Will Grin — but Won't Bare It!

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — No, the French fashion titans do not decree the bare bosom for fall. But the Paris grapevine does reveal that the designers will outfit women in the sexiest, softest clothes of the past 10 years.

The designers, beginning July 27 presented their inspirations to about a thousand buyers from around the world. Their high-style offerings are among the five leading exports from France.

Oh, there has been some movement in the direction of the bare look.

Last season Marc Bohan, for the Maison Dior, and Pierre Cardin showed some pretty extreme models. The first had his "Tom Jones" decolletes, which plunged and plunged, but nevertheless left something to the imagination. Cardin's dresses were slashed down to the navel, but filled in with flesh-colored chiffon — far sexier than a denuded bosom.

But, the "young lions" of high fashion were scandalized at the idea. Guy Laroche said, "I shall do exactly the opposite. My decolletes will plunge down to the waist, but at the back." Jean - Francois Crahay, over at Lanvin's (who started the startling decolletes several seasons ago) promises to continue to show his daring necklines.

Gerard Pipart, the youngest of all the couturiers, in his collection for Ricci, will highlight evening gowns with strapped tops which will be just as shocking.

Generally the 1965 silhouette will be romantic, emerging from the disembodied, unfitted era with jackets and dresses softly following body contours, defining but not stressing the waist and natural shoulder line.

The "sportive look" is completely outmoded.

—Skirts stay about the same; as short as the individual woman can wear them successfully. Apparently the day of the straightforward up - and - down skirt is over, too — the new ones will swing with a circular cut or pleats, always preserving a slender line.

—Suits will feature longer jackets, indented at the waist, finished with a hood - collar or a tall, round fur trimming repeated at the long, tubular sleeve. This sleeve will appear consistently on daytime as well as on formal evening dresses. Blouses will turn out in great force.

—Coats will have the slick, slender line, not the bulky look; even though there will be fur linings galore.

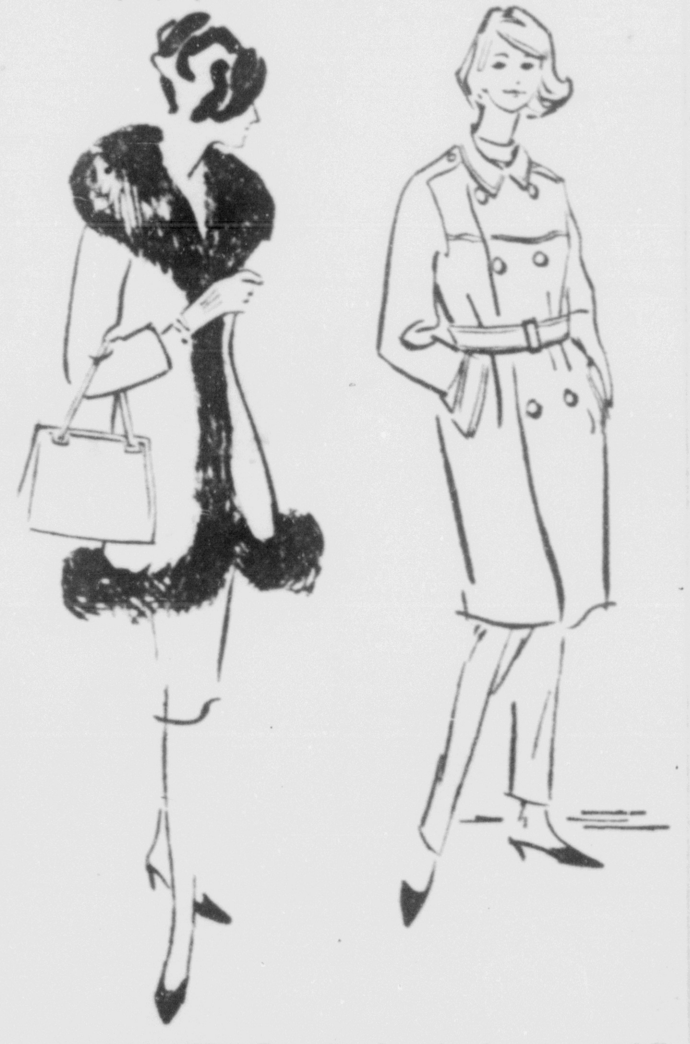
Courreges, a pupil of Balenciaga's, given as the great white hope of high fashion, will show several suits teaming slacks with jackets for street wear. He started this in his spring collection. "I thoroughly believe in this formula" says he. "It is a reconversion of the classic suit. Probably it will be the current fashion in the year 2000, but I am confident women will adopt it long before that."

For evening there seems to be a tendency to a raised waistline. "So very feminine and becoming," says Pipart.

As for Castillo, he announces a "5 - year - old line" to be shown on the youngest mannequin in Paris, 14 - year - old Christina. Heim will launch dresses sans seams and sans visible fastening.

Colors favored are black, white, green, red, purple and a new "burnt orange" for daytime. For evening, black again, with a revival of pastels led by a romantic pink and forget-me-not blue.

Costume jewelery will consist of deep plastron necklaces to fill in gaps left by decolletes. There will be small hats instead of last year's out-size busbies. Knee-high boots are discarded for the more elegant bootee.



COATS AND SUITS: Fur will adorn fitted coats next fall, and smart tailored jacket-slacks evoke the classic suit.

ALL AT ONCE

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP)—It was a big day for both Capt. Paul Victor, veteran American Airlines pilot, and his mother when she celebrated her 74th birthday.

She took her first airplane ride, and with her son at the controls. For Captain Victor the day also marked his 20th anniversary with the airline and the occasion of his earning his jet flying rating.

Utah's Teachers Are Moving Into Political Arena

By PHIL KEIF

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Utah's teachers have moved into the political and economic arenas to bet more money for public schools.

The result is that schools are expected to open as usual this fall, even though the teachers have not yet got what they want — better salaries, more teachers and counselors, and better teaching equipment.

A boycott of contract negotiations, which threatened to keep the school doors closed this fall, has been junked.

The Utah Education Association instead is trying to elect a governor and state legislators sympathetic to its cause.

It retains the sanctions imposed by the National Education Association, which many businessmen say have hurt efforts to attract new industry to the state.

The NEA sanctions urge all members outside the state to refuse to take jobs in Utah.

John C. Evans Jr., executive secretary of the UEA, says the NEA sanctions are just as effective, if not more effective, than contract boycotts.

Utah's economy has been hit by missile industry layoffs and cutbacks in spending. The state is urgently trying to get new industry. State tax revenue has not been as high as anticipated.

Evans says he is optimistic that the UEA can get sympathetic candidates elected in November. The legislature next convenes in January.

Gov. George D. Clyde, who is not running for re-election, twice has refused to call a special session of the legislature to appropriate money for schools.

The UEA had said it would boycott contract negotiations until Gov. Clyde did call a special session. That could not be accomplished however, and the UEA voted earlier this month to resume contract talks.

The state superintendent of public instruction, T. H. Bell, said in an interview that talks at the local school district level were progressing satisfactorily and that he expected schools to open as usual in the fall.

Dr. Bell said the State Board of Education would try to get more money from the legislature for a general teacher salary increase and ways to keep and attract the most competent educators.

Science Being Proposed for Home Planning

By DOUGLAS DILTZ

ALHAMBRA, Calif (UPI) — A new space-age computing technique employed in the development of America's Apollo moon program will be used by future housewives for scientific home planning.

This is the prophecy of John W. Pickett, former statistics professor who now is the world's largest manufacturer of all metal slide rules.

Pickett points out that in addition to them an-on-the-moon program, the United States used the new mathematical computing - planning system called PERT for developing the Polaris missile. PERT stands for Program Evaluation and Review Technique.

"The PERT technique scientifically meshes management, planning and production for utmost efficiency in time and money," says Pickett, a former professor at the University of Southern California.

In fact, he adds, PERT has been so successful that the government now requires all outside contractors who bid for government work to submit PERT bids. This not only includes defense work, but housing projects and other construction jobs.

Pickett, manufacturer of the PERT slide rule used by scientists and contractors, said "it's just a matter of time until sociologists and psychologists begin to apply PERT to everyday life.

"I believe a form of the PERT slide rule eventually will enter the home, helping harried housewives to save money and steps in their family planning," he continued.

For example, he says, a wife will be able to compute, with a slide rule, her work for the day. It will afford her as little effort and yet get the maximum result when she vacuums the house, washes the dishes, shops and feeds and dresses her children.

It can even help in planning the payment of bills.

"PERT indicates how much time and other variant factors are needed for each phase of the complete project, from beginning to end," says Pickett.

New Lions Head Attends Meet In Canada

Edward Darrington, co-owner and general manager of the South Tejon Firestone Store, recently attended the 47th annual convention of Lions International at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, Canada. He is the newly elected president of the Colorado Springs Lions Club.

The convention theme was "Lionism Serves Humanity and Peace." Highlights of the confab were a three hour parade, election of Claude M. DeVorss of Wichita, Kan., as president of Lions International, and an address by Dr. Norman Vincent Peal on the "Power of Positive Thinking."

Kenneth W. Quine of the Woodland Park Lions Club, newly elected district governor of Lions International, also attended the convention.

Darrington is a lifetime member of the Chamber of Commerce, a deacon in the First Presbyterian Church, and belongs to AlKaly Shrine Temple in Pueblo and AF&AM Masonic Lodge 13. He has served as vice president, "tail twister," chairman of the Christmas Unlimited Toy Pick-Up and end man in several minstrel shows for the local Lions Club.

Change of Pace Is Reported in Paris Fashions

PARIS (AP) — Coco Chanel puts the trousers on the ladies this year but the men needn't fret too much — they're to be worn just around the house.

For another change of pace in her fall and winter showing Wednesday, Chanel moved hair bows from the nape of the neck, where she placed them last season, to the top of the head. They're worn flat, of course.

But the paints were the thing that had the ladies sitting up in their chairs. The word had got out early that Chanel was going in for them and nobody was disappointed when they appeared.

But don't get the idea these pants are to race around in outdoors or to wear behind a desk at the office. They are elegant and suitable to the splendor of the salon.

Chanel's pants — it seems a course word for anything so lush — were in flannel with gold-shot matelasse tops, or part of all gold-shot matellase brocade costumes worn under long, floaty open coats of chiffon or parachute silk.

They are wide and tubular too, and sit straight on the hips. She presents them with a flat, sailor-style panel at the front that makes pockets at the sides and opens with three waistband buttons.

For bodices under suit jackets, Chanel chose parachute silk for daytime and gold-shot matellase for evening wear. She showed beautiful wool plaids to go with either.

For colors, Chanel chose bright cherry, plum, chestnut, brown, navy, white and black. Her jewels included a heavy cross and chain of pearls and cabochon stones.

For frills there were clipped and shiny stiff feathers used for ribon-tied ruffs and hats. Several suits and blouses were worn with ruffles or ruching at the borders. Bias organza ruffles outlined diagonal wrap around dresses in quilt plaid, black silk or cherry cloque.

Boosted Social Security Bill Facing Battle

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-passed bill to increase Social Security benefits headed today into a Senate fight to add to it controversial health care provisions.

The House passed the measure Wednesday, 288 to 8, without the hospitalization features for which President Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy had pleaded.

The measure as it stands would give a 5 per cent raise to the 20 million Social Security retirees and admit more than half a million more persons to the rolls.

A retired worker now getting $40 monthly would get $42, one now getting $105 would get $110.30 and one now getting $127 would get $143.40.

A man and his wife now getting $60 would get $63, a couple getting $157.50 would get $175.50 and a couple now getting $190.50 would get $200.10.

Senate supporters of the administration plan, however, were already at work on amendments to write into the measure a cut-down version of the hospitalization proposal, possibly as a voluntary option for some or all of the cash increases provided.

The proposals have not been put in final form. Similar moves earlier this year by the House supporters were abandoned in the face of certain defeat by the Ways and Means Committee.

Any such provisions are sure to meet stiff opposition and might block final passage of the bill this year, especially since Congress is driving to adjourn before the Democratic National Convention begins Aug. 24.

The Senate campaign to add hospitalization for persons 65 or older probably would be led, at least initially, by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., who fought for the plan as secretary of health, education and welfare in the Kennedy Cabinet.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., co-author of the hospitalization proposal, is recuperating from an operation and is not expected back in the Senate for about two weeks.

The Senate Finance Committee has scheduled a closed meeting Tuesday to discuss handling of the bill. Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., is understood to be ready to insist on extensive hearings if administration supporters move to have the committee go into the health care matter.

As passed by the House, the bill would increase Social Security payments about $925 million annually by setting a new scale of $42 to $133.40 for a single worker, up to $281.20 for a family with dependent children. The maximums would go up in future years, as high as $300 for a family.

The bill also would step up the Social Security tax paid by employers and employes, in part by increasing from $4,800 to $5,400 the wage base on which they are levied. The increase would amount to $31.20 each next year.

The bills would also add about 600,000 aged persons to the beneficiary rolls by relaxing coverage requirements for the benefit of persons, mostly widows, 72 and older.

It would also extend children's benefits to age 22 for surviving children who continue their education and would bring under social security coverage self-employed doctors of medicine and internes.

Injunction Suit Filed In Jacksonville, Fla.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— An injunction suit seeking to force 16 St. Augustine restaurants and motels to serve Negroes moves into its closing stages today.

Most of the businessmen have testified they feared economic loss and bodily injury to their families if they desegregated again — as they had the first week after the Civil Rights Act passed.

Many said they received anonymous threatening or vulgar telephone calls warning them to maintain segregation.

But in general they agreed they would obey the law if U.S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson issues an injunction as he is asked to do by the Negro plaintiffs.

Another injunction is sought against interference by the Ku Klux Klan, National States Rights party, Ancient City Hunting Club and a dozen individuals. This will be heard Aug. 6.

Twenty-nine nations participated in the Second World Bridge Olympiad concluded recently in New York City. Every continent was represented including such far away places as the Union of South Africa, Thailand and Republic of China. Even one of the iron curtain nations, Poland, sent a contingent.

Although form held up pretty well when England, United States, Italy, and Canada ultimately qualified for the semifinals with the Italians once more emerging as the victors, many of the newer particpants made a strong showing and produced some significant upsets.

Among the most recent entrants to the field of international competition is Israel whose maiden performance indicates that her players will be reckoned with from now on. Today's hand was taken from the match held between Sweden and Israel and contributed substantially to the latter's margin of victory.

When the Swedish players held the North-South cards, they reached a small slam contract in clubs and were defeated one trick, declarer losing a trump trick and the ace of spades.

When Israel was seated North and South, the bidding proceeded as indicated in the diagram. South was not inclined to insist on a club contract for, if that suit divided favorably, his chances should be just as good at notrump. In fact, North's suits might develop enough tricks to make a slam even without the clubs.

Against six notrump, West opened the eight of spades. East played the ace and returned a spade to South's king. Declarer could count twelve top tricks—one spade, four hearts, four diamonds and three clubs; however, with the adverse distribution and a slight communication problem, he wasn't in position to cash all of his tricks without first applying a little pressure to the opposition.

He tested the diamonds first by cashing the ace and queen as East showed out on the second round. The king, queen of hearts came next, and then South played his top clubs. On the third round, West had no safe discard. If he threw a diamond, it would establish dummy's long card. To discard a heart, on the other hand, would enable declarer to overtake his jack with dummy's ace and the six of hearts would become the fulfilling trick.

Dog Rejoins Family By Jet Airplane

In the confusion of moving to New York, the German shepherd was given away to a stranger by a neighbor of the Harkavys in San Antonio, Tex. That was three weeks ago.

Wednesday night Cindy caught up with its family—by jet from Texas. Donna, who is 8, reportedly was not at the airport.

In Texas, she had been under a physician's care and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Harkavy, may have wanted to spare her the long, nighttime drive to the airport.

The dog was finally located when the San Antonio News told of the family's plight and said the one clue was that Cindy had been given to somebody names Gonzales.

"How do you find a Gonzales when there are 13 columns of them listed in the directory?" asked Mrs. Harkavy before leaving on Monday.

But T. K. Gonzales' wife read the newspaper story. Her husband had acquired a German shepherd dog. It turned out to be Cindy.

State GOP Appoints Campaign Director

BRIGHTON (UPI)— Charles A. (Chuck) Taylor, an accountant, Tuesday was named Republican campaign director for the state of Colorado.

The Brighton resident, former Adams County GOP leader, was named to the post by Colorado Republican Chairman Paul Wolf. Wolf said Taylor would co-ordinate campaigns of all candidates throughout the state.

Meat Import Quota Bill Gets Senate Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials today looked to the House to kill a meat import quota bill passed by an overwhelming 72-15 Senate margin.

The legislation, long sought by the livestock industry, won votes from 50 Democrats and 22 Republicans late Tuesday after a six-hour Senate debate.

The bill would establish quotas on beef, veal and mutton imports based on 1959-63 levels. This would mean a cut to about 1.2 billion pounds from the record 1.7 billion level of last year — a 30 per cent reduction.

The bill's foes said the measure had a strong political appeal in the Senate because the cattle industry has become nationwide and affects a majority of the states.

But they argued the bill would inevitably lead to higher prices and that the consumer interest would be more important in the House.

The administration was counting on the strong liberal trade majority in the House Ways and Means Committee, which handles all such legislation, to defeat the meat bill.

The measure's Senate supporters said that meat imports rose to record levels last year and that this was the biggest factor in a severe price drop to the lowest point in 18 years.

Many cattlemen, they said, are going broke and the nation's rural economy is suffering heavily.

The bill's opponents said that it not only would affect consumers adversely but that it actually could harm U.S. farmers by wrecking the trade expansion talks now going on at Geneva.

Anaconda Reaches Contract Agreement

BUTTE, Mont. (UPI)— Anaconda Co. reached its first contract agreement with one of the 38 locals representing its Montana copper employes Friday night when Butte Teamsters Union No. 2 agreed to terms.

Arthur Braach, chairman of the Teamsters negotiating committee, said the three-year pact will be recommended for ratification to the union's several hundred members at a Monday meeting.

The settlement was the first by Anaconda in its 1964 contract talks and one of the first reached in the United States copper industry, according to company and union spokesmen.

Terms of the contract, which would be retroactive to July, and extend to July 1, 1967, were not disclosed pending submission to union members.

Stamping More Coins Sought by Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Banking Committee today rushed approval of legislation intended to reduce the value of coins to collectors.

The legislation would allow the Treasury to continue stamping coins with this year's date even after the year has ended. The Senate already passed the bill.

The nation has been in the throes of a coin shortage in recent years which has caused problems for many businesses.

Increased use of vending machines and the growing number of coin collectors have been listed among the reasons for the shrinking coin supply.

'Grass Shacks' Newest Gimmicks for Vacations

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — Most renchmen have never heard the ld American song which starts: I want to go back to my little rass shack." But it is a good et that 150,000 Europeans would e singing it today if they knew

The reason is the Club Mediterranee — the Mediteranean lub — a vacation enterprise hich houses its members in rass huts, complete with dirt oor, during their days in the un.

The idea started 14 years ago ith two enterprising young renchmen, Gerard Blitz and ilbert Trigano. They figured if eople were given sun, charmng surroundings, a warm sea, ood food and a comfortable bed, hey would not expect a luxury illa or a penthouse to go with . They founded the Mediteranean Club and built their first straw hut" village on the isand of Majorca. It worked.

The "come out of your shell" ppeal became the holiday ream-come-true for thousands.

Today the Mediterranean Club ounts 15 "villages" strung along he Mediterranean coast and lose to 150,000 members — 10,00 British, 7,000 Belgians,, 4,000 wiss and numbers of Italians, ustrians, Germans Greeks and rsaelis. Most of the rest are rench.

"We never dreamed our proect ever could be so successul," said Trigano. "From the eginning we told our members xactly what they could expect— ould live, play and rest in inexpensive but good conditions."

The club's package deal (including travel) may be paid beore or after departure, or in intallments Costs range from $180 or the two-week stay in Cefalu illage in Sicily to $250 for the rhziv village in Israel. Vacaions in the Tahiti village are or a minimum one month — ost, $1,000.

Attractive only to the under0s? Not at all. There is a goody percentage of members over 0 and many retired people who ave remained young at heart.

Arrivals at any of the villages re given a welcome by the old ands and allocated the straw uts.

One hut is shared by three men, three girls, or a married ouple. They have simple sand loors, and individual shelf and hree comfortable beds. (You ring your own sleeping bags or lankets. Vacations area devised o bring a pocket lamp (there is o light in the huts), and a trong piece of cord and hangrs for clothes.

Provided you are not too inibited, the open air washrooms and enclosed showers are more han adequate — the tiolets, ome of them of the footprint ariety, are spotless.

Usually an old house or palace serves as the village's administrative headquarters. There is also a shop selling sun oil, cosmetics, soap and postcards.

"One of the pleasant things about a straw hut holiday," said a founder member, "is the utter informality. A bikini is almost a uniform for the younger women during the day and at night they wear a blouse or sweater with skirt or slacks or a simple cotton dress. Women usually include a two-piece suit for exursions, and one party dress."

The men wear bathing trunks by day and a shirt with slacks or shorts for dinner. Sandals are current footwear but most go barefooted.

For adornment there are the necklaces of "poppet" beads which also serve as money in the club bar. The one drawback is that everyone can gauge the state of your treasury at a glance.

Paris Fashion House Adopts Transparency

PARIS (UPI)—Paris triumphantly today displayed its answer to the topless bathing suit: a transparent black hostess gown.

Underneath, the mannequin wore skintight, flesh - colored panties, but at first, second or even third look you'd never know it. So the audience at the salon of Jeanne Lanvin let out a yell.

The billowing, floor - length gown of crinkled organza had long sleeves and a demure white organdy schoolgirl's bib and collar that hid her bosoms. To add to the innocent air, the salon served popsicles just as the model swished in wearing "magpie," as the gown was called.

The entire effect, being beautiful and elegant, was more seductive than any bare-top dress ever could be.

Designer Jules Francois Crahay (Mme-Lanvin has long since retired) also hopped on the trousers bandwagon and paraded a selection of all-in-one bermuda shorts and tops in tweeds and knits, worn with matching or fur jackets and matching ribbed or lacy stockings.

ANCIENT INSTRUMENT

WHITE PATCHES (VITILIGO)

Some people lose skin pigment in irregular islands (vitiligo). These individuals do not look forward to the summer months because exposure to the sun aggravates the condition. White patches on the face, neck, arms, or back of thme hands become whiter and more noticeable. This is an illusion; the normal skin surrounding the white spots tans whereas the unpigmented areas remain the same.

Vitiligo presents a challenge to dermatologists. The patches are round or irregular in shape and vary in size. Only one or two may be present or depigmentation may involve half the body surface. The hairs over the affected skin may lose their color.

Vitiligo should not be confused with albinism, in which there is no pigment. In vitilignous areas pigment is lacking but pigment-forming cells (melanocytes) may exist. Successful treatment depends upon whether these cells, can be stimulated with hormones or methoxsalen drugs.

The latter are taken orally or painted over the lesions. This makes the skin overly sensitive to ultraviolet light. The melanocytes may be stimulated provided the individual is exposed to a gradually increasing dosage of sunlignt about 45 minutes after the medicine is used.

Burning must be avoided and the product should never be used except under the supervision of a physician. Furthermore, it takes several months for repigmentation to occur and users must be on the alert for side reactions.

The psoralens are tricky to use and most victims will find it safer to stick with the older remedies. Avoid the sun to prevent tanning of the normal skin. Stain the patches the color of normal skin. There are several stains available but the proper mixture is needed. Therefore it is wiser to consult a specialist. Some dermatologists recommend tattooing the white spots with gold salts. Four to 12 treatments usually are needed and the best results are seen on face and neck.

Alpha-MSH is a melanocyte stimulating hormone that may offer hope for the future. It acts directly on the pigment forming cells, but its use in this condition has not been evaluated.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Calcium And Age

S. M. writes: Is it true that old age is caused by calcium leaving the bones?

Reply

No, but many oldsters suffer from a deficiency of calcium because of too little in their diet. As a result, the body steals the mineral from the bones and a variety of symptoms occur, including backache and bowing of the extremities.

Unlikely

Reply

Probably not, considering the many causes of mental retardation and the number of children with this condition whose parents are not heavy drinkers.

Puncture After Stroke

C. M. writes: Why is a spinal puncture given after a stroke?

Reply

This is not a routine procedure in strokes. But it is done now and then to determine whether a hemorrhage is responsible for symptoms.

Pain After Surgery

E.K. writes: I have heard rumors that the pains following hemorrhoidectomy are extremely severe. Is this so?

Reply

Jacqueline Will Buy 15-Room Apartment

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy has agreed to buy a 15-room apartment on Fifth Avenue overlooking Central Park.

Douglas L. Elliman, head of the real estate firm that manages the building, said Tuesday night the apartment was sold for about $200,000. He said maintenance charges are about $14,000 a year.

Mrs. Kennedy attended a surprise birthday party with relatives and friends at a restaurant here Tuesday, her 35th birthday.

The private party ostensibly had been called to discuss plans for the Kennedy Memorial Library in Cambridge, Mass. There was a 15-inch cake decorated with sugar roses and one candle.

Mrs. Kennedy had announced earlier this month that she would sell her home in the Georgetown section of Washington and move to New York City.

The apartment, on the top floor of a 15-story building at 85th Street, has been owned by Lowell P. Weicker, president of the Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Co. Weicker and his wife plan to move into the building's penthouse.

The board of directors of the cooperative apartment building will have to approve the sale, a procedure that could take two months.

Last April, actor Peter Lawford, who is married to Pat Kennedy, a sister of President Kennedy, was rejected bythe tenant-owners of a cooperative on 72nd Street. A tenant reportedly blackballed the Lawfords on the ground that actors and Democrats were not welcome.

The Lawfords later bought an apartment on Fifth Avenue, six blocks south of the one Mrs. Kennedy is buying.

Her sister, Princess Radziwill, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Stephen Smith, also have Fifth Avenue apartments within 10 blocks of hers.

Mrs. Kennedy's office announced in Washington that she will begin a weeklong cruise off the coast of Yugoslavia on Aug. 5. The yacht is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman of Palm Beach, Fla. and New York City.

'Another Lean Budget' Sought By Gov. Love

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado Gov. John Love served notice Tuesday he intended to call for another lean budget for state agencies in the coming fiscal year.

The state chief executive, anticipating the Sept. 15 deadline for 1965-66 fiscal year budget requests, sent letters to the heads of all departments, institutions and agencies.

"Only moderate increases in state revenues are anticipated, yet the state government is confronted with numerous additional demands," Love wrote.

"Because of this, even greater efforts must be exerted to achieve the utmost in economy and efficiency of all operations,"

Love asked that "all existing programs. . .be examined to determine their continued need at present levels."

He said he was grateful for reduced expenditures last year, noting: "You have demonstrated that the number of dollars spent is not always the best yardstick in measuring high levels of governmental services."

Land Board Audit Shows No Illegality

DENVER (UPI)—State Auditor John Proctor Tuesday criticized accounting practices of the State Land Board but said an audit of board activities turned up no illegal action.

Proctor criticized the funneling of $1.2 million to the state's general fund which he said should have gone to separate school funds.

Gov. John Love, informed of the auditor's opinion, said he did not believe the general fund owed the school funds the money and would oppose any attempts to transfer it.

Although Proctor did not say whether he would take any such action, he did call for a legal study on the matter.

The audit did show a paper loss of $492,000 on an exchange of securities during a four-year audit period ending June 30, 1963, Proctor said. However, he added the loss would be made up if the securities were held until maturity.

ENLISTEE'S MEDAL

The Congressional Medal of Honor first was created for enlisted men only, in 1861, for the Navy, and a year later for the Army. Officers were admitted later, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

COMMENDATION MEDAL — Col. Edward J. Stealy, director of plans and operations at the Air Force Academy receives the Commendation Medal from the superintendent, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren. Mrs. Stealy is at left. Col. Stealy served as deputy base commander from August, 1960, to June, 1963, and took over the plans and operations job in July, 1963. He received the medal prior to leaving for a new assignment at Shaw AFB, S.C. (Air Force Photo)

French Protest Toppling of Viet Monument

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 20 angry French men and women gathered today at the remains of a French war monument wrecked by Vietnamese students and hurled insults at passing natives.

"Fight the live enemy of the present, the Viet Cong, and not the dead enemy of the past," one Frenchman shouted to Vietnamese standing near the remnants of the memorial in downtown Saigon.

Police dispersed the French without violence when a group of Vietnamese students arrived and a clash threatened.

Students wrecked the huge bronze monument to France's war dead Tuesday night in a demonstration against President Charles de Gaulle's proposal that Viet Nam be neutralized and the war against the Communist Viet Cong ended.

As police stood by with hands folded, screaming youths pulled down a 30-foot statue of two French infantrymen and towed it off. They also toppled a bronze female figure representing peace.

The students wound up their demonstration with speeches calling for a break in relations with France, and expansion of the war against the Communist to North Viet Nam.

One student said action would be taken soon to persuade the government to nationalize French property in Viet Nam.

A few Frenchmen watched quietly as the students demolished the monument. About 1 a.m. several cars filled with French men and women drove up.

Some of the women began weeping. One read the inscribed names of Frenchmen killed in both world ward and the Indochina conflict and said: "May their souls rest in peace after this night."

Miami Was Founded 68 Years Ago With Hotel

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Some say "My-yammi" and some "My-yamma," but no matter how you pronounce it she's a lusty lady who doesn't look half her age—68 today.

It is natural to compare this fascinating city on the tip of Florida with a lady, for it was Julia Tuttle from Cleveland, Ohio, who started it.

Mrs. Tuttle, a pioneer landowner, signed an agreement with Henry M. Flagler on June 12, 1895, to extend his Florida East Coast Railway the 70 miles from West Palm Beach and add to his hotel chain by building the Royal Palm. She gave him 100 acres.

The first train chugged into Miami April 15, 1896. Three months later, 343 persons voted to incorporate.

Flagler opened his hotel in January 1897, dredged a harbor and started a steamship line from Miami to Nassau and Havana.

Soldiers on their way to the Spanish-American War in Cuba stopped off—7,500 of them—and many came back to stay. Tourists trickled in and the town was on its way. By 1900, the population had grown to 1,681 and in 1910 it was 5,471.

George Merrick owned vast orange groves southwest of Miami and in 1911 he laid out Coral Gables, a development of winding, tree-shaded streets; stores and Spanish-style houses with red-tiled roofs.

Two years later, John R. Collins and Carl G. Fisher opened a wooden bridge to a swampy strip east of Biscayne Bay and Miami Beach was born.

Aviator Glenn H. Curtiss trained World War I fliers at Miami Beach. Later he moved his operation to the mainland northwest of Miami and with James H. Bright started the settlement of Hialeah.

Then came the wild real estate boom of the 1920s, and Miami's population mushroomed to 71,419 by 1925.

William Jennings Bryan came to town, sold real estate and started a Sunday School class that became the largest in the country. Tex Rickard built a dog track at Miami Beach, and promoted a championship fight.

Curtiss, Bright and Joe Smoot built a horse track at Hialeah in 1925. There was no pari-mutuel law, but the track paid for itself in 17 days.

O. P. Smith, a greyhound man from Oklahoma, opened a dog track but had few customers in the afternoons. He installed lights, and business boomed. A jai-alai fronton was built—the first in this country.

The 1926 hurricane destroyed 2,000 homes, wrecked many business buildings, and killed 113 persons. It also blew down Smith's dog track.

Pari-mutuel betting was legalized in 1931. Since then the state has taken $431 million from horse and dog racing and jai alai.

While continuing to provide entertainment for tourists, Miami grew financially, culturally and spiritually. Banks, hospitals, theaters, churches, schools, libraries and museums were built.

The city integrated quietly some years ago, absorbed 150,000 Cuban refugees, and never had a serious racial problem.

Miami entertained 7 million tourists in 1964, and today the population is 1,000 times the 343 who voted to incorporate.

At 68, Miami is quite a girl.

School age children can have fun at home on a rainy day with just pencil and paper. Let one player choose a long word and then set a time limit for them to find as many smaller words as they can in the long word. Give each player two pencils so no one will lose time due to a broken pencil point.

Britain's House Of Commons Praises Churchill

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons, soon to dissolve into a bitter election battle, united today for a tribute to Sir Winston Churchill.

Before the lower house of Britain's Parliament was a motion recording its gratitude for his services to Parliament, Britain and the world. No other man as been so honored since the Duke of Wellington more than a century ago.

Churchill was not to be present to hear the motion adopted. He visited the House Monday for the last time as a member.

He will be 90 in November. For the first time in 64 years he is not contesting a seat at the election in the fall.

Crowds gathered outside the Commons to cheer him as he He visited the House Monday The galleries were crowded. The bent old figure shuffled to his seat at question time. For nearly an hour he listened, then rose unaided.

This was the text of the Commons motion:

"Sir Winston Churchill: That this House desires to take this opportunity of marking the forthcoming retirement of the Rt. Honorable Gentleman the member for Woodford by putting on record its unbounded admiration and gratitude for his services to Parliament, the nation and the world:

"Remembers above all his inspiration of the British people when they stood alone and his leadership until victory was won: and offers its grateful thanks to the Rt. Honorable Gentleman for these outstanding services to this house and to the nation:

"That a committee be appointed to wait upon the Rt. Honorable Gentleman and convey to him the thanks of this House:

"That the prime minister, Mr. Harold Wilson, Mr. J. Grimond, Sir Thomas Moore and Mr. Emanuel Shinwell be members of the committee."

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home leads the Conservative party; Wilson the Labor party and Grimond the Liberals. Moore and Shinwell are veteran members.

By coincidence the tribute came 50 years to the day after a typically Churchillian episode.

On Tuesday, July 28, 1914, seven days before Britain was swept into World War I, the British fleet was exercising off the south coast. Churchill was first lord of the Admiralty.

Without consulting his colleague in the Cabinet, Churchill ordered the fleet to battle stations at Scapa Flow, north of Scotland. The huge fleet—stretching 8 miles in line—slipped safely through the Dover Strait to its war base without the risk of attack by German submarines.

Prowler Is Subdued With Golfing Irons

He did both in using the club to subdue a prowler he caught in his dry cleaning establishment.

The victim of what might be called a penalty shot was hauled off by police for treatment of head and back injuries. He gave his name as James Milton, 28, a Bainbridge Island cannery worker.

While the escorting officer's attention was distracted, Milton took off through a hospital door. He's still out-of-bounds.

TAJ MAHAL

Construction of India's Taj Mahal at Agra employed some 20,000 workmen for nearly two decades. The structure was begun in 1631 by Shah Jahan, a Mogul ruler, who dedicated it to the memory of his beloved wife, whom he fondly called Taj Mahal or "Crown of the Palace."

CENTURY OF SERVICE — City Manager John M. Biery (third from left) is shown here with five employes whose combined service to the City of Colorado Springs equals 100 years. These five and more than 120 others were given service pins by the city manager Tuesday afternoon in an annual ceremony held in the Little Theatre of the City Auditorium. The employes who received 20 year service pins are R. F. Bloom, street department; Paul Cimino, park department; Darrell Atkinson, fire department; Kathy Butler, Utilities; and Mark Weese, Utilities. The city manager congratulated each employe and said they were "performing a real service" for the citizens of Colorado Springs, and even farther afield where utilities were concerned.

Many Southern Demos Walk Tight Rope

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Southern Democratic senators are walking a tight political rope in their efforts to maintain their party regularity without tying themselves to President Johnson's campaign.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., is the latest to join the ranks of those who may preserve the kind of "golden silence" practiced by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., in the 1960 campaign when former Vice President Richard M. Nixon carried Virginia. Byrd has given no indication of what he plans to do this year.

Talmadge said in a terse statement Monday that he has always been a Democrat and expects to remain one. He added: "I have not been requested to make any speeches for the party and have no plans to do so."

"I will continue to vote on each and every measure (in the Senate) in accordance with my judgment in the best interests of my country and my state."

Although Talmadge offered no further explanation, this was interpreted in some quarters as offering dissent to Gov. Carl E. Sanders' prediction a week ago that Georgia will vote Democratic in November. Sanders said, however, that "as of this moment there is a groundswell for Barry Goldwater and the Republicans."

Talmadge is one of 21 Southern Democrats who voted against the Civil Rights Act, Johnson signed July 2. Among the 21 were six senators whose seats are at stake this year. These include Virginia's Byrd, and Sens. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Albert Gore of Tennessee, Spessard L. Holland of Florida, John Stennis of Mississippi and Herbert S. Walters of Tennessee.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas, the only Southern Democrat who voted for the Civil Rights bill, is up for re-election in Johnson's native state.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., who is not running this year, said he is sticking to his intention not to attend the Democratic convention at Atlantic City, N.J., next month. Ellender said that when his name was listed tentatively as a Louisiana delegate, he ordered it scratched.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., who is not up for election, said in a separate interview he hasn't been asked to speak for the national ticket and doesn't expect to receive any such request.

In the estimate of many politicians, Johnson's popularity in the South has slumped materially since he put on pressure for passage of the civil rights bill and the Republicans named as their presidential nominee Sen. Barry Goldwater, who voted against the measure.

Although the Tennessee State Democratic Convention voted April 2 to support Johnson for the party presidential nomination, Gore has been silent about his campaign plans. Gov. Frank Clement, who urged the state convention to suport Johnson in November, is a candidate for the seat filled by Waters, an appointee not seeking election.

In Mississippi, associates don't believe Stennis will be campaigning for anything except his own re-election.

Huge Western Power Plan Okayed by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP — President Johnson approved today a $700 million plan to tie together the power resources of the Pacific Northwest and the Pacific Southwest.

To get the program underway, Johnson is asking Congress for $45.4 million to begin work on the federal portion of the vast project.

The remainder of the cost will be financed by public and private utilities.

The project has been under consideration since 1935.

In announcing the President's approval and request for an appropriation, Press Secretary George E. Reedy said it will result in the largest single power transmission program ever conceived in this country.

When completed, it will make this country the leader in power transmission technology in the world, Reedy said.

The aim is to shift power back and forth over the vast area, particularly from the Pacific Northwest which frequently has surplus power.

Reedy said it is estimated that about $20 million worth of secondary hydro-electric power now is being wasted in the Pacific Northwest which could be used elsewhere, particularly in California.

Former Sheriff Adams Granted Prison Parole

DENVER (UPI)— Ex-Adams County Sheriff Robert M. Roberts, the last of 26 persons who went to prison in Denver's police-burglary scandal was granted a parole Tuesday.

Two years ago, Roberts—the highest ranking officer convicted in the scandal that forced 50 men off the Denver police force—was given a 5-to-6 year term in the State Penitentiary.

He was convicted of burglary and conspiracy in connection with the theft of items from a suburban supermarket. Several Denver police officers also were accused in the incident.

Roberts, 42, will leave the State Penitentiary at Canon City Sept. 14 to take a job with a Denver real estate agency. He will be under parole supervision for seven months.

Two of the 25 Denver policemen who went to jail in the scandal still are in prison, but have been approved for parole and will be released in August.

They are ex-patrolmen Bobbie G. Whaley, 35, and Stanley E. McClure, 38, both reputed ringleaders of the "police-burglars" who shocked Denver when the first evidence was uncovered four years ago.

Leadville Radio Station Purchased

LEADVILLE (UPI)— In a joint announcement Tuesday, Thomas T. Farley, Pueblo attorney, and Jack East, general manager of KBRR radio in Leadville, revealed East has purchased the majority interest of the station subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

Farley, Democratic nominee for state representative from Pueblo County, said the transfer has been agreed upon, based on East's continuing interest in the Leadville and Lake County area.

Farley said, "Leadville has been good to me this past four years. I know East will continue to operate KBRR in the very highest traditions of broadcasting."

The station started in operation in November, 1960, following the purchase of land and existing equipment from the federal bankruptcy court of the defunct KLVC station that had operated in Leadville.

Merchants Score Win At Hugo

HUGO (UPI)— The Denver Merchants and Thornton each advanced into fourth round play Wednesday at the Colorado State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament.

The Merchants knocked Hugo V.F.W. out of the tournament with a 6-3 victory and Thornton literally was pushed into the fourth round bracket when Don's Electric of Arvada failed to appear and forfeited the game, 9-0.

The two winners will meet Friday.

Joe Sumner of the Merchants scattered six hits in leading the club to its second win of the tournament. The team's only loss came in opening round play at the hands of the Colorado Springs Athletic Club.

Curt Hartaway hit a homerun blast in the third with two on to give Denver the big punch.

Walks played a large part in Hugo's scoring machine with the first run coming on two walks and an error in the fifth. The loss was tagged on John Hines who gave up eight hits.

BETWEEN THE LINES

Worth the Price

The rumors of this week that the Broncos may not be long for Denver must be written off at this time as idle chatter. But don't count on this lasting for ever.

This latest suggestion that the American Football Leaue franchise will be moving on unquestionably comes from a group of over-eager would-be promoters in Atlanta, Ga. And it brought forth shouts of denials from the Broncos' campground for pre-season training in Ft. Collins.

GEORGE MIRA
Slingshot in Action

Obviously, Atlanta has been whipping the bushes for professional sports lately. First it was the quest of Milwaukee's Braves in the National (baseball) League, and despite a recent upsurge by the Braves in the standings and the hand-in-hand increase in attendance, many figure the Injuns will be moving their teepees south before another season rolls around.

And then comes the announcement from Georgia that pro football may be invading the southeast for the first time. With the National Football League controlled with a firm hand by the tight network of owners (holding the puppet strings of so-called commissioner Pete Rozelle), the American League is the natural hunting grounds.

So Denver, one of only three AFL clubs still showing a deficit for last year's efforts, made a mighty inviting target for the possible switch to Atlanta.

As in the case of the Braves in baseball, about the only thing that will keep the club in Denver would be a sudden and decisive flood of ticket holders waiting at the turnstiles. And as has been proved over and over again, the only thing that will produce that sort of surprise would be quite a few victories.

Denver's chances of jumping up in the AFL standings look no brighter at this stage than a year ago — and they have probably diminished. The same thing haunts the team as was the case last summer in that the Broncos continue to be hamstrung by the lack of an outstanding quarterback and at least in '63 they still harbored hopes that veteran Frank Tripuka would delay his retirement for another season.

Now, with the start of the regular schedule drawing near, they are saddled with a couple of neophyte types who carry credentials that are certainly less than spectacular. Prime suspects for the job of sidestepping enemy tacklers are Don Breaux and Mickey Slaughter.

Breaux comes out of McNeese State deep in the bayou country of Louisiana and is listed the No. 1 candidate going into preseason practice. Taking over at mid-season a year ago, he surprised many by completing a little over half his passes and seemed to be a fair field general for only a year of pro experience.

The other best bet behind center is Slaughter, who was tossed to the wolves in his rookie season. He's been reluctant to return ever since, however, holding out to the last minute this summer, although nearly equalling Breaux' percentage while throwing almost twice as many.

There's no way to escape the fact, though, that neither of the above or anyone else on the Broncos' roster can be classified as the glamourous types that people will pay to see. That's not to say that they couldn't develop into crowd pleasers, but I wonder if there is really that much time left for a losing cause.

Professionals in any sport must remember that there is little loyalty to a loser. They have no alumni who keep coming back for old time's sake and no captive audience who are required ticket holders through tuition such as in our colleges.

In other words, they have a product to sell and those who can't come up with what the public wants get pushed into the land of what might have been.

A personal opinion is that the Broncos may have priced themselves right out of business by pinching the purse strings too tight in their negotiations with Miami's George Mira. They had the opportunity to make their bid when Mira was selected in the AFL draft, but the San Francisco 49ers were the ones getting there firstest with the mostest.

True, Mira is an untested rookie and it's quite possible that because of his size he could be smothered by the huge linemen and nver make the grade. However, he more than proved his ability in this summer's All-America game (against linemen of equal stature to those in the pros) and in three seasons against many of the best collegians the nation had to offer he was injured only once, during his sophomore year.

There's no doubt as to the excitement he creates on the field. And he's the kind that will draw 'em into any stadium like housewives to a one cent sale. With the covey of pass catchers the Broncos have under their wing, led by the great Lionel Taylor, it would be more than interesting to see what Mira could have done with that slingshot arm.

The price would have been high. But in their possible life-or-death case, it would have been worth it — even if sacrificing the acquisition of two or three signed this year who most likely will never be heard of again.

It looks like another chapter in the now fat book of failures Denver has tried to promote in professional sports. For if the fans don't make a clear indication this year that this is their meat the Broncs will be doing the bucking in other parts.

In the case of the ice hockey Invaders of last year, that obviously was a decision by the mother organization to pull out without giving the city a fair chance. But far too often, it's been a story of an inferior product attempting to sell itself through civic obligation. And the fans of Denver won't buy a dying horse just for the sake of the city's pride.

Favorites Post Wins In Pikes Peak Tourney

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Favorites had their own way Wednesday as the Pikes Peak Invitational Golf Tournament launched five days of match play over the Patty - Jewett Course but at least a few of the top players may have been headed for snags this morning.

Defending champion Gary Polumbus of Denver and tournament medalist Jim Phelps of Colorado Springs led the march into today's second round of triumphs in the 32 - man Chamaction by posting convincing triumphs in the 32 - man Championship Flight Wednesday. Both had stiff tests awaiting them this morning, however, as Polumbus faced Bud Hoch of Oklahoma City and Phelps battled Tad Polumbus, the powerful younger brother of the defending champion.

Aside from the Phelps - Polumbus match, the lower bracket pairings sent Roger Brown of Arkansas City, Kan. against Charles Peffer of Wichita; Dr. L. M. Sandy of Blackwell, Okla. against Dock Robinette of Colorado Springs; and Arnold Abel against Steve Pelican of Colorado Springs.

Peffer notched about the only upset of any significance Wednesday. The Kansan stroked to a 2 and 1 victory over Frank Bostock of Scottsdale, Ariz., one of the touted players in the tournament. Bostock, who is a master of the pendulum putter, has won several amateur tournaments in the past year and only last week was a semi-finalist in the Broadmoor Men's Invitational.

Phelps, who said following his match that he "didn't play very well," could probably have commanded an argument on that point from young Bob Teeter of Colorado Springs who was his Wednesday victim. The veteran amateur star was one - under - par in posting his 5 and 4 triumph but insisted that his win was due more to his opponent having a bad day than any Phelps' spectaculars.

Polumbus had more of a struggle in his upper - bracket match. Gary, who narrowly edged Phelps for the championship a year ago when the tournament was still a medal play affair, trailed during the early holes of his round but eventually bested Charles Brown of Colorado Springs, 2 and 1.

One of the tourney's most - talented young stars, Roger Brown of Arkansas City, Kan., dipped below par while ousting Steve Chalfant of Colorado Springs, 4 and 2. Brown, who was a quarter - finalist in the recent Trans - Mississippi and is headed for a spot on the Oklahoma State team next year, has the consistently strong game to be especially dangerous this tournament.

In other areas of the bracket, favorites came through without exception. Goodwin, who has played well in several amateur conclaves this summer, ripped E. F. Beyer of Colorado Springs, 3 and 2 and Evans, the stocky slugger from Kansas whipped Jim Kennedy, another Colorado Springs entry, 5 and 4.

Post, who trailed Phelps by a single stroke in the medalist race by posting a 68, continued his excellent work in whipping Gordon Crone of Latkin, Kan., 4 and 3. And Smelser, the sports publiciity director at Colorado State University who qualified with a 70, eased past Joe Brown, 2 and 1.

In the lower bracket features, Tad Polumbus, a Colorado University football player, dropped Miles Childers of Amarillo, Tex., 1 up on 19 holes, while Dock Robinette, long time Colorado Springs standout, moved up with a 2 and 1 triumph over Larry Schneider.

The massive field was to attack the course in force again this morning as Wednesday's losers all dropped into consolation flights. However, those who fall by the wayside today will be eliminated from further competition this week.

Wednesday's American Legion "A" twin bill finale proved fatal to the loop champions, Sertoma, chances of completing the 1964 campaign undefeated as arch-rivals Rotary handed the Sertoma baseballers their first setback, 3-2, at Memorial Park.

In the opener Wednesday night the vastly improved Lions team scored its second victory of the season, defeating the Elks behind the strong arm of Danny Gieck, 13-0.

This concluded the local Legion "A" pennant chase with Sertoma winning the title with an 11-1 won-loss record, followed by Rotary with an 8-4 mark. The Elks finished in third place with a 3-9 record and tht Lions finished in the cellar with a 2-10 mark.

In Wednesday's final Legion "A" games at Memorial Field, Tom Medlicott enabled the Rotary team to score its first win over the Sertoma squad. Medlicott hurled a two - hitter to pace the Rotary triumph. Medlicott was tabbed for only one earned run on two hits and the portside chucker struck out 12 and walked four during seven inning contest.

Chuck Reinking supplied the stick power for Rotary, having a perfect day at the plate. Reinking went three for three and drove in one run. The Rotary batsmen jumped Bob Kochis and Bob Torrie for three runs on seven hits. Torrie took the loss.

Gieck picked up the win for the Lions as the former Harrison pitching ace limited the Elks to two hits. The Lions hurler shutout the Elks, striking out 11 and walking two.

Dick Grapp collected three hits to pace the Lions 12 - hit barrage with Bill Massarand, John Marsh and Al Rawlins each collecting two hits apiece. In addition, the Lions played errorless baseball in the field and they were aggressive on the bases with Rawlins stealing five bases.

Jim Bouton Stops Angels

Somewhere over a barrel was where you could've found Jim Bouton before the season started. Now he can be found stuffing the Los Angeles Angels into one.

Bouton, the New York Yankees' determined pre-season holdout, stopped Los Angeles 5-0 on four hits Wednesday night, extending his scoreless inning string over the Angels to 37.

The victory was Bouton's 11th against eight defeats, making him the second biggest winner for the American League leaders. Whitey Ford is the biggest with 12.

Bouton, remaining at home in New Jersey, wanted a 100 per cent increase in salary to $20,000 for his 21-7 performance in 1963. New York offered a top figure of $18,000.

Then, General Manager Ralph Houk issued Bouton an ultimatum: Either he report to spring training camp or have $100 per day lifted from his pay.

It wasn't until May 24 that he faced Los Angeles for the first time. The Angels didn't waste any time jumping on him for three runs in the first inning. They haven't done much jumping since, unless it's been from a dugout roof.

Bouton pitched six scoreless innings in that game, then sailed through 13 run-free innings against them two weeks later without gaining a decision. His past two starts against Los Angeles have brought him two victories and his only shutouts of the season.

Since that 13-inning performance, he has won eight of 11 starts, finishing seven of them and reducing his earned run average to 2.68.

All of the hits off him Wednesday night were singles and he let only one Angel past first base.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore outlasted Minnesota 4-3, Detroit nipped Chicago 3-2, Boston edged Kansas City 3-2 and Washington downed Cleveland 4-1 in 12 innings.

The Yankees grabbed a 3-0 lead against starter Bo Belinsky, with two runs scoring in the second on Jim Fregosi's two-base throwing error and Clete Boyer's sacrifice fly and another coming home on Mickey Mantle's single in the third. Elston Howard drove in the last two with a bases-loaded single in the seventh.

The Orioles remained one game behind the Yankees in the AL race. Homers by Sam Bowens, with one on in the third, and Norm Siebern, none on in the seventh, supported clutch relief pitching by Harvey Haddix and Stu Miller. Harmon Killebrew slammed his 35th homer, a two-run blast, in the fourth.

Detroit came from behind on Gates Brown's eighth-inning two-run homer off Frank Baumann, who replaced starter Ray Herbert after Al Kalin singled with one out. Until that inning, Herbert had a four-hitter. Norm Cash homered for the Tigers in the seventh while Gerry McNertney connected for Chicago in the top of the inning.

Don Lock drove in all of the Senators' runs in their 12-inning victory. He homered in the sixth, then crashed a three-run blast off Gary Bell in the 12th. The Indians scored in the second when Chico Salmon walked, stole second and came home on Woody Held's single.

Two errors helped the Red Sox defeat the Athletics. Ed Bressoud walked in the ninth and raced to third as pitcher Diego Segui threw wildly trying to pick him off first. He then scooted home with the winning run as shortstop Bert Campaneris fumbled Bob Tillman's grounder.

Jim Gentile clouted a two-run homer for the A's in the fifth, and Carl Yastrzemski tied the game with a homer in the Boston eighth.

McCovey Back in Lineup; Paces Giants Key Triumph

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You're Dennis Bennett, the Philadelphia Phillies' hard-throwing young left-hander. Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco's slugging first baseman is at bat.

Now be careful, whatever you do, don't strike him out. It's liable to lead to trouble.

Bennett fanned Cepeda in the second inning of Wednesday night's 6-3 Giant victory over Philadelphia and it led to Willie McCovey. For the Phillies, that meant nothing but trouble.

* * *

Cepeda wrenched his right shoulder chasing Bennett's pitches and had to leave the game in the top of the sixth inning. Giant Manager Alvin Dark inserted McCovey, who's been fighting a season-long slump and the move paid off handsomely.

McCovey looked like the same old .203 hitter striking out in the sixth but in the eighth, his two-out double scored Willie Mays with the tying run as the Giants pulled even at 3-3.

Two innings later the Giants had loaded the bases against Phillie relief ace Jack Baldschun. McCovey worked the count full and then rapped a two-run single up the middle putting the Giants on top to stay.

Sharing the hero-roles with McCovey were Juan Marichal whose four-hitter throttled the Phillies and Jim Ray Hart, who belted a pair of solo homers to balance circuits by Richie Allen and Ruben Amaro in the early innings.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh beat Houston 5-2, St. Louis whipped Chicago 9-1 and Milwaukee turned back Cincinnati 6-2. New York and Los Angeles were rained out.

"You never know about this game," said Dark after McCovey's hits bailed the Giants out and moved San Francisco back within a half-game of the Phillies. He was obviously thinking about how Cepeda's injury, which looked like a bad break, turned out to be a blessing in disguise.

The Giants' All-Star first baseman will have his shoulder x-rayed today to determine how badly it is hurt.

For Marichal, the league's second 15-game winner, it was a strong performance. He retired the last 19 men he faced and didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

Roberto Clemente, the NL's leading hitter, raised his average to .345 with two hits and drove in a pair of runs in the Pirates' victory. Bob Friend went the distance for his ninth win in 19 decisions and his batterymate, Jim Pagliaroni, belted a home run.

Houston's Dick Farrell, who hasn't won in six weeks, lost his seventh against 10 victories. Farrell became the major leagues' first 10-game winner June 14 and has failed to win in 10 starts since then.

St. Louis sent 12 batters up in a seven-run seventh inning to rout the Cubs. The splurge came against Lew Burdette, Bobby Shantz and Lindy McDaniel, all former Cardinals.

Curt Simmons didn't allow a hit for 5 1-3 innings and picked up his 11th victory as the Cardinals won their fifth straight.

The Braves jumped on Joe Nuxhall for five quick runs in the first inning and that was all Tony Cloninger needed to coast to his 10th victory. Joe Torre's two-run double was the key hit in the big inning.

Chico Ruiz, brought up from San Diego last week, drove in both Reds' runs with a single and a double.

Hook's Steady Pitching Gives Bears PCL Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wrecking crew, in the person of the Tacoma Giants, went to work on Portland's Multnomah Stadium Wednesday night. When the demolition job was done, the Giants had an 18-6 Pacific Coast League victory and there were some dents in the outfield fences.

The Giants exploded for 25 hits, including five by Dick Dietz, who doubled home a pair of runs in the first inning. Jay Ward hit a grand slam homer in the fourth and Carl Boles added a two-run homer in the same inning.

Jay Hook's steady pitching paced Denver to a 6-2 decision over Arkansas. The Bears broke up the game with four runs in the eighth. Pinch hitter Phil Roof's two-run double was the crusher.

Arkansas' big threat came in the fourth when Bill Heath tripled with two aboard but he was thrown out trying for an inside-the-park homer.

Spokane punched out 17 hits to thump San Diego 8-2. John Werhas, Al Ferrara and Bart Shirley led the Indian uprising with three hits apiece and Ken McMullen poled a two-run homer to get the winners off quickly in the first inning. San Diego made 11 hits, including Jim Saul's homer, but stranded 11 men.

Indianapolis swept a twinbill from Salt Lake, 3-1 and 6-2, as Bob Locker and Jim Golden came up with four-hit performances.

Solon Wants Year's Notice On Shift of Any Franchise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., proposed today that Congress enact legislation which would require a year's advance notice before a professional sports team could move from one city to another.

He is concernen, he said, about rumors "never denied," that the Milwaukee Braves of the National Baseball League, plan a move to Atlanta.

He also said that "the football Cardinals have been contemplating moving to Atlanta" and "the Kansas City A's also may move."

"I am concerned," Proxmire said in a statement, "because organized, professional sports obviously have a significant aspect. They have been given special legal privilege."

This privilege, he said, would be extended by a bill being considered by the Senate anti-trust subcommittee which would give professional sports "clear legislative exemption from the anti-trust law."

"Nowhere in this legislation is the public provided an opportunity to express its interest," Proxmire said. "Certainly, the public has a right to have its views heard, and the ball clubs have a responsibility to listen to the voice of the people."

Proxmire said he will offer an amendment to establish conditions under which "both parties to the marriage of a ball club and a community could express their views before a permanent separation is made."

His amendment, he said, would require a year's advance notice of a move and would establish a hearing board to hear both sides of the case. Proxmire said no federal control is involved since the board would be composed of private citizens and would have no control over the club's final decision.

"But," he said, "at least the public's views would be publicly heard."

Westy Royal Seeks Win In Pueblo Race Tonight

PUEBLO —Shamrock Kennel's veteran Westy Royal, after having set a track record for the 693-yard Wright Course in his last outing, will try his speed over the 5-16 mile in tonight's featured race at Pueblo Greyhound Park.

Westy Royal, a 1959 dog and one of the oldest at the track, showed his heels to the pack in traveling the Wright Course in 39.85 seconds in his last outing. This improved the mark of 39:89 established July 15 by C. C. Wilson's Westy Major, and it was the third time this year that the Wright Course record had been lowered.

Prior to this year, no dog had traveled the route in less than 40 seconds, the 1963 record having been 40.10. This year's crop has produced several dogs that have cracked the 40 - second barrier.

Westy Royal's competitors over the 5-16 mile will include C. W. Wilson's Ortega Road, winner in his last outing, and Robert Thorne's L.S.'s Lonna.

JUST LIKE THE GROWN-UPS—Danna Morguloff, 4, zips across the surface of Lake Dallas on her midget water skies just like a pro. Danna has been skiing for several weeks and the big problem, according to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Morguloff, is to get her off the skis once she gets started. The little girl was swimming when she was two and was being towed on an air mattress at the end of a ski rope when she reached her third birthday. (AP Wirephoto)

Return of Figure 8 racing will highlight this Saturday's program at Sportsman's Raceway Park as the novel criss - cross stock car event will be staged for a second straight weekend.

Being the first time in the region last Saturday, only 10 cars entered the Figure 8 race, but track officials expect more this week and another guarantee purse has been arranged.

In the Figure 8 last weekend, Chuck Rich led all the way up to the final lap, but as the cars were coming around the last turn Delbert Moore and Buck Bailey passed Rich almost wheel - to - wheel. Bailey managed to finish ahead of Moore in a close finish. There the center of the infield, known sometimes as the point of impact.

Gary Wayne copped both the trophy dash and main event in the semi - modified class. Dale DeWitt, Bob Herrington of Lakeside in the Denver and Walt Pickard of Pueblo pushed the leader all the way.

In the late model class, Mike Wooley came out first in the main event, with Moore coming in second in his new 1957 Ford convertible. John Talley had problems getting his auto running right and failed to make it in time for the main event.

Sportsman's Raceway Park is located six miles east of Colorado Springs, directly across Highway 24 from the entrance to Peterson Field. Time trials this Saturday will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

AFL Cowboys Limit Drills

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP — The Dallas Cowboys ran through a series of brushup exercises Wednesday instead of scrimmaging. They planned to do the same today.

One man who won't be working out for a while is Buddy Dial, speedy flanker with six years in the National Football League.

Dial must undergo surgery, team physicians said Wednesday. They plan to repair a torn muscle in his right thigh and say he may be out of action a maximum of six weeks.

Stengel Hails as Great Manager on Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — It would have been impossible to foretell back in 1910 that Charles Dillon Stengel, known to millions of baseball fans today as Casey, would some day become a big league manager, let alone one of the most successful who ever lived.

As a busher in Maysville, Ky., in the Blue Grass League, he was better known as a clown than as a ball player. He wore loud ties with his baseball uniform and he insisted on practicing sliding as he trotted to his position in the outfield.

There was an insane asylum near the park across from the center field fence and the inmates always cheered when they saw him slide. Casey's manager used to tap his head, point to the asylum and say: "It's only a matter of time, Stengel."

Gags and all, Stengel has outlasted all his 1910 contemporaries. As a player, he lasted 15 years and was a star in the 1923 World Series. It was as a manager that he earned undying fame. The Old Professor was 74 years old today, give or take a year and depending on which record book you believe and every one of his years, 54 in baseball, has been crammed with vibrant living.

He is completing his third year as manager of the National League doormat New York Mets after having won 10 pennants and seven world championships in 12 years as manager of the New York Yankees.

A very complex, amazing, irascible and wonderful personality is the gnarled, wordy man who has had a running feud with silence for more than three score and ten years.

A unique symbol of the game to millions, he has his own special language, his own inimitable mannerisms and his own rules on managing. He has been praised and criticized, gloried and ridiculed.

He has the appearance of a shaggy St. Bernard but is a gentleman of social graces. He has been called a clown, yet he is a bank president. He has been accused of butchering the English language but his opinions on a myriad of subjects are listened to with respect.

He is a man who can bewilder and bemuse a Senate Committee with an astonishing assortment of sentences which defy analysis, yet can be as lucid as a crystal when so inclined.

So much has been written about this man that he has become a baseball legend. He is a natural born comedian but behind his clownishness is a baseball brain second to none in wisdom.

Pikes Peak Speedway Has Night of Record Breaking

It was a night of record busting last Saturday at the Pikes Peak Speedway, and track officials feel this was only a sign of what's to come for the rest of the season.

Starting off the evening, over 40 cars were entered in the program and this was the highest number yet in the last five years. Then the attendance went to 1,200 paid for the largest crowd of the season. And at the start of the program, during the time trials, the track record for the Flying A stock cars was broken four times.

The rest of the night was no exception. Lanny Webster piloting his Plymouth broke the time trials mark but later rolled his car in one of the early heat races. However, he worked on his car and finally drove it to fourth place in the main event.

Warren Rainwater moved his Pontiac wagon into the winner's circle twice during the evening as he took the class B trophy and slow heat race. The hard luck guy of the night was Jack Gabarty as he took the lead of the 30 - lap main event and held a good margin until the 30th lap but finally lost control, spun into the infield and killed his engine.

The Figure 8 racing was the highlight of the program, and only four cars were able to finish. Officials at the Speedway announced there will be more Figure 8 racing this Saturday.

Time trials will be at 7 p.m. and races start at 8. The Pikes Peak Speedway is located three miles east of Colorado Springs on Highway 24 on the right side of the road.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Selective gains among motors, electrical equipments and rails helped push the stock market slightly higher early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Chemicals were down as a group. Oils and utilities were mixed. Tobaccos were unchanged to lower.

The market had a hesitant start, but bullish sentiment began to warm up when it was apparent the downward trend of late Wednesday was going no further.

Gains approaching a point were made by Chrysler and General Motors. Ford was off a fraction, however, while other leading carmakers were steady.

Calgon raced up more than 3 in further response to its proposals for a 150 per cent stock dividend and increase cash payout.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — A steadily improving demand added rather broad gains to the grain futures market in the early afternoon today on the Board of Trade.

Brokers said most of the buying appeared to be of a stop-loss variety.

The early demand was understood to have been linked with reports that expected showers were widely scattered and had missed much of the area where moisture is understood to be needed.

'INSTANT' GARDENING

NEW YORK (UPI) — Homeowners apparently prefer "instant" gardening to hovering over seeds. The National Clay Pot Manufacturers Association reports its members produce nearly 200,000,000 clay pots for 18,000 growers of foliage and flowering plants, nurserymen and bulb growers.

Pour a little vinegar into the glue bottle if the contents have become thick and hard.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has invited presidents of state universities to a White House conference Aug. 13.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said in announcing the meeting Wednesday that it would discuss state and regional problems that the institutions have been studying.

The meeting will provide an opportunity for "cross fertilization of ideas," Reedy said.

The presidents will have a luncheon meeting and then will divide into four groups to discuss their state and sectional problems.

Figures released by the Joint Committee in Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditure put June employment at 2,481,494, an increase of 2,626 over May.

Agencies reporting larger increases included the Department of Agriculture 6,074, the Interior Department 4,264 and the Commerce Department 1,809.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson advised the National Agricultural Advisory Commission Wednesday to put partisanship and prejudice aside to improve prosperity on the nation's farms.

"The time has come," the President said, "to find and put to use some better answers to farm policy than we have had in many years."

Addressing the group at the White House, Johnson said farmers have been getting good news about agriculture lately including increased exports, higher net income and higher profits.

He added that he believes this good news can be made even better. "America is prospering," he said. "Our goal and our guide must be to make sure that America's farmers prosper in proportion, too."

Cost of Marriage Is Raised to $5.00

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The cost of getting married in Louisiana rose $1.50 at noon today.

A bill signed into law by Gov. John J. McKeithen Tuesday boosted the cost of a marriage license from $3.50 to $5. The increase was necessary because of the cost of handling paper work.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Nineteen street beggars have died from exposure in this commercial metropolis on the edge of the tropics since a midwinter cold wave began Monday. Temperatures dropped to 40 degrees.

By-Pass Set On Colorado Avenue, 26th

At present there is no traffic light at the busy intersection and motorists wishing to turn west or proceed across Colorado Avenue are delayed.

New directional signs, 24 by 30 inches in size, were to be installed today. Part of the reason for the heavier traffic, Don L. Smith, city engineer said, is that 25th Street has been closed at the new east-west Expressway.

Futures Trading To Start on Chicago Exchange

Futures trading in live beef cattle, dressed carcasses and other beef products on the Chicago Mersantile Exchange will begin sometime late this year or early 1965 President Everette B. Harris announced Tuesday.

The move will represent the first time futures in beef will have been traded on a commodity exchange.

"There's strong interest among members of the cattle and meat packing industries, bankers and lending agencies with agricultural interests cattle feeders and commodity investors and traders."

"With beef consumption over 16 billion pounds a year the beef cattle industry is one of the largest in the United States" said Stephen Greenberg CME board chairman and vice prefident Walston & Co., Inc., Chicago. "The possibility of futures trading in beef offers a great opportunity for all members of the industry to hedge their products This potentially could be one of the most active commodities on any exchange in the world."

The Exchange--the nation's gargest dealing in perishable commodities--will hold a symposium in Chicago Thursday to discuss the proposed beef futures contract.

Among those participating will be William J. Kuhfuss President Illinois Agricultural Association; James D. Sartwelle, president Port City Stock Yards Co., Houston; Harry Webb, director cattle procurement Cudahy Packing Co., Omaha; G.E. Leighton president the Chicago Live Stock Exchange; M.J. Cook executive vice president the Union Stock Yard & Transit Co., Chicago; Aurthur Longini area development manager Mellon National Bank & Trust Co., Pittsburgh; and Dene Pruett research director Longstreet-Abbot & Co., St. Louis.

Founded in 1919 the CME at first traded only butter and eggs. Today's futures trading includes shell and frozen eggs tom and hen turkeys, frozen skinned hams frozen shrimp, and the most active commodity frozen pork bellies. Last year produce futures worth $2,750,000,000 changed hands on the floor of the Exchange.

The Merchanile Exchange is composed of almost 500 members, including brokerage firms, produce dealers, investment horses, speculators, food processors, shippers, receivers and exporters. It is one of 20 organized exchanges in this country trading in a total of 40 commodities.

Braniff to Board 30 Millionth Passenger Here

Braniff International Airways will board its 30,000,000th passenger here Friday, according to District Sales Manager Warren A. Jensen.

Braniff statisticians predict the aviation milestone will be reached during the mid-day period and brief ceremonies will be conducted at Peterson Field at 1:30 p.m. as passengers are boarding flight 161 to Dallas and Houson.

A commemorative certificate will be presented to one of them as the honorary 30,000,000th passenger to fly on a Braniff plane since the inception of the airline's service over 36 years ago. Taking part in the presentation will be Norman Coleman, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

As it was not possible to name the exact place or moment when the historic figure would be reached, similar ceremonies will be held Friday in the 50 cities which Braniff serves in the United States and Latin America.

Braniff, now one of the world's 10 largest airlines in number of passengers transported each year, took 27 years to fly its first 10,000,000 passengers. The second 10,000,000 required five years and the third only four years.

The airline was founded in 1928 by the late Tom Braniff with a five-seat Stinson Detroiter operating over a 114-mile route between Tulsa and Oklahoma City. Today Braniff operates a fleet of more than 50 modern aircraft — including 114-passenger, 600 mile per hour Boeing 707-227 Super Jets—over routes totaling more than 17,000 miles.

MUTUAL FUNDS?

Before you invest in Mutual Funds or individual securities . . . check the details of both types of investment. Many choose Mutual Funds for several reasons. They get the lessened risk of diversification, professional management and ease of investment. Then, too, while there are charges when the money is invested, there rarely are when Mutual Fund shares are sold . . . and that's frequently when you need the money most. Of course, as with any investment, you may receive more or less than you paid for your shares, according to market conditions when you sell them. 50 Turbine Cars Delivered to Selected Drivers

Chrysler Corporation Turbine Cars have been delivered to 50 selected motorists throughout the country thus far in Chrysler's nationwide turbine market evaluation program.

The 50th delivery was made today to Harold O. Adams, a 47-year-old steam fitter in Des Moines, Iowa.

Harry E. Chesebrough, Chrysler Corporation vice president — product planning, said, "Turbine motorists thus far have driven an accumulated total of approximatley 157,000 miles since the first delivery to a Chicago area family on October 29, 1963."

Turbine cars have been placed in 37 cities in 21 states and the District of Columbia. Eventually cars will be delivered in all the 48 adjacent United States.

"The objective of the conusmer delivery program is to test consumer and market reaction to turbine power and to obtain operating experience with the turbine under a wide variety of geographical condition," Chesebrough said.

Fifty specially-designed, limited production turbine cars are being built and distributed on a rotating basis for the two-year evlauation. Each of about 200 motorists will drive a turbine car for three months.

Four of the cars currently being driven by turbine users are in their third three-month use period and twelve cars are in their second period of consumer use.

A young computer systems engineer received the first turbine car in Chicago. Other turbines have been delivered to a service station operator in Sacramento; a railroad switchman in St. Louis; a manufacturer's representative in Dallas; an office manager in Atlanta; a barber in Detroit; a teacher in Cleveland; a college student in Philadelphia; and an industrial designer in New Haven.

Of the first 50 turbine drivers, 44 are men and six are women. They range in age from 21 to 63. Twenty-six of these motorists had Chrysler products as their personal cars at the time they wrote their letters to Chrysler requesting use of a turbine car. Twenty-four owned competitive makes.

Chesebrough said, "These examples help to show the broad sample of typical motorist who have participated thus far in the turbine program. The sample will become even more representative as it expands and will eventually include motorists from all major population centers in the United States with the exception of Alaska and Hawaii."

The accounting firm of Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart is making the selection of turbine motorists from a letter inquiry file which currently contains the names of approximately 30,000 persons.

Under the user selection procedure, Chrysler determines the date and metropolitan area location of each planned delivery. The accounting firm then selects the user candidates for each location on a random basis according to the selection and distribution criteria specified by Chrysler to meet market test objectives.

Reporting on the recent nationwide Chrysler Turbine Car exhibition, Chesebrough said more than three million persons viewed the display during its seven-month tour which ended on July 27. The exhibition appeared at large shopping centers in 18 major market areas in states and the Distric of Columbia.

Railroad Shows Increase of $500,000

Net income of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad was $2,625,010 for the first six months of this year, an increase of $588,572 over that for the first half of 1963, R. Ellis Johnson, president of the railroad, announced today.

Johnson said the increase in net income was attributable to gains achieved in the volume of piggyback, wheat, iron and steel, auto and lumber business handled. He also pointed out that last year's first half net income figure benefitted from income tax refunds totaling $302,015 and from $250,438 of non-operating income in excess of this year's.

Operating revenues for the first six months of 1964 were $102,314,138, as compared with $100,949,225 in the same period of 1963, Johnson said. Operating expenses were $81,423,397 in the first half of 1964 and $81,465,341 for the comparable period last year, he added.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Government Takes The Land

The federal goverment says there is a financial crisis in the country caused by poverty. At the same instant, the federal government declares there is a crisis in the country because there aren't enough recreational facilities.

If there is poverty, it is only because too many people are playing and not enough of them are working. But the men in government seem to believe that if more and more people play, fewer and fewer people have to earn pay.

In less than ten years the federal acquisition of land in this country has almost doubled. In 1955 there were 1,903,825,000 acres of land in this nation. At that time, the federal government owned 407,896,000 acres or 21.4 per cent of the total.

In 1963, thanks to the acquisition of Hawaii and Alaska, the total acreage for the United States had increased to 2,271,343,000 acres. But the amount of federally owned lands had increased to 769,900,000 acres, or 33.9 per cent of the total.

At the present time, government is taking out of private hands something close to half a million acres per year. To get its hands on this acreage in the last four years, government has used $1.013 billion of taxpayers' money.

The total amount of land now held by the federal government is more than one out of every three acres in the United fifty States.

As of June 30, 1963, the Department of the Interior had under its administration 24 per cent of the nation's entire land area. Of this area (551,400,000 acres), 348 million acres are forest and wildlife lands, 22,400,000 acres are in parks and historic sites. Where is the "crisis" in recreational areas?

In the first six months of the 88th Congress, bills asking federal acquisition of more than 500,000 acres of land for purely recreational purposes were introduced. Only recently, Secretary Udall stated that recreational lands were on an equal footing with grazing lands when it came to national importance. One bill introduced in the 88th Congress would authorize from $50 to $100 million for acquisition of wide open spaces.

A government inventory in 1960 showed that 234 million acres in government-owned non-urban recreation areas exist in 50 states. Much of this land is wholly undeveloped. There is a growing perplexity as to why the government is still so intent on gobbling up more private land when it is not even beginning to use some of the land it has held out of production and out of recreation for many years.

Nearly 63 million acres of productive forest lands owned and controlled by private persons and firms in this country are used for recreational purposes without at all interfering with their commercial potential.

Speaking of forest lands alone, the federal government owns 323,900,000 acres or some 42 per cent of the total. State, county and municipal governments own 34,600,000 acres of forest lands, or 4 per cent of the total. Indians own some 12,000,000 acres of forest lands, accounting for 2 per cent of the total. Private individuals and firms own 402,300,000 forested acres or a total of 52 per cent. This is the area that is being eroded by federal grabs.

The federal government now owns and controls 769,900,000 acres of land of all kinds in the United States. This is more than all the land in Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and the western part of South Dakota, by some 11,000,000 acres.

From 1959 to 1963, inclusive, the federal government scooped up 1,790,000 acres of land by purchase, condemnation proceeding or gift.

Surveys which have been taken reveal clearly that persons in search of recreational areas for their vacationing, are willing and expect to pay for the facilities they use. The government proposes to provide these facilities either through general taxation, or by making outright grants to persons who will guarantee to put in recreational facilities. In these latter cases, some of the facilities to be installed will require constant subsidy for them to be operated.

Most people do not have more than two weeks per year in which to enjoy a vacation. Is it a wise and economic use of land that takes it out of production so that some folks can enjoy a two-week vacation, when for fifty more weeks of the year, that same land must be held on the non-producing lists for the "benefit" of the taxpayers?

It's time someone objected.

Down-to-Earth History

By RUFUS L. PORTER

A brand new history book on the Pikes Peak Region has just been published. It was written by Dora Foster, dean of the region's newspaperwomen. The title is "Then"—sub title "The Best of Their Yesterday."

The book was published by Getto and Berkeland and handsomely illustrated by Marilyn Getto. The 98-page paperback edition was printed by the Denton Printing Company of Colorado Springs. Mr Denton informed me that Dora Foster and his father started a newspaper and printing establishment in the south end of town in 1908.

We have all read Miss Foster's delightful tales of the early settlers and their time in the pages of the Gazette Telegraph. Her personal recollections of the area's history and her personal acquaintance with most of the people she writes about lend an air of authenticity to her tales that is seldom found in such writings. Her memory is excellent and her anecdotes of the early times give us a new insight into the lives of the old timers. The hard times, the good times, the humor, the pathos, the glory and the plain everyday trials of living are all in her pages.

The tales which she didn't know first hand, she obtained first hand while they were still fresh in the memories of those who had experienced them. Many misunderstandings and misconceptions of certain happenings, or of certain characters of those early times, can be cleared up by reading Miss Foster's book. Anyone who is interested in life as it was lived from the 1860's to well into the 20th century in the Pikes Peak region will consider $2 well spent for the purchase of a copy of "Then."

I wish to thank all the readers who have responded so enthusiastically to my "travelogues" on Colorado scenery. Adam Lyre thinks I deserve a kick-back from the service stations on the extra gas they are going to sell to folks who take my advice and "head for the hills." But I doubt if any extra gas will be bought, although it may be burned in different places, on different roads. I only hope my readers find some of the places I have described as delightful as they appear to me.

I wish also to thank Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. West for their nice letter in praise of my writing and, more especially, of my recent column entitled "Dignity is of the Spirit," which they termed a "classic." I am taking their implied suggestion and mailing a copy of the column to the Reader's Digest — along with a copy of their wonderful letter.

And thanks to Roger Coffin, who called Sunday morning to congratulate me on the July 11 column, wherein I verbally castigated the "liberal" Republicans. It is indeed encouraging to know that so many fine people approve of my humble efforts. Makes a guy want to do better.

One of the first steps in finding a solution to a problem is to recognize that we have one. And I believe that recognition of the problem of highway safety (or rather, unsafety) is practically universal among those who daily drive the roads. When recognition is so widespread and when so many able minds are devoted to the problem's solution, I believe a solution will eventually be found. But I do not believe it will be found in politics. More regulations, restrictions, fines and imprisonment are not the answer. Nor are more bureaus, more officials, more patrolmen, more and higher priced licenses or more testing of the driver's ability. I do not claim to know the solution — I just don't believe the politicians know it either.

What we do need more of is more courtesy, more thoughtfulness, more alertness. I do not mean that a driver should hold himself in a state of tenseness, or expect danger around every curve. He should be relaxed physically, but alert mentally. He should practice controlling his temper when some "road hog" or "plain idiot" aggravates him to the point of "showing him."

This is no lecture on prohibition, Heaven forbid, I am no abstainer myself. But a man should drive sober, or not at all. The solution lies with the individual, as do most solutions to human problems. The carefree abandon with which it appears that some drivers fling away their lives, and the lives of others, is one of the most shocking facts of our times. Insofar as the techniques of driving are concerned, many of the "reckless" or "careless" ones could surpass those who drive daily year in and year out, with never so much as a dented fender.

There is a thrill in speeding, especially for the young. But there is also a sense of futility discernible in our mode of living. I could be wrong, but I believe the terrible disregard for life and limb on our highways is part and parcel of the moral breakdown of our society, which is, in turn, I believe, due to our drift into socialism and away from individual responsibility.

The Ultimate Conceit

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

I suppose we've all met one or more hirelings on the public payroll who have demonstrated the fantastic conceit which plays such an important part in the vain effort which is designed to bolster the ego of too many parasites in government, at every level. Just recently, I encountered what I believe is the ultimate in bureaucratic conceit.

"Usually a postmaster in a small town is the only link between the residents and the government and the people come to rely on him to take care of their every need."

The post office employee who made that statement has been so employed for 27 years and if he is telling the truth, the situation is indeed horrifying. Personally, I believe it is an unthinking statement which is merely the figment of the imagination of a person whose common sense has been lost in the gaping maw of the gigantic bureaucratic monopoly, which is the post office department.

Just think about that statement for a couple of minutes: the people come to rely on him (the postmaster) to take care of their every need. If you live in a small town, maybe you'd like to tell me just how much you rely on your postmaster for anything but the handling of your mail. Is he your doctor, dentist, TV repairman, druggist and grocer? If so, he is operating in violation of quite a few laws. Does he make out your income tax returns, provide matrimonial counseling and burp the baby? Does he make loans, handle banking problems and grant divorces? Does he play the part of father, mother, grandparents, son, daughter, husband, wife, brother and sister? If so, he's in trouble!

Certainly, I realize the statement was utterly ridiculous in the first place but it's darned near typical of what goes on in the mind of the bureaucrate whose opinion of himself is so inflated as to make is impossible for him to walk with his feet on the ground and if you think I'm just fooling, what about the speeches of candidates, lately?

I wonder if bureaucrats, elected or otherwise, find it necessary to cultivate delusions of grandeur in order to live with themselves? The situation seems to be getting worse on a day-to-day basis, but for this, there is a sure and certain cure.

I will not suggest insulting or discourteous conduct but there's a lot of difference between ordinary courtesy and the type of stupid fawning over bureaucrats I've witnessed. Why do apparently intelligent people imagine they achieve a superior status by being on a first-name footing with a bureaucrat? I've had no difficulty remaining on a formally polite basis with the postmaster in Chloride and we have no other government agency in that little townsite.

You just can't lose if you stay on a formal basis with bureaucrats unless you want to cater to the bureaucratic ego to obtain special favors or privileges, and if you want special privileges from government, you must be anxious to be further enslaved. From a practical point of view, you'll get better service from any bureaucrat if you exhibit nothing more than a slight tolerance for his inability to earn a living in the market place. When service organizations connected with business and industry invite postmasters and other bureaucrats as luncheon speakers, only the ego of the bureaucrat is nurtured, the other guests get indigestion. Actually, the pampering of bureaucrats by business people has played a vital role in the rampaging and insensate march of the socialist conglomerate and I dare to suggest that nothing can be gained by the continuation of a completely bad habit.

Of course, if you need government to take care of your every need, you will ignore my suggestion, as you continue to curtsy and bow and scrape to postmasters and other supposed public servants. On the other hand, if you believe you have the right to stand on your own two feet, you'll try to scrape them off your backs.

Good luck and good health to you in Freedom.

Temptation

One of the most difficult things in the world is to try to adhere to principles. There are always circumstances arising which, like an imp of Satan, tempt you into expediency and abandonment of principle.

An Interesting Campaign

There can be no question about the statements made by Senator Barry Goldwater.

In his campaign to win the GOP nomination, and in his current and continuing drive to change his address to the White House, Senator Goldwater has many times stated the very kind of truths we have, ourselves, often expressed.

In matters of fiscal responsibility, he has expressed considerable more realism than any man running for the high office of president, within memory. Actually, we would have to go back to the first presidential campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt to find an equally conservative point of view expressed.

In other areas, Mr. Goldwater has been crystal clear. He has opposed medicare; favors a reduction in the constant expansion of social security; is opposed to a continuation of socialism; and at one time even favored withdrawal from the United Nations.

As a result of these statements, Mr. Goldwater has emerged in the minds of many conservatives as the great white hope. He is viewed as a kind of Paladin with the will and the ability to slay the socialist dragon with a single pass at arms.

Thus, there is a very apparent feeling in the ranks of our conservative reformers that problems can be solved or at least reduced to manageable proportions if Mr. Goldwater wins the popularity contest on November 3.

Even if we assume the Goldwater intentions as being on a par with his utterances, we must be less than optimistic of this result. What so many people, conservatives included, fail to keep in mind is the fact that our government is a bureaucracy and that it not only does not follow the lead of the president, in many cases the president may be partly or wholly in ignorance of what the bureaucracy is doing.

A change in the executive department will not bring the drastic reformation that is anticipated. And when Mr. Goldwater is elected, assuming such occurs, he will find on closer acquaintance with the situation that the problems he faces will be far more complex and far less susceptible of solution than even he supposes.

The truth is that solutions to our real problems will have to come from places outside the government. Even though the government can readily be identified as the source of many of the problems, the fact is that a will must exist among the electorate to solve its own problems, rather than to expect the government to solve the problems. This will is not apparent. On the contrary, Goldwater's emergence as the rider on the white horse of purity and hope, has increased the confidence across the land that Goldwater, if elected, can and will solve the problems within the government.

Still to be achieved is the climate of self-reliance; of independence FROM governmental dependency. The more successful Goldwater might be in accomplishing his reforms, the more likelihood of an increased feeling of trust and confidence in the state.

There is one note of hope, however, and we must confess to increasing joy as this note continues to be sounded.

The king makers of the East, actually committed to socialist conformity and continuity, have for a long time played at politics with their men in both Democratic and Republican camps. The debacle of their frustration at San Francisco has thus far reflected not only in Goldwater hopes but in a very apparent ineptitude on the part of Lyndon Johnson.

What we see is a shift on the part of Lyndon toward a more conservative position. Apparently what happened in California has unnerved the obvious winner of the yet-to-be conducted Democratic convention.

Of course, the holder of political power in the United States has never been unseated during a period of relative prosperity. And though our "prosperity" of the moment is built on inflated dollars and a government-stimulated false economy, it is unlikely that Mr. Johnson can be defeated IF he sticks to his accustomed socialist guns.

But the popularity of Goldwater, which has upset many of the pollsters, commentators and others, is causing some backing and filling among Democrats. Their calls for more spending in the "brave new world" of government domination now have a tired clang instead of an exciting ring. And they know it.

But if they retreat from their entrenchments in an effort to appear more moderate, they may well lose out entirely. It appears for the first time that a truly interesting presidential campaign is under way.

These Days

An America Built On Mobility

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

LOS ANGELES, Calif. —When Goldwater, in his acceptance speech at San Francisco, said that in his ideal America "all who can, will be self-reliant," he risked a revival of the charges of hard-heartedness that were flung at him after his talk to the Economics Club of New York. Nevertheless, there is a good argument that government intervention of the type that is being contemplated in anti-poverty legislation only serves to "institutionalize" a chronic state of unemployment.

The argument can't be proved statistically, for it involves a comparison of two kinds of future, neither of which has yet happened. But let's take a western ghost town, for example, and see where we go from there. When a silver mine is worked out, the people who made their livings from it could be subsidized under some form of "area redevelopment" to remain on the premises. It would seem that this would constitute a frontal attack on poverty. But Oscar W. Cooley, an economist who has written a book, "Paying Men Not to Work," which will be published some time next month by the Caxton Printers of Caldwell, Idaho, insists that the act of subsidizing a ghost town — or any laggard region — must be paid for by capital that could be used more productively elsewhere.

Since Mr. Cooley's argument is theoretical, it does not commend itself to legislators in Washington, D.C., who depend on their constituents staying put in the old home town. Congressman Whalley of Western Pennsylvania, for example, might want to see his supporters re-employed where they can continue voting for him. It's only human to think of people in terms of the homes they already own, the employment they have always had, and the associations they have developed over the years.

America, however, was built on mobility. Coming back to California after a long absence, one is forcibly reminded of it with every new vista. Those acres of artichokes at Castroville at the end of the Salinas Valley weren't there when I lived here last. Culver City has long since given way to Hollywood as the movie capital.

The orange and walnut groves that I knew as a boy are real estate developments interconnected by the terrifying freeways which feed workers into urban businesses. The electronics and airplane manufacturers are a new breed.

Mr. Cooley's theoretical argument that mobility will take care of things if men are not over-subsidized to stay becomes clothed with reality if one looks at the new offshore oil and gas industry in Southern California. Old abalone divers are now working with Jon Lindbergh, son of pioneer flyer Charles Lindbergh, in the exciting business of capping offshore oil and gas wells some four hundred feet under the sea. Gas is piped from several miles out in the ocean to fuel whole communities.

It was only a month or so ago that I was tramping around some worked out bituminous strip mines in western Pennsylvania. Stripping coal with the new machinery has put many out of work. But Pennsylvania's loss has been the offshore oil industry's gain. And the people who continue to pour into California are evidence that mobility is constantly at work to make forced "area redevelopment" a momentary thing.

The book written by Mr. Cooley — and significantly delivered to a western publisher — is an eloquent plea to let capital go to where it can create optimum production. If it is tied up in an effort to drive the spooks out of ghost towns, it will not be available to provide the cables needed to pipe the Dodger games into millions of California homes by closed-circuit TV.

Anyway, as Mr. Cooley shows, no area declines for very long. Mr. Cooley mentions a thriving mushroom farm located in an abandoned coal mine in Preston County, West Virginia. He mentions the new chemical industries based on huge rock salt deposits in the Upper Ohio River Valley. He mentions the Western Electric Company's decision to locate a plant in Lawrence, Massachusetts, to make use of the finger dexterity of people who once worked in textile mills.

The illusion that Washington, D.C., must take care of everybody vanishes as one reads of example after example of this sort of thing.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 555: "If no person, group, or government stole, how could there be murder, adultery, or false witness?"

Answer: Stole is the past tense of steal and steal means to get something that another person honestly owns without his consent by threats of force or the use of force or fraud or deception.

From that definition it is hard to see how anyone could bear false witness or interfere with the marriage contract and not do injury to one of the parties.

But from the beginning of time, most people have believed that stealing is right if it is done by the divine right of kings, the divine right of the majority or their elected representatives. It completely violates the most important sentence in the Declaration of Independence —that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed. When people get things on a voluntary basis with the consent of those from whom they secure what they want, both the seller and the buyer are benefited. That is anything but stealing.

No, it is hard to see how there could be violation of man's relation to man if no person, group or government stole.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

DISCRIMINATION

To the Editor:

There is so much said these days about discrimination against the Negroes. Why isn't there anything said about the discrimination against a person over even 45 years of age? If one reaches the age of 55 they may as well be dead. It matters not one bit what their qualifications are with reference to the job. The company will not even grant an interview. Besides that, if one (in this city) isn't an ex-service man, he surely hasn't a chance.

About five years ago my husband took early retirement from a very responsible position back East for health reasons. We find that the only openings are in the sales field where there are already too many salesman for one to make a living. Awhile back through an agency he was told of an opening in the utilities company here (he has had experience in that line) but when the agency contacted the company and was told his age, they wouldn't even grant an interview.

Companies say they want men who are experienced, dependable, etc., but DO THEY? They seem to want young men, many times so young they do not have adequate experience to really do a good job. Besides that, the younger men often have an intention of staying with the job only until something they like better, comes along.

My husband has a record of 31 years' seniority with one company, yet with all that experience he is turned down over and over because of his age. Wouldn't you call that discrimination? I am sure there are many others in the same position.

Shouldn't the governments from city to U.S. look into it, as well as only considering the plight of the Negroes who seem to think they are the only ones who are discriminated against? We happen to be white.

A BETTER PERSON

To the Editor:

My goal is to leave this world a better place because I was here. If it is no more than living the concept of freedom to set an example, I feel it will have been worth the struggle. If each day I do more to make myself a better person, I must widen my horizon. I must increase my depth of reason. It isn't the top rung or the bottom rung that is so important. It is the upward: all the successes and failures molding an ever-increasing strength of character; building a living philosophy which will withstand the test of application to life.

I feel that one must strip from his life the dogma of socialism which is rapidly saturating our moral fiber.

I have a good feeling after each day's work knowing I have done a better job than I did the day before. I like doing a good job. I feel this is close to happiness to know you can earn your bread by working and doing it well. Just think, this can be done without socialism. Since I don't belong to a union, I can do all the work I want without the danger of losing my job because of over-production. My boss even pays me a good salary. I like this because it shows he likes my work. In fact, if I can increase the margin of profit by doing even better work, he might pay me more.

If you can show me a better attitude toward working, I am all ears. I do not think this attitude can be put into practice in a unionized work system. I know if I were an owner of a business I would like to get all the workers on my payroll I could that practiced this attitude. It is my responsibility to do work within the framework of freedom and to make my boss a profit and strive to increase this margin — to build up his good name. This is my job as a worker.

GREATEST COVERAGE

To the Editor:

All of the organizations and individuals operating in the areas of welfare and security for the people of this region, are fortunate indeed to have the facilities of the Gazette Telegraph at their disposal.

The volume of its news space and its circulation enables those involved in the numerous private welfare and security programs free access to the greatest possible publicity coverage. A casual look at the space allotted to private enterprisers in the business field would indicate more columns of space in proportion than newspapers in larger cities.

I want to thank you on behalf of the organizations and projects in which I have an active association, and especially at this time for the coverage given to the American Legion junior baseball program. Many columns have been used to report the weekly schedules, games and standings.

Then there is the publicity given to the building and dedication of our new M. C. Myers playing field. It has enabled us to more fully inform the general public on the contributions of many wonderful community minded citizens, many of whom are not members of the American Legion.

Taking all things into consideration this, our community, must be one of the best cities in the world. It is the individual citizens that make a city good or bad. We must have a large contingent of extra special ones. Needless to say, the media communications offered by the Gazette Telegraph have greatly assisted in creating the city's image both to the citizens and to the many visitors.

Speaking for myself I want to thank you for the space allotted on the editorial page for me to communicate my thoughs to my friends and acquaintances.

One-Man Sub New Gimmick For Boaters

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

These new submersibles, manufactured by a German firm, have been the hit of recent boat shows in Europe. Sales have been so successful, the firm said, that it plans to produce a two-person model in 1965.

The one-man underwater craft is constructed of ⅛-inch fiberglass, is 9 feet, 10 inches long and has a beam of 2 feet, 3 inches. From top of conning tower to keel, the 882 pound craft is 4 feet, 5 inches.

Known as the LM 64, the submersible is powered by a 24 volt, direct current motor which draws its current from two 12 volt batteries. Another 12 volt motor supplies power for air-regeneration equipment.

Battery capacity is sufficient for a cruising time of about four to five hours, according to the manufacturer. There are two forward and one reverse gears and cruising speed is approximately 8 miles per hour on the surface and 6 miles submerged.

For trimming, submersion and emergence, the craft work on the same principle as U.S. Navy submarines, using buoyance chambers, motor thrust, elevator control, and compressed air.

"Driving the sub is as easy as driving a car," claims the manufacturer who also envisions a multitude of commercial uses for the craft, such as inspection of underwater parts of bridges and ships, underwater photography and marine research.

Safety devices include automatic equipment which limits submersion to 98 feet and two exterior ballast weights which can be released from inside the boat.

One of the biggest problems facing boatmen is protecting wood from the fungus which causes it to rot when damp.

Most boatmen frown on creosote because of its strong, lingering odor and its adverse effect on paint adhesion. The Mercury outboard people point out that there are many other preservatives available, however, from which the odor disappears in a short time, and which not only don't effect paint adhesion but often increase it.

The same preservatives are useful for treating rope used for seasonal moorings which in some waters can be literally eaten up by marine life in a few months.

For example, on Long Island Sound boating authorities estimate that untreated mooring lines can be reduced in strength by 40 per cent in one season by marine life and weather exposure.

Many of the same preparations used on wood and rope can be used to treat canvas cockpit covers, navy tops, duffel bags and similar items to protect them from mildew.

The Harmsworth Trophy, defaulted by Canada for failing to defend it against an American challenge tendered by the Yachtsmen's Association of America, will reside on British soil for the first time since speedboat king Gar Wood of Detroit won it in 1920. The trustees of the trophy have recalled it to the Royal Motor Yacht Club, making it an international trophy without a country.

Pravda Issues New Blast Against Mao

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda charged the Red Chinese today with turning their backs on Communist doctrine by promoting nationalism and racism.

The page-long article in the Soviet Communist party paper was the latest of a series in the Soviet press designed to expose inconsistencies in Chinese policy toward world questions.

TENNIS "LOVE"

The term "love" used to mean zero in a tennis match comes from the French "l'oeuf" meaning "egg" or "zero." When tennis was introduced into England from France, the term came with the game but was spelled "love."

Looking at Hollywood

3 FOOT 10 DYNAMO SEEKS TO BE GIANT AMONG ACTORS

HOLLYWOOD — Thoreau asked, "Shall a man go hang himself because he belongs to the race of pygmies, and not be the biggest pygmy of them all?" . . . . Well, a Greek named Philates, who was so small he had to carry weights in his clothes to anchor him against the wind, became tutor to Ptolemy II of Egypt. And counselor to Charles I of England's Queen Consort Henrietta in her numerous intrigues was the 18-inch-tall Jeffrey Hudson of Rutlandshire, who fought two famous duels, one with a turkey cock, the other with a full-grown wiseguy named Crofts, who showed up with a squirt gun and was dropped dead with a bullet in his heart for a bad joke . . . . . Now comes Broadway's Michael Dunn taking his place in the little-giant tradition by virtue of a reputation won on equal terms with mormal-sized men at one of our most competitive sports — dramatic acting. Currently holding down one of the star roles in Stanley Kramer's "Ship of Fools" at Columbia, he's 3 foot 10, 6 inches taller than Barnum's Tom Thumb, weighs 76 pounds, and is 29 years old.

MISTER MICHAEL, as he's called by the children working in the picture, who are mad for him, was the dramatic surprise of Broadway last season in "The Ballad of the Sad Cafe." Before that he surprised night club habitues as a singer; and before that was the pride of Miami in Florida, where he earned a scholarship and edited Temp, which that year got the Sigma Delta Chi award as best college magazine in the land . . . He was once a postulant for the lay brotherhood in a Capuchin Francisan monastery. As a child he was a piano prodigy. He gave up hope of a concert career when the bone affliction he was born with crippled his elbows . . "That, he told me, "was when I took up singing."

HOLLYWOOD'S MOVIE midgets want him to join their Little Men's Protective association. He goes to their houses for dinner, but declines to join their club because of a determination to confront the big men's world on its own terms, alone. So far it has worked . . . . "Some day," he said without batting an eye, "I'm going to play 'Richard III'." It was the look on my face that made him grin. While I was still digesting that, he said: "I'm also going to play Iago in 'Othello.' Why should I limit myself to parts that are written down to my size? I'm going after those I have to climb up to. Shouldn't every actor?"

MICHAEL WAS BORN with progressive chondrodystrophy, of normal-sized parents, in Shattuck, Okla., grew up in Dearborn, Mich., and was giving piano recitals while still in grade school. He went on to the University of Michigan, but in his first semester was caught in an out-of-the-classroom rush and knocked down a flight of stairs. He was in the hospital three months, went on to the Florida university as a major in political science, won that scholarship, then the journalistic prize. After graduation he sang in night clubs coast to coast. . . . "When I'd first come on," he recalled, "people would take a look at what was standing under the microphone, and expect me to clown it. I had to make them forget my size, so I'd try to project an image with my voice. . . . . Acting, I do a little differently. In some scenes I try to generate something that makes the character 'grow' before their eyes." . . . . If you saw him as the dwarf who held the balance of power in the battle of the sexes between the Amazon (Colleen Dewhurst) and her bully-boy husband (Lou Antonio) on Broadway, you know what he means. The fury he worked up night after night during the fight to the finish was a sight to behold. To conserve his energy, he was carried to the theater.

IN "SHIP OF FOOLS" he does a scene with Lee Marvin, who's cast as a slipping baseball player. They're drinking together and Marvin weepingly confesses the tragedy of his life — he could never hit a curve ball on the outside corner. Then our philosopher analyzes his case, showing him the folly of the complex he's never been able to overcome. Marvin stares at him a moment, then blurts: "You know what I think? I think you're a sawed-off intellectual." . . . . Which is one way of summing up Mister Michael himself, on whose shoulders descends the mantle of Philates, Jeffrey of Rutlandshire, yes, and the sawed-off Tolouse-Lautrec — each in his own time and field "the biggest pygmy of them all."

Australia Protests Meat Repudiation

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia has sent a stiff note to the U.S. government on the Senate's approval of legislation repudiating the Australian-American meat agreement.

Informed sources said the note pointed out that cancellation of the agreement would have a potentially serious effect on relations between the United States and Australia.

The sources said the note also reminded the U.S. administration that negotiations on agriculture were an integral part of the Kennedy round of talks in Geneva and abrogation of the meat agreement could have widespread repercussions on the success of those negotiations.

The legislation, which now is awaiting action by the House of Representatives, would reduce quotas on imports of beef and other meats to counter a decline in prices of domestic products.

House of Commons Has Long Session

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons sat all night for its longest session of this Parliament. The session lasted 18 hours and 26 minutes, four minutes short of the longest sitting in the past 10 years. Only 12 members were still in the House when it adjourned at 8:40 a.m.

The debate officially was on what t do with public funds set up by George III in 1787. By tradition it is the one occasion when members can talk on any subject they wish.

Sea Hunt Star Lloyd Bridges Stays Submerged

By JOAN CROSBY

For four years, he swam around in a diving lung making 156 episodes of Sea Hunt, a highly successful syndicated series. Then the show stopped production and Bridges became a regular on network television with an anthology series, The Lloyd Bridges Show.

But that show was not a success ("I guess Richard Boone and I have proved that there is not much chance for an anthology series to be a hit on television," he smiled), so Lloyd spent the next season making guest appearances on other people's shows.

He has an interest in a Sea Hunt exhibit at the Travel and Transportation Pavilion at the New York World's Fair. His voice narrates the show, which consists of three skindivers—a good guy, a bad guy and a beautiful girl—one personable rubber octopus.

"These swimmers do a pretty realistic version of a typical Sea Hunt show. Mike Nelson is searching for treasure, and he meets a girl, an octopus and a villain." Bridges paused and smiled. "That's the kind of plot I used to fight against when I was doing the show. I thought we could do scientific and education shows which were also entertaining. But the sponsor wanted straight adventure. I can't blame them. Trying to be too artistic on television is a mistake. Viewers want to see physical action which is relaxing. If they want deeper entertainment, they will go someplace else.

"It's just that always finding a beautiful girl skindiving was so coincidental. The girl's father was always an oceanographer, but he wasn't in the water, she was."

Meanwhile, back at the underwater ranch, Ivan Tors, who produced Sea Hunt, is producing a highly promising new underwater series aimed at a family audience. Flipper, based on the MGM movie of the same name, as well as the sequel movie "Flipper's New Adventure," is scheduled to be telecast in color over NBC at 7:30 (EST) Saturday nights.

Luke Halpin, Brian Kelly and Tommy Norden costar in this series with a dolphin. And Tors, whose smiling face hints that his troubles are minimal, says he really is dealing with a group of temperamental actors.

"Not the humans, the fish. We have six dolphins, although we use only one. They are creatures that need a lot of affection, especially when they are taken away from the school. When they get affection, they are delightful, playful creatures. But if I go into a tank and pet one of them, and don't repeat the procedure with all of them, they get tempermental and sulk."

Tors became interested in underwater television shows the first time he went scuba diving. "I was so captivated, particularly when fish came by to see me, that I thought if I could translate what I felt to film, I would have something good."

He is Hungarian by birth, married to actress Constance Dowling, and the father of three children, described as "an 8-year-old zoologist, Steven; a 7-year-old scoundrel, Peter and a 3½-year-old archaeologist, David. He digs up the garden."

Soviets Plan Not to Pay for U.N. Operation

MOSCOW (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today the Soviet Union apparently is sticking to its decision not to pay the $52.6 million it owes for U.N. peacekeeping operations.

Thant discussed the matter Tuesday and Wednesday with Premier Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I did not get the impression that the Soviet government is prepared to change its policy on this matter," Thant said.

He said his talks had covered wide ground — the future of the United Nations, the financial situation, disarmament, Southeast Asia and the Caribbean.

"Mr. Khrushchev is sincere in his desire to strengthen the United Nations. He wants to see it develop into an effective instrument for the maintenance of peace. But his approach to the problem is different from that of some other member states," Thant said.

PROTESTANT WRITES ON JUDAISM

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Judaism is in need of an ecumenical movement," says the noted Protestant church historian, Martin Marty, in an article in "Conservative Judaism," periodical of the Rabbinical Assembly.

Like Protestants, Jews "dissipate many energies in a denominationalism that is little lauded by the clientele, hardly understood by the outsider, and not always true to its own theological and practical intentions," Marty wrote.

Driver Guilty of Failure To Obey Railroad Signal

Judge Allan Asher Wednesday in Municipal Court found Henrietta Harding, 57, 512 Black Forest Rd., guilty of failing to obey a railroad signal but congratulated her on being alive.

Mrs. Harding was cited April 28 when her car was struck by a Rock Island Railroad switch engine in the 2500 block on Templeton Gap Road.

Testimony by Patrolman Charles Jackson was that the woman was driving east on Templeton Gap and was within 10 feet or so of the tracks when she heard the bell ring but observed no flashing red signals. She told Jackson, he testified, that she saw the engine about a quarter of a mile away and continued on when the impact occurred.

Jackson said a test was made following the accident and the bell and red lights worked in proper order. Mrs. Harding maintained the red lights were not on.

"You knew the train was coming, didn't you?" Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac asked Mrs. Harding who replied she did. "Then how do you account for the train getting to the intersection before you did?" Isaac asked. Mrs. Harding said she couldn't.

Judge Asher levied a $10 fine against the woman, who was defended by Jack Agee, and congratulated her on being alive.

David Epperson, 19, of Security, was found guilty of speeding and was fined $15. The youth's defense was that he was driving an English car "that goes by kilometers not miles," although he said his car's dash read "miles."

Epperson also said Patrolman Robert Hapke treated him like he was a juvenile delinquent, and "jumped on" him for standing too close to him, and ordered him to take his hands from his pockets.

Hapke said the youth went through the radar in the 1400 block of Pikes Peak Avenue in excess of 40 miles an hour and it was necessary to chase him to the 2000 block to issue the citation. He said the youth got out of his car, approached him from the rear, with his hands in his pockets. Hapke said neither he nor any other officer allowed this, for fear a person was reaching for a gun.

Judge Asher pointed out to Epperson that policemen have to be careful, and recalled an incident a decade or so ago when a local officer was shot and killed when he stopped a speeding driver.

Charges of reckless and careless driving were dismissed against Ernest Wilson, 39, 912 S. Royer St., because of insufficient evidence given by the complainant, Jerry Cox of Ft. Carson.

Alan Eikelburber, 18, 1814 Francis Pl., was allowed to change his plea to innocent of a reckless driving charge and had Aug. 20 set for his trial. Ella Lujan, 25, 535 Asburg Pl., pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $35 plus given a 10 day driving suspension.

A $20 bond was ordered forfeited by Linda Shields, 24, 2803 N. Hancock Ave v who failed to appear in court on a school light violation. Chester DuBois, 47, of Bozeman, Mont., had a $15 bond ordered forfeited on a speeding violation.

Fines of $25 each were levied against four men who pleaded guilty to drunk charges. They were Louis Aleman, 29, 925 S. Nevada Ave.; Cleo Archuleta, 34, 1809 W. Sheldon St.; Leo Martinez, 33, 15 W. Costilla St., and Charles Nix, 31, 320 S. Institute St.

Louis Dunn, 28, who said he was on his way to Oregon, pleaded guilty to being drunk and was given a 10-day jail sentence.

Japan Does Not Object to U.S. Bases

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Hayato Ikeda told the new U.S. high commissioner to the Ryukyu Islands today that Japan has no objection to U.S. military bases on Okinawa because they "are an important element in maintaining world peace."

But both Ikeda and Foreign Minister Etsusaburu Shiina stressed to Lt. Gen. Albert Watson II that Japan feels the United States should grant the Okinawans more autonomy in civil affairs.

Three Children Drown on Lake Boating Outing

FAIR HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Three youngsters on a boating and swimming outing in the Anchor Bay area of Lake St. Clair drowned Wednesday when they leaped gleefully from a cabin cruiser, despite warnings. A fourth child was saved. None could swim.

The victims, Enrique Burgos, 8, his brother, John, 6, and Raphael Aquino, 11, were among 43 youngsters from Holy Trinity church in Detroit.

"No one was to blame," said Msgr. Clement H. Hern, pastor of the church. "It was just one of those terrible accidents that happen."

The group had been invited for an outing by the Anchor Bay Lions Club and the New Baltimore Civic Club.

"This was an especially happy outing," said Lucy Zarate, president of the Holy Trinity Mother's Club, which had provided 14 adults as escorts. "Many of the children had never been on a boat before and had never got the chance to go swimming."

The tragedy occurred shortly after nine cabin cruisers had returned to the beach after taking the children for a boat ride. Most of the youngsters were already frolicking in the water when the three boys jumped from a late returning craft into water 12 feet deep.

Booth said he swam back and managed to pull Enrique and Raphael from the water. Booth told the boys to hold onto his back as he swam back to the boat.

Ace Jailbreaker Wins British Libel Action

LONDON (AP) — Alfred George Hinds, ace jailbreaker and self-taught lawyer, won a high court libel action Wednesday against the Scotland Yard detective who helped send him to jail for 12 years.

A jury ruled in effect that Hinds, 47, was innocent of the $100,000 robbery for which he was jailed 11 years ago.

It ordered Herbert Sparks, former chief of the Yard's crack flying squad, to pay Hinds $3,640 for the costs of his suit and court costs which legal sources estimated would come to more than $30,080.

In 1962, Sparks quit the Yard and wrote his memoirs for the Sunday Pictorial. Hinds claimed the articles libeled him because they said not only that he was convicted but that his repeated claims of innocence were bogus.

Sparks contended in reply that the articles were true, and that in any case Hinds' reputation was worthless.

"My vindication has come from a jury, not the judiciary," said Hinds after the verdict. "Now I shall press for my conviction to be quashed."

Then, after a cup of tea with his wife, he went back to London's Pentonville jail. He still has 74 days of his sentence to serve but is allowed out on parole during the day to work as a carpenter.

Tobacco Profits Given To Goldwater Coffers

VIDALIA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign coffers benefited to the tune of $182.50 when the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market opened.

Farmer Frank Moore, 35, sold 146 pounds of tobacco in Goldwater's name Wednesday and said the money would go to the senator's presidential campaign.

Jamboree All Over Except Memories for Troop 41

By STEVE BLAKE

Boy Scout Jamboree Reporter

It's all over except the memories for all the members of Troop 41. The Jamboree ended officially last Thursday night with the closing show in the arena in Valley Forge, Pa.

At the show that night we saw a little history repeated, some current history, and a reminder of history to come. The current history was President Johnson and in his speech to us, he said he believed a few future public servants such as senators and maybe a president would come from the Boy Scouts and possibly from the 50,000 boys gathered before him.

He also reminded u tshat background means nothing when he said it was possible for anyone from "a farmer from Illinois" to "a Boston boy and Harvard man" to become President of the United States.

A hint of the future campaign and election showed up in the form of a light airplane towing a banner that read "Goldwater '64." Before President Johnson arrived this airplane developed an escort and was soon lost from view, which may have been a wise idea anyway because of the fireworks and the 21 - gun salute for President Johnson that would have been effective anti - aircraft fire.

The show and the Jamboree ended with the traditional candle - lighting and rededication to the Scout ideals. Those who saw the closing show at the 1960 Jamboree in Colorado Springs were impressed by it and those who saw this one were also impressed because a hillside covered with over 50,000 lighted candles is a beautiful sight.

The next day, Friday, while 80 per cent of the troops at the Jamboree moved out to go home, our troop took a hike to General Washington's Valley Forge Headquarters. This took us all morning and during the hike we saw most of Valley Forge and where most of the soldiers were positioned. During the hike we also attended a slide lecture on why Washington chose Valley Forge as a winter camp.

Friday afternoon was devoted to the beginnings of breaking camp. We started by taking down the Pikes Peak Council sign and by dinnertime the only thing left to do was to take down our tents and roll up our sleeping bags.

After dinner the troop left for the arena where some entertainment had been lined up for those left in camp. The first half of the show was live local talent and some of it was very good while some of it wasn't so good. The second half was on film and for the rest of the evening we saw a cartoon and two Walt Tisney movies, "Pecos Bill" and "The Living Desert." Just as the cloudburst was occurring on film it started to rain at the Jamboree so we left and went to bed.

Saturday morning it was still raining and the rain brought with it several problems: for instance, how to eat breakfast on a table that had far overhead protection, rain clouds and what to do with personal gear of 40 boys when the only place to store it was out in the rain.

The first problem was solved when half ate in their tents and the other half just got wet. Personal gear was stored in the headquarters tents. Soon everything that was to travel separately from the troop was packed and shipped so we killed time by sitting or just wandering around.

Lunch was just a normal picnic lunch for everyone except one patrol who, due to the confusion, wound up with enough food to feed a troop. They ate and ate and could hardly move when it came time to board the bus to the trains. As we left Valley Forge I noticed a faraway look in the eyes of many. Memories possibly?

After we ate dinner we settled down for the long trip to Chicago. Many had books and were reading them. Those who weren't reading were engaged in a raisin fight or trying to sleep. Finally everybody got tired of reading or throwing raisins and went to sleep.

The next morning in Chicago, because of the local church schedule, we held our own service in a quiet corner of Union Station. After the service we were given some free time until we had to board the buses for lunch at McCormick Place, the world's largest convention hall, and then for the baseball game between the White Sox and the Twins. It was a good game and we had a lot of fun watching it because it ran extra innings. We didn't see the finals.

When we got back on the train for the last leg of the trip home we discovered the air conditioning in the car we came out on wasn't working again. Monday morning before we arrived, most of the goodbyes were said and we realized that perhaps none of us would meet again after we had gone our separate ways. All in all it was a great trip and I'm sure we all are taking away with us many memories.

Goodbye, and it's been a pleasure to bring you the Sixth National Jamboree.

Eastern States To Be Prime Vote Battleground

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater appear to be preparing to make the Eastern industrial states a prime battleground in the election campaign.

Johnson signaled his intentions with Wednesday's selection by the Democratic arrangements committee—at the President's suggestion—of liberal Sen. John O. Pastore of Rhode Island as keynoter for the party's Atlantic City, N.J., convention which opens Aug. 24.

Goldwater told a news conference in announcing that Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will be host at a GOP summit conference at Hershey, Pa., next month that he intends to campaign in the northeastern states.

"I don't buy the argument said.

Johnson's choice of Pastore, an exponent of the administration's advocacy of civil rights and social welfare legislation, to state the party's case seemed likely to jolt further the support for the President in the South.

The arrangements commmittee countered this by naming Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia, who has predicted the Johnson ticket will carry his state, as chairman of the convention rules committee. This put a Southerner in a key spot.

The North Carolina Democratic senators, Sam. J. Ervin Jr. and B. Everett Jordan, announced they planned to work for the Democratic national ticket.

Ervin said, "I long ago formed the good habit of voting for all Democratic nominees from president down to constable. I have always spoken for the Democratic ticket and I will certainly do that this year."

Jordan said, "I was elected as a Democrat and I'm not going to start picking and choosing on the ticket now. The people of North Carolina have a lot to be thankful to the Democratic party for.

"Mr. Goldwater is against farm price supports, and if these were knocked out, North Carolina would be in bad shape."

Pastore, who worked closely with Johnson when the latter was Democratic leader of the Senate, summed up his position this way: "I see eye-to-eye with the President on his program."

Goldwater's choice of Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss and former national party chairman Leonard W. Hall, a New Yorker, as members of a steering committee that will map strategy brought two veterans of industrial state politicking near the top of his campaign organization.

Doors Kept Open for JFK Memento Show

CHICAGO (AP) — Doors were kept open past midnight Wednesday to admit crowds lined up to see the John F. Kennedy memento collection on its last day in Chicago.

A spokesman announced that 92,000 persons saw the exhibit during its seven days in Chicago, bringing the attendance total in 11 cities to 585,000.

BURGLARY REPORTED

MONTE VISTA (UPI)— The Arapahoe Supermarket at Monte Vista was robbed of $3,000 in cash and an equal amount in checks early Wednesday. Store officials said entry was made through the front door. The burglars apparently spent 15 minutes breaking into the safe.

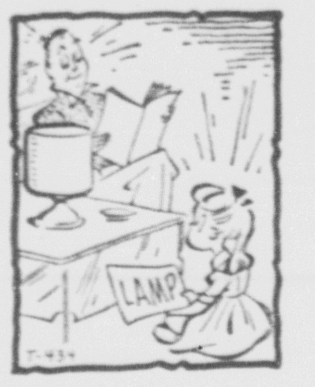
WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.



Notice Colleen's excitement at the supermarket. She is a keener observer of her surroundings because of the reading games her daddy has used with her at home. So her wits have been whetted and she should rate higher in reading skill when she enters school. Send for the booklet below.

By George W. Crane
Ph. D., M. D.

"Oh, Mother," Colleen exclaimed excitedly, "there's an 'A' " and she pointed to a sign saying "Apples for Sale."

Colleen's daddy is a Canadian physician who has decided to test the new ideas in teaching youngsters how to read.

So he has printed the names of the various household articles and then has scotch taped the names thereon.

Thus, Colleen sees the word "chair" pasted on a chair and the word "table" on the tabel, etc.

Her daddy relies on the fact that children are very receptive to what they see during those pre-school years.

If her daddy holds up the card with "chair" thereon, then she is to take the card and place it on the chair.

"Dr. Crane," you may protest, "is it wise to prod a child so early?

"May he not become bored when he finally enters kindergarten at the age of 5, if he is far advanced in reading skill?"

Those are legitmate questions that are challenging educators.

But as long as reading is presented as a game so that toddlers regard it as great fun, that eliminates the prodding or coercive element.

Reading is the motor of the entire educational machinery and thousands of students fail to finish high school or flunk out of college the first term largely due to poor reading ability.

Besides, a toddler's mind is eager for new ideas so there seems to be no medical or psychological harm in adapting reading games to toddlers if you don't force them or try to keep them too long on any one game.

Several of the great geniuses in both science as well as music were child prodigies at reading and piano playing.

So we may have allowed the most ferteil period in our children's lives to remain relatively fallow by failure to stimulate its reading ability till the age of 5 or 6 years.

This use of cards with printed words thereon, has long been employed with grade schoolers who are poor at reading or arithmetic or spelling. And it can zoom such a child's grades rapidly.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Churches Denounce De Gaulle Proposal

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Far Eastern Council of Christian Churches has condemned President Charles de Gaulle's proposal to neutralize Southeast Asia and Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for total disarmament.

In a resolution adopted Wednesday at the council's fifth general assembly, it said De Gaulle's proposal "encourages the Communists and marks a road of appeasement and retreat and defeat."

The assembly was attended by delegates from the Philippines, South Korea, Japan, Malaysia, India, South Viet Nam, Hong Kong, New Zealand, Australia, the United States and Nationalist China.

Boy Rescued Following 100-Foot Cliff Plunge

Then he slid too far, tumbled down a 200-foot rocky cliff, and landed unconscious on the beach.

When he regained consciousness he was in a helicopter which took him to an ambulance, which took him to a hospital.

JEWS LAUD COUNCIL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Synagogue Council of America at its annual meeting hailed a statement of the National Council of Churches condemning anti-Semitism.

"The relationship that exists between the Jewish and Protestant faith communities speaks well of the efforts of both groups to come to grips with the problems that face them as they seek common service for the good of mankind," the Synagogue Council said in a resolution.

Soviets Launch Another Cosmos Space Probe

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union launched the 36th unmanned satellite in its Cosmos series today, the Soviet news agency Tass said. The satellite carried scientific equipment for further study of outer space Tass said.

The agency said Cosmos 36 made its first revolution of the earth in 91.9 minutes. Its greatest distance from earth was given as 314.3 miles and its closest point 161.8 miles. Its inclination to the equatorial plane is 49 degrees.

"Apart from scientific instrumentation, the satellite carries a radio system for accurate measurement of orbital elements; a radiotelemetric system for relaying to the earth data on the operation of the instruments and scientific equipment," Tass said.
